Bill Giving Dixie Rails Right To Slash Rates Is Approved

Senate Okays Provision Permitting Carriers To Cut If 'Compensatory Return' Is Maintained.

MEASURE EXPECTED TO BOOST INDUSTRY

Plan Added as Amendment to Wheeler-Truman Transportation Act

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP)—The senate approved today a measure which, it was said, would give southern carriers "freedom to reduce freight rates."

Another step in the west-south campaign for lower transportation charges, this provision would authorize railroads, water carriers and truck lines to reduce rates so long as a "compensatory return" was maintained.

The plan was written into the Wheeler - Truman transportation bill as an amendment. The senate amended the bill yesterday to provide for an investigation by the Interstate Commerce Commission looking to the removal of any "unjust or unreasonable or unlawful" rail rates.

Showdown Vote Nears.

The senate also moved nearer to a showdown vote on the transportation bill.

Senator Bailey, Democrat, North Carolina, demanded the measure be withdrawn from the floor and turned over to the commerce committee, which he heads. Bailey produced a statement from Chairman Emory Land, of the maritime commission, saying that farmers were convinced the bill would boost water freight rates and that they felt shippers by water "would be footing the bill for the sole benefit of the railroads."

The measure would subject do-

The next step from pinball games is slot machines, Mayor Hartsfield said last night as he appealed to all citizens to help in a gambling cleanup campaign. The mayor illustrated his speech by describing workings of various slot machines. Above, he is pointing to the old-fashioned type, known as the "one-armed bandit." He spoke at the Central Presbyterian church.

Mayor Asks Citizens To Join War on Slot, Pin-Ball Devices

Hartsfield Warns Gambling Machines Mulct Atlantans of Million Dollars Yearly; Urges Co-operation To Stamp Out Racket Threatening City.

By LEE FUHRMAN.

Mayor William B. Hartsfield last night made a man-to-man appeal to all citizens of Atlanta to join in a law-enforcement campaign aimed at ridding the city of slot machines and pin-ball games.

He charged that 90 per cent of these games are used for gambling purposes and warned that a million-dollars-a-year is being taken from the people in the slot-machine racket which presents a new civic threat.

He outspokenly laid at the door of "decent people" the responsibility for much of what he termed "this evil condition" and defended police officers as only cogs in the law-enforcement machinery.

The mayor addressed a large audience in the school auditorium of Central Presbyterian church following a Wednesday "church night" supper under auspices of the Co-ed Class. The Rev. Stuart R. Oglesby, pastor, introduced him.

The mayor began his disclosures after he placed on the table before him four types of slot machines recently seized in police raids.

"People speak of the underworld as some vague thing," he said, talking in a heart-to-heart

U.S. PAY FOR '37-'38 TAX-FREE IN STATE

Reciprocal Agreement Provides That Levies Begin January 1, 1939.

Federal employes stationed in Georgia will not be required to pay a state tax on their 1937 and 1938 incomes, although notices of assessments have been mailed to them, it was announced yesterday by T. Grady Head, revenue commissioner.

He explained the decision was reciprocal, and was inspired by the federal government's waiver of collection of federal income tax for those years from public employes in the state.

Georgia, he pointed out, would have had to pay out a much greater amount that it would have received from the federal government without the reciprocal agreement.

The state's notices of assessment were sent out after a recent United States supreme court decision that states could tax federal workers' incomes.

Head explained the decision not to collect for the past two years was based on a congressional act approved April 12, 1939, providing both state and federal governments should start taxing each others' employes January 1, this year.

Head said, in an executive order, he was convinced sections of this congressional act prevented collec-

ODUM OUTLINES MEANS OF HELPING SOUTH TO SUCCEED

Refers to 'Overabundance of Youth' in An Address to the Georgia Academy of Social Science.

Means whereby southern youth can obtain a reasonable chance for success were outlined in detail last night to the Georgia Academy of Social Sciences meeting at Emory University, by Dr. Howard W. Odum, of the University of North Carolina.

Referring to the "overabundance of youth" in the south and the need for education and bette opportunity, Dr. Odum listed problems and resources for meeting them.

These, he said, included:

1. Education of the new generation of the south "to sense the meaning of natural wealth and its relation to the living realities of the people and their welfare."

Wider Employment Field.

2. Widening the range of occupational opportunity, through new developments.

3. Training and equipping southern youth "so they may function adequately and in competition with workers everywhere."

4. Acquiring more initial capital for investment so "a reasonable leverage of new and expanded industry suited to the region may begin lifting our economy to at least the beginnings of adequacy and a fair chance."

Dr. Odum placed the task at the doors of universities and colleges and research agencies, state and city educational departments, and co-operative industrial and commercial research.

As to ways of acquiring resources and capacities for such achievements, Odum listed:

1. An improved agriculture and industry.

Increased Investment.

2. Increased investment of southerners of their funds in southern projects and industry.

3. Inducement of northern and western capital to invest in the south.

4. Obtaining federal funds for co-operative public works and public services "and for equalizing opportunity and for seeking parity in agriculture."

5. Grants and endowments which the national foundations may make to scientific research, university leadership and experimental efforts.

Odum declared there also should be specialized programs of science and technology to develop greater uses for farm products and new types of processing and manufacturing; specialized programs to eliminate handicaps, such as freight, tariff and credit rate differentials; and campaigns for increased home consumption of home agricultural commodities.

Source of Opportunities.

Occupational opportunities in the south, Odum said, may come from development of forestry and paper pulp industries, new industries in air-cooling techniques development of steel industries "competent to give the south its millions of rods of adequate fencing," and expansion of the south's special industries in food and feed processes and refrigeration.

Flogged Pastor Defies Kidnapers, Preaches Before Crowd of 600

Defying a mysterious band of men who Tuesday night beat him until his body was black and blue and bleeding, and who ordered him to "leave town by sundown Wednesday," the Rev. Grady H. Kent, pastor of the Church of God at Egan Park, preached last night before an overflow congregation of more than 600 persons.

At the same time, two of his assistant preachers, Fred Evans, 24, and Forrest Williams, 21, both of Egan Park, disclosed they had received indirect threats that they would "get the same medicine."

The Rev. Mr. Kent and the others fervently announced they "will continue to preach no matter what happens."

Evans said he learned from a friend that "he and Williams would be beaten up Wednesday night."

Describing service at the church, Evans said the congregation hears testimonials at about 8 o'clock at night. This is followed by an hour and a half of preaching. Then, "saving of souls" begins, Evans

Once again safe, warm and happy, survivors of the Squalus are escorted by wives and sweethearts to the Portsmouth (N. H.) hospital to recuperate from the gruelling ordeal of 30 hours' imprisonment in a world all their own on the bottom of the sea. Notice blankets—men complained most of the bitter, penetrating cold in the dank submarine.

'All Survivors Now Out,' Falcon Flashes After Fourth and Near-Tragic Trip of Bell Is Ended.

DRAMATIC RESCUE IS FIRST IN HISTORY

Each Steps Into Free Air and Then Quickly Into Decompression Unit.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 25 (Thursday) — (AP)—The United States navy completed early today a major epic of the sea—the perilous rescue of 33 men trapped since yesterday on the ocean floor aboard the submarine Squalus—and the sunken craft was left peopled only by its 26 dead.

Under the giant searchlights of a fleet of mercy vessels, a rescue chamber bearing the last eight men finally was brought to the surface at 12:30 a. m., but only after an escape from a second near-tragedy.

Stuck for 4 Hours.

For nearly four hours, the unwieldy, nine-ton diving bell hung suspended 150 feet below the surface when a hoisting cable jammed.

Men who already had been imprisoned for more than 36 hours in the stale, gas-ridden but icy-cold air of the crippled Squalus were jammed like sardines in the cramped rescue chamber. Only the fact that a hose reaching to the surface was attached to the bell, so that fresh air could be pumped down, prevented acute danger to the trapped men. A second hose also was connected through which stale air could be drawn off.

"Call Survivors Out."

As the bell finally broke the surface on its last tortuous trip, this message was flashed from the rescue ship Falcon:

"Eight men upon fourth trip. All in good shape and all survivors now out."

Thus was completed the roll of the living.

More than 40 fathoms below rested the dead, two of them civilian observers and one an officer—Ensign Joseph W. Patterson, of Oklahoma City. Huie K. McAfee, of East Point, was among the 26 dead.

Will Dive for Bodies.

Even as the final eight were brought out alive, however, the navy's high command gave the order to make the sea give up its dead, and divers prepared to work on into the night in an effort to bring up the bodies of the lost so that the submarine itself might be blown out and raised.

Lieutenant O. F. Naquin, of Alexandria, La., commander of

PROBERS' REPORT MAY CITE TAXES

Arnall Lists 17 Purposes for Which Counties May Place New Levies.

Strong indication that the house economy investigating committee will seek to clarify Georgia's tax situation in its forthcoming report was seen yesterday as Attorney General Ellis Arnall, at the committee's request, outlined the 17 purposes for which counties may levy taxes.

The committee, now preparing its report for the legislature and Governor, has sought detailed information from various state officials concerning the tax structures both of county and state governments.

Arnall's communication to the committee was viewed as possible groundwork for a thorough-going review of the powers of counties and how they may be exerted. The 17 purposes were enumerated as follows:

To pay the legal indebtedness to the county, due or to become due during the year, or past due.

To build or repair courthouses, jails, bridges, ferries, or other public improvements, according to contract.

To pay sheriffs', jailers' or other officers' fees for which the county is liable.

To pay coroners all fees due them by the county for holding inquests.

To pay the expenses of the Family Here Awaits News That Its Hero Son Is Dead

Mother, Sisters of Huie King McAfee, 24, Anxiously Await Official News From Navy Department as Press Reports Youth Is Lost.

By YOLANDE GWIN.

A mother and three daughters waited for Death's official visit last night.

They knew it would come, but they refused to believe their son and brother dead until they had it on the word of Uncle Sam that Huie King McAfee, 24, died a hero on the sunken submarine Squalus off the rock-bound New England coast.

It was a sorrowing family which huddled together before their radios last night for the latest reports on the disaster.

The small, but well-furnished living room, where on so many evenings their hero son and brother had been there with them, was a scene of restlessness. The occupants all tried to bear up under the tragedy and hoped against hope that the zero hour, when Uncle Sam's message is scheduled to come, would not arrive.

The aged mother, Mrs. James T. McAfee, had little strength to combat the flow of circumstances of the past 24 hours. Her daughters comforted her as much as was possible. Neighbors did their part.

As late as 9 o'clock last night the official message was not forthcoming. Only the ominous earlier report—"probably dead!"

Shortly after 12:30 o'clock the press reports carried the fateful news: "All survivors now out."

The name of hero Huie McAfee,

PAROLE BODY GETS FLUKER EVIDENCE

45-Page Brief Submitted as Felon Opens Final Fight To Escape Chair.

New and startling chapters in the strange story of Odie Fluker were laid before the State Prison and Parole Commission yesterday as he opened his last struggle to save himself from electrocution June 9 as the slayer of Eddie Guyol on the night of April 23, 1935, to which there was no witnesses but Guyol's wife.

A 45-page brief, supplemented by a mass of affidavits, was submitted to the state's court of last resort in a plea for mercy which charges that Fluker's conviction and death sentence rest today on a tottering foundation of perjured testimony and corrupt alliances among police officers, bribed witnesses and mysterious payoffs.

BRITISH POWER HIT BY JAPAN IN AMOY

Navy Spokesman Declares Nipponese Will Control International Settlement.

SHANGHAI, May 24.—(AP)—Japanese leaders gave further strong indications tonight of determination to lessen the hold of Occidental powers on foreign settlements and concessions in China.

Friction on this issue was most dangerous at Shanghai and Kulangsu, International Settlement at Amoy, South China, with Britain the chief opponent of the Japanese.

A navy spokesman here said Japan was determined to gain fulfillment of her demands for control of the Kulangsu municipal council.

Japanese marines landed May 12 at Kulangsu and a few days later the three western powers landed naval forces there, each exactly matching the 42 men the Japanese still had ashore.

The navy spokesman said that it had not been decided whether additional Japanese troops would be landed on Kulangsu but that such action was likely if the municipal council continued to refuse Japanese demands.

Relations between Japanese and British forces became tense in the Shanghai region when soldiers of the two powers were landed at Pootung, across the Whangpoo river from Shanghai.

JAPANESE BOARD EUROPEAN SHIPS

SHANGHAI, May 24.—(AP)—Japanese warships were reported to have stopped and boarded a second European ship in 24 hours, halting the French liner Aramis 17 miles northeast of Hongkong late today.

It was understood Japanese naval officers forced the French vessel to stop, sent men aboard and examined the ship's papers despite protests of the liner's officers.

Previously two Japanese destroyers halting the British peninsular Oriental liner Ranpura by firing two shots across her bow not far outside territorial waters of the British crown colony of Hongkong.

Three Japanese officers and two sailors boarded the Ranpura demanding to examine the ship's papers.

Flogged Pastor Determined to Carry On

The Rev. Grady R. Kent, pastor of the Church of God at Egan Park, examines bruises on his arm which he said resulted from a beating Tuesday night by a group of men who kidnaped him and lashed him 30 times with a whip. He was badly injured on other parts of his body.

FLOGGED MINISTER DEFIES KIDNAPERS

said, "and they pray them through."

The Rev. Kent, plaintively quoting scripture while members of his congregation grouped around his bedside yesterday afternoon, told of being kidnaped and lashed by 12 men.

The clergyman exhibited bruises and welts on arms, shoulders, legs and back, which he said were administered by his abductors.

Patrolmen W. C. Tumlin and E. D. West, of Fulton county police, were investigating.

Here is the story told by the minister:

"We had been conducting a revival for the past two weeks. Some of the residents had been complaining that we were holding services too late at night and making too much noise. That's the only reason the men gave for doing what they did to me.

"The meeting Tuesday night was over about 11 o'clock. It was one of the best services of the revival. Many people crowded around the altar.

"Well, after the meeting was over I went down to Joseph Latham's lunch room, on Whipple avenue, to get a sandwich. After I had left the house two automobile loads of men drove up. Two of the men went up on the porch and waited while another threw open the door. They asked my wife if I was there and she told them I was down at the lunch room.

Used Ruse.

"After that they drove on down to the lunch room and two of them came up to the door to ask about me. I stepped out on the porch and they told me there was a lady in the car who wanted to talk to me.

"I went on out to the car and they told me to get in, but I told them I could talk to her from the outside. They told me again to get in the car and shoved me in, warning me that the less I said the better off I would be.

"There were six men in this car—four in the front seat and two in the back, one on each side of me. After we had driven down the road a little way we came upon another car which took the lead.

Started Praying.

"I didn't know exactly where they were taking me. I didn't say anything for a long time. I was praying. They told me to stop praying and pulled my hat down over my eyes and hit me in the face.

"I asked them why they were taking me off. They replied by asking me what I had been doing, and I told them I hadn't been doing anything except preaching and trying to get souls saved.

"As we went through East Point they told me the quieter I was the better. I began praying again and prayed until we got to the other side of East Point.

Lashed Pastor.

"We stopped in a patch of lonely woods. When we got out they told me to pull off my coat. I tried to reason with them, but they wouldn't listen. I pulled off my coat and handed it to one of the men, but he said he didn't want to touch it, and ordered me to throw it on the ground. They also commanded me to take off my trousers.

"Then they began lashing me with whips that seemed to have something on the end that cut into the skin. Two of them held me while the other two beat me. The licks were unbearable. I tried to wrestle free and fell on the ground. They kept on beating me until they had given me about 30 lashes.

"They warned me to get my family out of town by tonight or that would just be a sample of what I would get. But I can tell you right now I intend to stay right on here and preach if it is God's will.

Finds Way Back.

"When they were through whipping me I was paralyzed and bleeding. Then they started back, telling me to go through the woods in the other direction.

"'We just bring them out here—we don't carry them back,'" they said to me.

"I watched the tail lights of the cars as they disappeared and found my way back to the road. I waited for a street car and came on back to Mr. Latham's. But it was about all I could do to get here. It was then about 1 o'clock in the morning.

Didn't Tell Family.

"I have been pastor of the Church of God here since last September. I have a wife and six children. I didn't let them know what had happened last night.

"It was a terrible beating they gave me, but you know we read in the Scriptures that in the last days the magistrates and rulers will deliver us up to be killed thinking they are doing God's will."

U. S. PAY FOR '37-'38 TAX-FREE IN STATE

tion of income taxes by the state from federal employes "on salaries earned prior to January 1, 1939."

Payment Refunds.

All demands for payment already sent federal employes will be withdrawn and payments already made to the state will be refunded, the commissioner said.

The income tax division of the Department of Revenue estimated recently the state would gain from $50,000 to $100,000 annually by taxing federal employes.

FULTON OFFICIALS POSTPONE ACTION ON MANAGER PLAN

Commission Holds Unannounced Conference, But Reaches No Decision on Recommendations.

Fulton county commissioners yesterday pondered two perplexing problems — recommendations of the March-April grand jury and a sheaf of applications for salary raises in the form of "adjustments."

In an "unannounced conference," the commission studied and debated the manifold problem, and then adjourned without taking any action, it was reported.

Frank R. Fling, commission clerk, asserted that another meeting will be held probably next week to continue consideration of the measures. And there were still other reports that this and still other scheduled meetings and unannounced conferences will take place before definite decisions are made.

Among the major recommendations of the lengthy presentments of the March-April grand jury were the following:

1. Administration of Fulton county by a full time county manager.

2. Merger of the tax collecting and tax receiving offices, and the sewer and sanitary departments.

3. A personnel survey to bring county salaries more in line with schedules paid by private business for comparable service.

4. A complete overhauling of the system of handling juvenile delinquets with the juvenile court of Fulton county as the hub of the activity, and a reform of the conduct and objectives of the Fulton County Industrial Farm for white boys, Hapeville.

BAUGHN ADVOCATES COUNTY MANAGER

W. A. Baughn, foreman of the March-April grand jury, yesterday advanced a "good county manager" as a panecea for ills of Fulton county government in an address to the Civitan Club.

He said that as many at 150 lashes were inflicted and that one boy had to walk 128 steps a minuite from 7 a. m. until 5 p. m. for breaking rules of the Fulton County Industrial Farm for white boys, Hapeville.

Baughn also asserted the use of 12 different makes of automobiles by the county should be restricted to four or five of the cheaper makes, and said, when not in actual use on county business, they should be stored in a central garage. He advocated merger of the offices of tax collector and tax receiver.

NAZI AID IN FIGHTING U. S. JEWS OUTLINED

'Untold Thousands' of Pamphlets Inspired in Berlin, Distributed.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP)—George Deatherage, talkative commander of the Knights of the White Camellia, informed the Dies committee today that a "world service" in Germany supplies material to interested organizations here for anti-Jewish and anti-Communist publications.

"Untold thousands" of pamphlets and leaflets of this type are distributed throughout the country, he said, adding that an official of the German embassy once told him there was more anti-Jewish feeling in the United States today than there was in Germany before Adolf Hitler came to power.

In addition, Deatherage told of a trip to Newport, in the course of which he dined on the yacht of Howland Spencer. New York real estate dealer, with Frazier Jelke, a New York society figure, and "young Astor." He explained his program to them, he said, and later Spencer contributed $200 to his movement.

Mild of manner today in contrast with his stormy behavior yesterday, Deatherage said he was convinced that a left-wing revolution fomented by "international Jew bankers" is about to engulf the country.

Chairman Dies, Democrat, Texas, said the committee had expected to receive testimony this week from Major General George Van Horn Moseley, retired, who was mentioned as the "leader" in correspondence between Deatherage and his associates. The general, Dies said, after expressing a willingness to testify, had proceeded to his headquarters at Atlanta instead of coming to Washington.

STATE RESTS CASE IN TORSO SLAYING

Court Hears Confession That Tarquinio Killed Americus Divorcee.

BALTIMORE, May 24.—(AP)—The state late today rested its case against Aurelio Marco Tarquinio after gaining admission into court of a confession tha the steelworker killed his housekeeper, Mrs. Evelyn Rice, and dismembered her body.

Closing arguments began immediately after Defense Attorney Harry Adelberg, who protested vigorously the admission of the confession, announced he too was ready to submit the case to the three judges hearing the trial without a jury. He summoned no witnesses for the defense.

The stocky defendant, charged with murder, went to the stand late in the day

Tarquinio, with many gestures but showing no emotion, testified that he received no promises nor threats from officers who obtained the confession.

J. TOM M'MICHAEL DIES IN DECATUR

Veteran Rail Employe Succumbs to Long Illness.

J. Tom McMichael, 59, Southern railway attache, died yesterday morning at his home, 209 Feld avenue, Decatur, after a long illness.

Mr. McMichael had been in the road's service for about 27 years. He formerly lived at Jackson, but had made his home in Decatur for the last seven years. He was a member of the Pattillo Memorial Methodist church, Woodmen of the World, St. John Lodge No. 45, F. & A. M., and of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

Surviving are his wife; four daughters, Miss Mary Ruth McMichael, Mrs. S. D. Lee, Mrs. David Tarrer and Mrs. Charles Whitaker; two sons, Fred D. McMichael and Thomas F. McMichael, all of Atlanta; three brothers, George McMichael, of Milledgeville; Troy McMichael, of Monticello, and Walstine McMichael, of Atlanta; a sister, Mrs. John Leamon, of Miami, Fla., and three grandchildren.

Services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Trinity Chapel with the Rev. Robert W. Burns and the Rev. E. D. Rudisill officiating. Burial will be in Decatur cemetery under the direction of A. S. Turner & Sons.

SINGERS WILL MEET.

MANCHESTER, Ga., May 24.—The Southwest Georgia Singing Association, of which A. H. Nesmith, of Manchester, is president, will meet in Griffin Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

To Go to Church Meeting

WILLIS M. EVERETT SR.

DR. WILLIAM V. GARDNER.

PRESBYTERY PLANS MEETING TONIGHT

General Assembly To Consider Important Docket at Montreat, N. C.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. (Southern) will convene in 79th annual session at 7:30 o'clock tonight at Montreat, N. C., to consider one of the most important dockets in the history of the church.

Dr. William V. Gardner, pastor of First Presbyterian church, Atlanta, will preach the opening sermon. His subject will be "God at Athens—And Everywhere."

Featuring the program tonight will be the election of a moderator to succeed Judge Willis M. Everett Sr., of Atlanta, who completes his one-year term. The assembly will adjourn after the enrollment of commissioners and appointment of assistant clerks.

Business sessions will be resumed at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. Matters to be considered are the election of a stated clerk and treasurer; consideration of committee reports; reports of trustees and ad interim committees, and the appointment of standing committees.

The assembly will continue through Wednesday.

Commissioners from Atlanta Presbytery and officials of assembly's committees located in Atlanta left for Montreat last night.

NAVY TRANSFERS JAMES CARRINGTON

Tech R. O. T. C. Instructor Ordered to Ship.

Lieutenant James H. Carrington, U. S. N., an instructor in the Naval R. O. T. C. at Georgia Tech, has been ordered to duty aboard the U. S. S. Omaha, now at the Norfolk Navy Yard, Portsmouth, Virginia.

Lieutenant Carrington is a native of Spartanburg, S. C., and was graduated from the Naval Academy at Annapolis in 1925. He has served as instructor with the naval reserve unit at Georgia Tech for the last two and a half years. Before coming to Atlanta he served on the U. S. S. Perry on the west coast.

Ordered to duty at Georgia Tech are Lieutenant George W. Ashford, now serving on the U. S. S. Barry on the west coast, and Lieutenant Wilson S. Heald, of the U. S. S. Boggs. They will report for duty in July.

Neuralgia Relieved in a Hurry

When you have painful neuralgia, or one of those throbbing headaches, you can trust "BC" to give you relief in a hurry.

"BC" is composed of several quick-acting, prescription-type ingredients, carefully blended, that are commonly prescribed by many physicians. These ingredients function together to produce a delightfully soothing effect in the shortest time. If you have never used "BC," please try it and see if it doesn't give you relief in a few minutes. Try it also for muscular aches, simple nervousness, discomfort due to simple head colds or functional periodic pains.

Get "BC" in 10c and 25c sizes (or by the 5c dose at fountains) and make the test for yourself. By comparison, we believe you will prefer it for the relief of pain and discomfort due to functional disorders. (Adv.)

RAIL CONDUCTORS WILL BE HONORED

TEN FEDERAL AID ROAD PROJECTS TO BE LET JUNE 9

Estimated Cost Will Be $613,830; Rivers Okays Plans To Spend Another Half Million on June 2.

The State Highway Department announced yesterday 10 federal aid projects would be let June 9, estimated to cost $613,830.

They were approved by Governor Rivers in the second amendment of his April 4 executive order which halted all state-aid and federal-aid lettings.

In the first amendment, announced last week, the Governor approved projects estimated to cost $500,000, to be let June 2.

One project, in Laurens county, would provide for 6.021 miles of ashphalt paving on the Dublin-Vidalia road, beginning 1,000 feet northwest of Pugh's creek and ending at the Laurens-Treutlen county line.

The other projects announced were:

Wilkes—6.459 miles of stabilizer topsoil base, surface treated and type A wearing course on Elberton-Tignall road, beginning .3 miles from Elbert-Wilkes county line and extending to Tignall. Also a second project in Wilkes, widening 130-foot concrete deck bridge, including raising and extending bridge, on Elberton-Tignall road at Chickasaw creek.

Columbia—4.474 miles stabilized topsoil base and double surface treatment on Harlem-Lincolnton road, beginning in Appling and extending toward Harlem.

Jenkins—6.862 miles of pebble soil base and double surface treatment on Millen-Sylvania road in and near Millen and one concrete culvert extended.

WILLIAMS HEARING SHIFTED TO FULTON

Etheridge's Ruling Transfers Fight To Escape Chair to County Courts.

A long drawn out fight to prevent electrocution of Norman Williams, convicted Elbert county killer, yesterday was transferred to Fulton county superior courts as Judge Paul S. Etheridge set a hearing for July 5.

Etheridge's decision followed a day of argument over whether a habeas corpus petition filed by W. S. Shelfer, Atlanta attorney, in Williams' behalf, should be dismissed on demurrer or heard on its merits. The ruling forced a hearing on merits unless reversed by the Georgia supreme court, a course A. S. Skelton, Elbert prosecutor, who appeared to oppose Williams' petition, indicated he will pursue.

The habeas corpus action included allegations that Williams was deprived of benefit of counsel through negligence of court-appointed attorneys.

Shelfer contended that trial attorneys, Joseph McGinty and Tate Conyers, advised the trial court they would not file an amended motion for a new trial and that as far as they were concerned the new trial motion they had filed could be dismissed and the death sentence executed. He also recited many other acts of alleged commission and omission, which he contended were prejudicial to Williams' interests.

'MAN OF MYSTERY' IS HELD IN TOWER

Unidentified Prisoner Talks Incoherently of 'Flood.'

A "mystery" man who told county police he had "just walked 180,000 miles around a horseshoe," was being held at Fulton tower yesterday.

Lieutenant Jack Carroll took the man in charge late Tuesday night at a service station on Lindbergh drive, because he said the man talked "wildly and incoherently." Though he had no identification on him, the man mumbled the name "L. W. Coran," but gave no address.

He told Carroll that his family was "washed away in the flood."

The lieutenant said he is about 28, dressed in a work shirt and overalls and had not shaved in about two weeks. He is being held on a blanket vagrancy charge while efforts are being made to locate friends or relatives.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Legal 'Clinic' Opens Today

Outstanding Problems of Law Facing Profession Will Be Discussed at Georgia Bar Conclave.

Clinical discussions of outstanding legal problems will engage the attention of 1,200 attorneys in a three-day annual convention of Georgia Bar Association opening here today.

Problems arising from transfer of functions from courts to administrative agencies, questions affecting law enforcement and the contribution of independent lawyers to democracy will be among matters given consideration.

The convention will start at 11 o'clock this morning at the Biltmore hotel. There will be a business session, followed by the address of President Joseph B. Cummings, of Augusta.

An institute will be devoted to an analysis of administrative law, both state and federal. Participating will be Carl McFarland, former assistant United States attorney general; Dr. Ashley Sellers, of the University of Georgia law school now serving as chief counsel of the federal Department of Agriculture, and O. R. McGuire, counsel to the United States comptroller-general.

CARL McFARLAND.

Tye in Charge.

McFarland's address, delivered in the evening, will deal with delegation of authority to administrative bodies. John L. Tye Jr., of Atlanta, will direct the institute.

Also in the evening, the Georgia Prosecuting Attorneys' Association will hold a dinner meeting, at which Attorney General Ellis Arnall will be the principal speaker. There will be a general discussion of "The Problem of Proof as to Other Offenses."

Tomorrow's sessions will be opened with a paper by Orville A. Park, of Macon, on Georgia lands and the Yazoo Fraud Act. He will be followed by Judge William Clark, of the third circuit court of appeals with the annual address in the form of a paper.

Ex-Governors' Symposium.

In the afternoon, at Glenn Memorial auditorium at Emory, delegates will hear a symposium by Governor Rivers and former Governors Slaton, Dorsey, Walker, Hardwick, Russell and Talmadge on "The Importance of the Independent Lawyer in a Democracy." Judge Augustus M. Roan, of DeKalb county, will preside. Scott Candler and Judge James C. Davis will welcome the visitors.

commissioners carries affidavits which charge that:

1. An Atlanta police officer admits that a brother policeman sought to win his aid in a plot to connect Fluker with the crime.

2. An Atlanta police officer admits he was told by an interested person: "Go ahead and help out on this case and I will set you up."

3. Guyol's widow was unable to identify Fluker in a police lineup even though police had dressed him in clothes similar to those she said the slayer had worn on the night of the murder.

4. One of the state's chief witnesses, whose testimony placed the death gun in Fluker's hands, was unable to identify Fluker when he saw him a few months later in Fulton tower.

5. A life-term convict declared he was paid bribes to help connect Fluker with the crime.

6. A police officer declared he was asked to avoid a court summons on the case because, he says he was told: "I understand you are going to throw a monkey wrench into the case."

7. Efforts were made to intimidate witnesses before the grand jury.

8. One witness, after making an affidavit before a clerk of court, was spirited away and has never been seen.

9. A convict, whose testimony was sought against Fluker, was promised better accommodations in the state prison camp if he would "help out."

10. A man who said he was "down and out of money" was approached with an offer of $10,000 if he would "knock off" Eddie Guyol.

Many charges of similar tone are packed into the documents laid yesterday before the prison board.

When Attorney Russell G. Turner filed his plea with the commission yesterday he was given an envelope that had already been filed in the commission's records on Fluker.

To Judge Vivian L. Stanley, of the prison commission, who accepted service yesterday of the Fluker appeal, Attorney Turner expained that all the records submitted to the board have been obtained since the trial. Because of that, none was permissible in appeals to higher courts that have been made in Fluker's behalf. The appeal made on the verdict in the court of Judge Davis, of DeKalb county, who sat in the Fulton superior court in the Fluker trial, had to be confined to the evidence in the trial. Both higher courts sustained that verdict.

Consequently, when the prison commission hears the charges in the appeal filed yesterday, interesting new developments in the four-year-old mystery of the murder of Eddie Guyol are promised.

Government Control of Farm Prices Not Favored by Public, Poll Shows

NEW YORK, May 24.—The American people want the federal government to be responsible for seeing to it that everyone who wants to work has a job.

'PRAYER CRUSADE' BEGINS IN FRANCE FOR FRED SNITE JR.

BORDEAUX, France, May 24.—(AP)—French school children began a "prayer crusade" today for the recovery of Frederick B. Snite Jr., the American paralysis victim on his way to the famous Shrine of Lourdes in his "iron lung."

At Ruffec, between Tours and Bordeaux, the children gathered around Snite's motorcar trailer while he was having lunch. They brought him flowers and prayed for him.

Their teachers said the children had asked permission to start the "crusade" and to urge that it be conducted throughout France.

ACTION EXPECTED ON TAX REVISION

Roosevelt's Attitude in Parley With Harrison, Byrnes Encourages Leaders.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP) Congressional action on a compromise revision of the corporation tax structure appeared to have been hastened today as a result of a conference between President Roosevelt, Chairman Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, of the senate finance committee, and Senator Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina.

There were authoritative reports the President's attitude was such that congressional leaders were encouraged to believe a program calling for removal of so-called tax deterrents to business could be pushed through in the next six weeks with a minimum of opposition.

Acknowledging that taxes formed the major part of the discussion, Harrision said he thought "everything is getting along fine." He declined to elaborate, other than to say that if tax legislation can be obtained in a reasonable time it "may hasten adjournment."

Byrnes, credited with bringing about the meeting in the interest of outward Democratic harmony on an early adjournment, would not comment.

Early Accord With Soviet Predicted by Chamberlain

Prime Minister Tells Commons He Expects Full Agreement Within 2 Weeks.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The nearly two-month-long negotiations with Soviet Russia for a tri-power mutual assistance pact have progressed to the point where a "full agreement" may be announced within two weeks, Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain announced yesterday.

The prime minister made this report to the house of commons yesterday after a two-hour cabinet meeting at which revised proposals of co-operation with the Soviet were approved.

In the long negotiations details of the formation of the arrangement proved a stumbling block, with Russia insisting upon a closer agreement than Britain was willing to offer.

Points Cleared Up.

In his statement yesterday, however, Chamberlain said that "all relevant points of view have been made clear" and that he did not anticipate other points, yet to be cleared up, would "give rise to serious difficulties."

In Paris, the French government, the third power in the proposed agreement, made an optimistic report to the foreign affairs committee of the chamber of deputies.

But in Rome and Berlin the Chamberlain statement was not received with favor. A foreign office commentator in Berlin said it was "an open confession of faith in the encirclement policy" which "preludes further co-operation of the big powers for peaceful solution of existing problems."

Fascists Assail Move.

The Fascist press in Rome said it was merely a continuation of Ethiopian war "sanctions" against Italy and would prove as unsuccessful.

Fascist press spokesmen declared France and Britain were rejecting the "last invitation to collaboration" that was extended them when the Italian-German military alliance was formed.

A French newspaper, Excelsior, reported without official denial or confirmation, that British troops would take part in France's grand fall maneuvers in September.

Shooting in Danzig.

It also was reported from Warsaw that a British military mission had begun conversations there with Polish military leaders on the details of co-operation in event of war. Poland and Britain have exchanged mutual aid guarantees.

Meanwhile, in the Free City of Danzig feeling again became tense when the Free City government protested to Poland that a Polish border patrol had fired at a German truck driver.

The incident was reported as a state funeral was held for a veteran Nazi killed Sunday at Kalthof on the Danzig-East Prussian border by a Pole who said he fired in self dence. Chancellor Hitler sent a huge wreath of flowers to the funeral.

In the far east a Japanese navy spokesman declared Japan was determined to gain satisfaction of her demands for control of Kulangsu municipal council, the International Settlement at Amoy where landing of British, French and United States troops checkmated a landing of Japanese marines.

GOOGE TESTIMONY STARTS SENATORS ON CIO-NLRB PROBE

Dixie AFL Chief Says Board Lawyer Addressed Rival's Meeting Prior to an Election.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP)—Two members of the senate labor committee served notice today that they would search the records of the Labor Relations Board for evidence that the board had been biased in favor of the CIO.

Senators Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana, and Taft, Republican, Ohio, so declared their intentions after George A. Googe, chief southern organizer for the American Federation of Labor, had testified that Lawrence Hunt, a board lawyer, addressed a New Orleans mass meeting staged by Harry Brides' CIO longshoremen's union. The committee is considering a number of proposals to revise the Wagner labor relations act.

Prior to Election.

Googe said Hunt's speech was made prior to a board election to settle a CIO-AFL dispute over which organization should represent longshoremen employed at New Orleans and Mobile.

He offered also to produce witnesses to support a charge that AFL union members who entered the CIO meeting were escorted out by police after Hunt had pointed them out.

Googe touched off a roar of laughter among committee members and spectators when he told Committee Chairman Thomas, Democrat, Utah, he had not invited Hunt to a rival AFL longshoremen's meeting "because we were afraid he would make a speech for the CIO."

Since the AFL finally won the election, Senator Thomas wanted to know what effect Hunt's appearance had on the contest and its outcome.

Cost AFL $60,000.

"Well, the fight cost us $60,000," replied Googe, "and I don't know what effect he had in swaying the 30 per cent of the workers who voted for the CIO."

Googe listed several AFL-CIO elections in which he contended there was evidence of board partiality for CIO, mentioning in particular an election at the Tennessee Copper Company, Copperhill, Tenn. In this case, Googe said, the AFL won the election only to see it set aside by the board and a new ballot ordered after CIO organizers protested that "straw bosses" had influenced the result by referring to CIO Leader John L. Lewis as a "dictator."

The AFL organizer testified that CIO leaders in the Copperhill case were able to "anticipate" board movements and communications.

When the committee asked for his proof, Googe replied that he had none but added:

"I am confident there were plenty of leaks to the CIO out of the board's headquarters in Washington."

Demand Records.

Googe's refusal at one point to name other board agents "because there are some good people in the board whose jobs might be jeopardized" brought a chorus of demands from the committee for board records bearing on the cases cited by the AFL organizer.

The labor board's chairman, J. Waren Madden, told the house labor committee, which is also considering amendments, that he could "see no advantage" in writing into the Wagner act specific penalties against unions or employes for alleged unfair labor practices.

He said existing statutes seemed to afford adequate protection to employers against union violence.

OFFICERS NAMED BY ODD FELLOWS

Atlantans Are Re-elected by Order.

H. J. Bridgewater, of Atlanta, was elected grand patriarch of the Grand Encampment of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows at a session of the annual encampment Tuesday.

Other officers named were Clyde L. Saye, of Athens, grand high priest; Fletcher W. Lair, of Atlanta, grand senior warden; A. P. Snell, of Columbus, grand junior warden; C. B. Guest, of Athens, grand marshal, and T. W. Brown Sr., of Atlanta, grand inside sentinel.

Three Atlantans were re-elected to offices in the order. They were: D. L. Nichols, grand scribe; J. F. Goodwin, grand treasurer, and W. B. Walker, grand representative.

How To Relieve Itching Skin

Don't scratch and claw itching skin. This tends to irritate and spread inflammation, and is dangerous. Skin itching, when due to Scabies, Eczema, Ringworm, Athlete's Foot, Surface Rash, or innocuous insect bites, is soothed by applying Tetterine, a quickly palliative preparation that acts with surprising speed to kill every parasite it contacts and your itching goes galloping away. Recommended too for baby's tender skin. Test it for yourself. 60c at your dealer's or direct from Shuptrine Co., Dept. D, Savannah, Ga. (adv.)

Sorrowing East Point Family Awaits News of Sub

Only official news from the Navy Department in Washington will convince the sorrowing family of Huie King McAfee that he is dead aboard the submerged United States submarine Squalus. Yesterday they sat around their radio in their East Point home for the latest news of the tragedy. Left to right are Miss Beulah McAfee, his sister; Mrs. James T. McAfee, his mother, and Miss Janett McAfee and Miss Ellen McAfee, also sisters.

WORD SON IS DEAD AWAITED BY FAMILY

the East Point boy who gave his life to his country, was not listed among those saved.

"We can't let mother know much about him," said Miss Beulah McAfee. "Her age is against her. Until we know positively that he has gone, we cannot let her suffer."

Another sister, Miss Janett McAfee, said:

"If only we could have a little hope! But how can we? I try to be brave and think that Huie is out and safe, and then I think about the sea he always loved and wonder if he has been drowned down there, when the water flooded the after part of the ship."

The whitehaired mother, who had steeled herself against the worst news of her baby boy, found momentary relief in brief naps in her room, far away from the silent weeping of her family.

"It's the uncertainty that makes it so hard," said Miss Ellen McAfee, another sister. "If we could have a few minutes of peace of mind to know that he is not suffering, we could stand it a little better. We will stand by for news from the Navy Department. Only that will convince us."

Death's only consolation to the family lay in the fact that Huie McAfee loved the sea. He had always wanted to be a sailor. He had always played "going to sea" when a small boy. It was the navy that beckoned soon after he finished school. He got his wish and joined.

Last night it was the sea again. Whether Huie McAfee's life was spared remained in the lap of the gods.

To pay the expenses of quarantine and necessary sanitation.

To pay county police.

To pay for the collection and preservation of records of birth, death, disease and health.

To pay county agricultural and or home demonstration agents, a tax not in excess of $1.50 per $1,000 of taxable property.

To provide for payment of old-age assistance to aged persons in need and for the payment of assistance to the needy blind, and to dependent children, and other welfare benefits: Provided, no person shall be entitled to the assistance who does not qualify for such assistance in every respect in accordance with enactments of the general assembly which may be in effect prescribing the qualifications for beneficiaries with a maximum of three mills in any one year.

To pay for the conservation of natural resources, and fire protection of forest lands.

To provide for medical or other care and hospitalization of the indigent sick people of the county, not exceeding one mill.

In requesting the purposes for which counties could levy taxes, the economy committee also sought to learn how these purposes were limited by law.

The attorney general's explanation of limitations included the following:

"The tax to pay charges for educational purposes in strict compliance with the law is limited to five mills, or $5 per $1,000 of taxable property. However, this county-wide levy does not include whatever tax may be necessary for interest and sinking funds on school bonds.

"The fire protection tax was provided for by ratification of a constitutional amendment in last November's general election after the amendment was passed by the 1937-38 special session of the legislature. The levy is unlimited."

SHRIMP POP FROM GROUND INTO NEW ORLEANS HOMES

NEW ORLEANS, May 24.—(AP) Housewives here were surprised today when they found their homes invaded by shrimp, a tornado sailed a cow 100 yards through the air near Itta Bena, Miss., and the mayor of New Orleans decided to pave streets with tin cans.

Also—the veteran porter of the Civil Courts building was "arrested" for mowing the courthouse lawn.

She shrimp provided the oddest news item when thousands of the tiny reddish brown creatures, of the Mississippi river variety, came up through the ground in an uptown section here and hopped like fleas into homes.

The free-wheeling cow was hoisted by a tornado which struck near Itta Bena at 11:15 a. m. Whirled 100 yards, she calmly resumed operations on her cud after landing.

Mayor Maestri was serious about the tin cans. He plans to salvage them from incinerator plants and garbage dumps, roll them flat and use them for street fillers.

Jim Hathaway, veteran civil courts porter, was placed in charge of a constable after Judge W. Alexander Bahn became annoyed at the sound of his motorized lawnmower on the courthouse lawn. Jim was in "custody" only a few minutes, but his feelings were ruffled more than he could say.

DR. BOLAND DIES; RITES TOMORROW

Well Known in Georgia Medical Circles.

Dr. S. A. Boland, Loganville physician, died yesterday at a local hospital. A native of South Carolina, Dr. Boland was widely known in medical circles throughout the state, having practiced at Statham, Thomson, Jefferson, as well as Loganville. He was a member of the Georgia State Medical Association, Georgia F. & A. M., Scottish Rite and the Loganville Baptist church, of which he was chairman of the board of deacons.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. James W. Carroll, of Sparta; a sister, Mrs. W. W. Fouche, of Greenwood, S. C., and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Loganville Baptist church. Burial will be in a Loganville cemetery under the direction of F. Q. Sammon, of Lawrenceville.

LOAN ASSOCIATIONS REPORT ADVANCES

Assets Show $1,076,880 Increase Last Year.

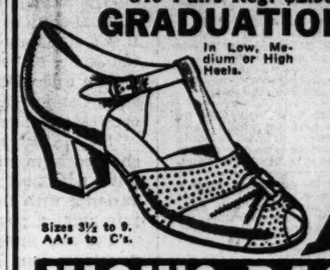

Assets of building and loan associations throughout Georgia increased $1,076,880 last year, it was disclosed yesterday in the annual report of Secretary of State John B. Wilson, who has supervision of building and loan associations.

There are 25 state-chartered associations, with assets totaling $7,473,562 and first-mortgage loans outstanding totaling $6,559,650. In 1938, the associations built 668 new homes, compared with 358 in 1937, the report revealed further.

"It is believed that the increased activity in building and loan associations throughout the state will continue, and that their growth and prosperity will be much greater in the present year," said Secretary Wilson.

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 25, 1939.

Judiciary Reform

The fifty-seventh meeting of the Georgia Bar Association, to be held in Atlanta May 25-27, should be something more than just another annual convention attended by delegates from Georgia's 159 counties. There are far too many opportunities for genuine service to the people to permit this meeting to fall into that common catagory.

The lawyers, some 1,500 of them, who will attend the meeting have not lost sight of this fact. They have placed on the program, among other subjects, an "institute of administrative law." This is the first time, according to Joseph C. Cumming, of Augusta, president, that such an institute has been conducted at a state convention. The mere fact it was placed on the program after a widespread demand from the members of the association indicates an ever-increasing feeling of responsibility by the lawyers toward the people they serve.

Another interesting part of the program will consist of a symposium on "the importance of an independent lawyer in a democracy." The speakers will include six former governors of Georgia and the present chief executive. This portion of the program is deserving of special commendation. An independent lawyer, free from political entanglements and economic commitments, is not only important to democracy but essential to justice and the clients he serves.

There remains, however, one particularly important subject which seemingly will not be discussed. This is the matter of judicial reform —of vast importance to the people. On a few occasions during the past 57 years a number of far-sighted jurists and lawyers, members of the bar association, have been bold enough to point out the need for reorganizing the judicial branch of the state government. This resulted, however, in nothing more than the passage of a few well-intentioned resolutions.

A century ago, members of the bar of England lost sight of the fact the courts had been set up in the interests of the people—not, as some of them thought, for the purpose of providing a meal ticket for the barristers. There was, of course, some talk then, as now, of reform, but the members of the bar were loath to part with or modify what they considered their ancient rights and prerogatives.

As time went on, however, the people became exasperated at long delays in the courts. So they took the matter out of the hands of the lawyers, who fumbled away a golden opportunity to popularize their profession. Under the guidance of a few far-sighted practitioners they eliminated much of the red tape which had entangled court procedure more and more throughout the centuries. Out of this action by the people came the Judicature act of 1875.

There is unquestionably something wrong with the judicial system of Georgia. The record speaks for itself. As many as 4,500 cases have been decided by the higher courts in one year. The appealed cases per 100,000 population number four and five times as many as in most other states.

This flood of business, it is said, comes up from the so-called city courts, which handle half the peoples' litigation. There are 75 of them. Each was created by a special act of the legislature. Each has its own rules of procedure. Out of this procedural jig-saw puzzle comes the multiplicity of cases on error which flood the higher courts. But is there any logical reason why the city court of Dalton, for example, should operate under different rules of procedure than a similar court at Dawson, Ga.?

On top of this and other weaknesses the system has no executive head. One court may be swamped, another doing nothing, at a given time. Nobody has the power to do anything about it, although both courts are supported out of the state treasury.

Surely, with the lessons of the past to warn them, the members of the bench and bar will not delay until the people take the matter of judicial reform out of their hands.

Once more we come to that political interlude in which the office, seeking the man, has the uncomfortable feeling of being followed.

A suggestion that Argentine canned meat is superior brings howls from the range country. When better beefs are made, our angry stock raisers will make them.

"We are raising a race which from birth looks to others for its bread," cries a senator. That was last year. Now they want it ready-sliced.

Heartening News

Approval by the senate of the Hill-Ramspeck amendment to the Wheeler-Truman transportation bill is cheering news to the south and the west. The amendment provides there shall be no unlawful discriminations in freight rates and calls upon the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate such alleged cases with a view to eliminating the discriminations.

This is a practical step forward in the fight of the south to bring an end to unfair rate discriminations in favor of the competitive industrial sections of New England and the east. It is a step forward more by reason that it puts the senate on record on the issue, and lays the matter squarely, and publicly upon the Interstate Commerce Commission, than because it creates any new laws or legal machinery.

For, in all probability, the discriminations charged have, all along, been unlawful. They have, admittedly, been unjust and, as such, at variance with the fundamental purpose of the rate making powers of the I. C. C.

For the same reason the I. C. C. has undoubtedly long had all the authority needed to rectify the situation. The delay has probably been caused by the tremendous range of the task and by the customary reluctance of all governmental agencies to launch disturbing reforms in business.

Such actions as that of the senate strengthen faith that, ultimately, the south will win just treatment on shipment costs. When that time comes one of the greater handicaps to southern industrial expansion will have been removed. Not the only handicap, to be sure, but one of such importance that its removal will inevitably make easier the elimination of other handicaps to this region.

Wrong Attitude

The most important factor in forest fire control is attitude, Dean Paul W. Chapman, of the University of Georgia College of Agriculture, recently stressed before a meeting of the Georgia Forestry Association. Quoting figures of the United States Forest Service to show that this state ranks second in the nation in annual losses from forest fires, Dean Chapman stated half of the fires are caused by deliberate burning of the woods; incendiarism and carelessness account for almost 75 per cent of the losses.

He drew a conclusion: that these causes may be summed up as representing an attitude on the part of the people. In this connection he pointed out that fire prevention measures will never be very effective until the people of this state are determined forest fires should be prevented. When such an attitude is developed, then genuine progress in eliminating forest fires will be made.

To attain this sort of right thinking on the part of the public, Dean Chapman advocated public school courses in forestry as a means of developing appreciation of the forest resources of Georgia. The theory here is that appreciation of the forests as a great and important natural resource will go a long way in bringing about a change from the present careless attitude. Besides the public school courses, Dean Chapman also suggests that much needs to be done in education of adult laymen.

An Excellent Publication

The May number of "The Atlantian," edited and published at the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, is from the press. Its excellent content is divided into three departments — articles, fiction and miscellaneous.

The comments on "Rehabilitation," occupying the No. 1 spot in the magazine, indicate an advance point of view on the care and supervision of prisoners when released. The Mother's Day article and poem both are particularly good.

In the department of fiction the short story, "Mr. Boggs Meets a Ghost!" compares better than favorably with the average short story of the day. Its locale is an imaginary small Georgia town. It is convincing enough in its ghostly flavor and characters and if read during the quiet hour of midnight will send a shiver or two down the spine.

"Around and About," a running comment on popular figures who lend themselves to special characterization, is bound to bring a smile to the sourest face.

Those who have a hand in preparing the material, editing and printing this magazine each month, are deserving of commendation. It is an excellent publication.

The government in Moscow is urging the people to swill champagne, which makes Herr Hitler's strength-through-joy crusade look pretty amateurish.

COMPLICATIONS IN TRUCK FEES

(From The St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

In the past eight years, St. Louis has received $55,000 as its share of the fees the city is supposed to collect from common carrier trucks operating in or through the city. Frank J. McDeVitt, director of streets and sewers, estimates that proper enforcement of the fee law would have netted the city in the neighborhood of $150,000 a year. This is the background of the report that Illinois truckers raised a slush fund of $6.000 to be used in preventing enforcement of the law.

Unfortunately, the lost fees seem now to be so much water over the dam. Major attention should be directed at an equitable revision of the law so as to do away with the invitation for slush funds and to remove needless barriers to interstate commerce.

These ends seem to be provided for in the bill pending in the house to revise the truck transportation law. At least, it provides for a reciprocity agreement exempting from payment of the fees trucks which come from states which grant similar exemptions to Missouri trucks. Since the Illinois law contains such a provision, the statute proposed for Missouri would virtually wipe out the barriers to the free flow of trade by truck between the two states.

The highways are to the truck lines what roadbed and trackage are to the railroads. To equalize competition, trucks should be assessed a fair charge for use of the highways.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

PARADOXICAL APPEARANCES WASHINGTON, May 24.—The singular deceptiveness of surface appearances in politics was never better illustrated than by recent developments on spending. In the past months, the President has been correctly portrayed as the great spender, while the congress has been described, also correctly, as the great would-be economizer. Yet now it seems that, if there is to be a new appropriation for heavy public works of PWA type, the money will be volunteered by congress without presidential pressure.

The truth is that certain classes of expenditures are sacred cows on the hill. Money for the farmers is one, as the recent farm appropriation bill amply proved. Another class is money for courthouses, federal buildings, schools, sewage disposal plants and other beautiful or useful improvements to which senators and congressmen may point with pride, convincing the folks back home in their districts that they are the boys who bring home the bacon. Knowing this senatorial and congressional weakness, the President is gleefully preparing to make the great economy block eat dirt and holler "enough."

Identical bills providing $500,000,000 additional for PWA have already been offered in the house and senate by Representative Joe Starnes, of Alabama, and Senator James Mead, of New York. The President does not plan to lift a finger to support these bills and, just to underline the irony, may even make a gesture against them, such as publishing an adverse report from the Budget Bureau. But the ablest leaders of the house and senate economy blocs acknowledge that the bills will pass in somewhat amended form. Probably the sum authorized will be in the neighborhood of $300,000,000 and its expenditure will be limited to projects already investigated and approved by PWA.

HOME FOLKS' PRESSURE Congress is willing to stultify itself and let the President triumph because the PWA system is too much for the individual members. The PWA's agents throughout the country act as salesmen for its program, urging mayors, county commissioners and governors to bring their projects in. By immemorial custom, the mayors, county commissioners and governors are ardently supported by their senators and congressmen. Even the sternest economizer hesitates to take the position of withholding good things from the home folks.

Thus, a long list of investigated and approved projects is compiled, with every state and most large cities represented. The present list of such projects for which money is lacking totals $1,775,000,000. That represents $1,775,000,000 worth of pressure on congress, and from all sorts of voters, too. Even the chamber of commerce gets pretty soft-hearted, for example, when spending takes the form of public works. And thus the President can rely on the lawmakers to do what he wants without being asked.

AND ANOTHER DREAM Nor is political deceptiveness limited to the inability of politicians to live up to their oratory. Take, for example, the wave of terror which invaded business circles at a report that another large program of power development was contemplated by the administration. Another break in government relations with the utilities; extended government competition with private power producers; an effort to seize control of strictly intrastate utilities companies—all these things have been grimly predicted and glumly believed. Indeed, they still are.

Yet the truth of the matter is that the report originated in a memorandum by certain subordinate officials of the Federal Power Commission, which was discovered and given portentous currency by one of the many vendors of Washington dope to businessmen. The memorandum does call for government construction of $600,000,000 worth of steam power plants and transmission lines, to bring the national power facilities up to wartime needs. If it is acted on, it will have the effects predicted, and it must be admitted that it does not lack for support in certain New Deal quarters.

On the other hand, however, the President's power policy committee states flatly that the memorandum is only one of 50 plans submitted to it, that it has not even received serious consideration, and that there is no thought of interrupting the present amiable co-operation with the utilities companies. In fact, their June interim report is expected to stress the need for making the co-operation even closer. All of which seems to suggest the moral, "Never take a politician's speech or a dope-sheet's tip at its face value."

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Somewhere the sun is shining,
Somewhere the song birds sing;
But life for me is repining,
Solitaire's lost its zing!

It's Agin The Law.

Have you noticed, this week, stenciled exhortations upon the pavings, warning, "Beware! Only Angels Have Wings!" Advertising, of course, a forthcoming picture presentation at a downtown theater but, at the same time, preaching the gospel of safety to pedestrians ere they step into the street.

Well, the exploitation man responsible for these sidewalk notices was hailed into police court, charged with violation of a city ordinance. He asked the privilege of defending himself.

He pointed out that, in addition to their advertising value, the stencilings fitted in beautifully with Atlanta's continuous campaign for greater street safety.

He reminded his honor, the judge, that other theaters than his had used the same method of publicity, that likewise various candidates for public office had used the pavements as billboards for their appeals for votes. Even the Community Chest, he recalled, had painted a cryptic number upon the sidewalks all over town.

But the judge insisted it is against the law. He suggested, "Maybe those others had permits." "I didn't know a permit is necessary, I'd have got one if I had known," replied the defendant.

But ignorance of the law is no excuse, so the exploiteer was given a small fine and sent upon his way.

Next time he'll either get a permit or use some other method of advertising.

That "Outside" Sensation.

Of course, everybody knows how they could have done a better job if theirs had been the responsibility of writing the laws of nature. Me, I'd have arranged it so parents and children were always the same age.

Because it seems to me one of the greatest frustrations of life is that of the parent who longs, so sincerely, to live the life of son or daughter, to be one of the younger folks' group, to understand and to be understood, to be accepted by youth as an equal. For so rarely it is even approximately possible.

You raise that lovely baby girl or handsome baby boy, through all the years of infancy and childhood into adolescence. And all the time you are looking forward to the time when you and the youngster can become bosom companions. You vision games played together, joint interests of every kind, discussions of books and stories and plays and, in short, two lives so closely interwoven they are practically one.

And what happens?

The youngster grows into adolescence and forms new contacts, with other bright youngsters of similar age. They meet, perhaps at your home, and you sit in the same room with them and try, ever so gently, to join in their conversation and to laugh with them at the things at which they laugh. And they turn and listen to you with the politeness that youth feels is the rightful due of age. And you wake up, suddenly and horribly, to the fact that you do represent "age" in their estimate. That you are definitely "old folks."

You try, desperately, to win their comradeship by telling one of your best funny stories. It draws laughter, to be sure. But again you recognize that tone of politeness, instead of spontaneity.

And you fall dumb, listening to their gay young voices and feeling very much outside. So you quietly slip out of the room, unnoticed you think.

But your leaving wasn't unnoticed. For, scarcely is the door closed, than there is a new outbreak of free, spontaneous gaiety and you realize that your very presence had been a restraining influence.

And you must admit that you, just a youngster at 40, eager for that grand life reputed to begin at that age, are looked upon by this new generation, proud in its youth, as a doddering ancient to be respected, to be treated with tolerant politeness but utterly impossible as a real companion. You just don't talk the same language.

You Might As Well Quit.

Truth to tell, your ambitions are hopeless, anyway. You might as well let the children go their way, find amusement and companionships within the circle of their own generation, while you romp around with other youngsters who want, too, to begin life at 40.

Age to age and decade to decade. That is the law. For 40 is 40 and 16 is 16 and never these twain shall meet.

Remember your own dad and mom when you were 16?

The only revenge possible is to think of these present day sixteeners 24 years hence. When they, too, are 40 and there is a new crop of adolescent babes to make them, in turn, feel old.

To Prevent Barn Fires.

Barn fires are among the most common causes of farm losses. Never light matches or smoke in a barn. Avoid the use of combustible lanterns. Use electrical lanterns or flashlights. Check all electric wiring to avoid short circuits. Be careful in handling gasoline and kerosene. Do not drive automobiles into a barn where there is hay and litter. See that only well cured hay is stored in the barn.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Surprisingly Gentle NEW YORK, May 24.—A Communist who deplores the ignorance of those who see only external differences between his "ism" and the axis disease writes, in surprisingly gentle vein, to assure me that in Russia political dictatorship is a purely transitional measure which this country, with its long experience of democracy and parliamentary institutions, would be spared entirely. He adds a belief that I have been outrageously alienated by the methods and fanaticism of Communism, as though the methods and fanaticism were only slight irritations, when the fact is that they include lying and suppression of truth and opinion, the wholesale slaughter and deportation of dissenters and, up to date in this country, the most vicious abuse by aliens and Americans under alien inspiration of Americans who resist these methods and that fanaticism.

Room for Misgiving But there is room for misgiving where he fails to explain by what magic the methods and fanaticism will be moderated to achieve these ends when the Americans go into the street to fight. For I think it must be anticipated that the Americans will not accept these slight adjustments in a docile spirit, being so long accustomed to private ownership of great or modest possessions and certain other institutions, and having no reason to repose confidence in a system which, in its one great effort, has always enforced democracy with the machine gun and the secret police.

I am compelled to assume that there would be considerable resistance and that then, under the excuse of miscalculation and unforseen necessity, the Communist minority would suspend the promise of no dictatorship and treat the Americans rough.

Faulty Argument My correspondent submits that the dictatorship in Russia was necessitated by the fact that the people had spent their past under the tyranny of the Czars, and this argument, a familiar one, always moves me to inquire why a people so dumb and bovine, so long accustomed to oppression, needed more of the same by way of schooling for freedom.

No czar or czars ever shed as much blood inside Russia in an equal time as the Bolsheviks in their transitional period.

Acts Refute Promises Unfortunately for the Communist propaganda in this country, the methods and fanaticism of the Bolos have created deep distrust of their word and have discredited the promise that if the Americans will yield quietly there will be no dictatorship. They have sabotaged labor unions, tried to intimidate patriotic Americans, bored into the government in the guise of progressives to work for the destruction of American business by which the country lives, fought to aggravate the economic troubles of industry so that continued mass poverty would cause civil commotion and invoked the protection of laws and principles which are derided as savagely in Russia as in Germany and Italy.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

SCRAP IRON.

Reading a recent bulletin of the Southern Council on International Relations, prepared fortnightly and mailed at Chapel Hill, N. C., I came upon this paragraph:

"The interests of the South in the Far Eeastern conflict are coming more and more to the forefront of public discussion despite diverting signals across the Atlantic. As the fighting drags into its 23d month, with approximately 2,000,000 Chinese dead and wounded, and 675,000 Japanese dead and wounded, the people of the South are becoming more cognizant of their relationship to a conflict of tragic proportions. The relation of the South to China and Japan involves her regional share of trade, shipping, and business investments, and her humanitarian interest in the welfare of the people of a war-racked country, in the maintenance of peace, and in amicable cultural and commercial relations with the Orient".

The bulletin goes on to point out that the South has a bigger stake in our Far Eastern trade than any other section of the United States, citing the fact that our most important item of trade with Japan is raw cotton ($88 million in 1936); and leaf tobacco ($6 million in 1936), being our most important commodity of trade with China. We bought $17 million worth of tung oil from China in 1936, and $100 million worth of raw silk from Japan in 1936.

Further along in the bulletin the figures are given on the amount of war supplies sold by the United States to these warring nations. In 1937 we sold China $8,000,000 worth of rifles, machine guns, shells, and submarine and aircraft supplies. The same year Japan's purchases amounted to a million and a half dollars. Since June, 1938, Japan's purchases have amounted to $6,000,000 and China's $4,000,000.

"Through such southern ports as Norfolk, New Orleans, Savannah, and Mobile, continually flow large shipments of scrap iron bound for Japanese gun factories. Japan can make much of her own war equipment as long as she can secure necessary raw materials. China, without manufacturing plants, must buy finished articles which reach her armies by air, overland from Russia via the Sinkiang motor roads, or over the Burma highway. The American people object to shipments of war materials to both China and Japan, etc."

And as I finished reading the bulletin, I went out to cross the road in front of our home, and there I saw a second-hand truck broken down. It was loaded with scrap iron, gathered up, the driver told me, from rural communities in a neighboring county. He was on his way to Savannah. I asked him what it would be used for. "To kill somebody," he replied.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

DR. FOREMAN RETURNS Dr. Clark H. Foreman, looking a bit thinner than last summer when he was expending honest perspiration in behalf of the New Deal's attempted purge of Senator Walter George, is in Atlanta for a visit.

Now head of the power division of the WPA, the young New Dealer has lost none of his New Deal enthusiasm along with his weight.

He was a political factor last summer when the "purge" wars were raging. Possessed of a brilliant mind, he originated one of the best bits of New Deal propaganda in behalf of Lawrence Camp, the administration's fair-haired boy, officially named at Barnesville. This was a legitimate broadcast of news from the NEC department concerning money which the New Deal was spending on improvements in various communities. While Camp appealed from the hustings that people not forget the New Deal and its material benefits, the dulcet tones of Dr. Foreman were going over the radio waves, giving the actual figures with, of course, no political reference. That it was of no avail does not detract from the cleverness of the idea.

His name was one of those which Senator George hurled out to the crowd along with those of Thomas Corcoran and Benjamin Cohen. A zealot, he worked and argued and attempted organization—always after NEC hours, scrupulously avoiding any political work during office hours except, of course, for that very adroit broadcast.

Once the campaign was over—and lost—he went back to his power division. A visitor today, he still is the zealot.

"THE PRESIDENT IS RIGHT" It was Clark Foreman who conceived the idea of the President's report on the economic condition of the south. It was he who helped name the committee which found the south to be the Economic Problem Number One.

Today he believes more firmly than ever that the President is right and that the report is correct.

He had been to see a March of Time movie, based on the now-famous report and he found real basis for argument, he said, in the fact that a railroad president opposed the report. He charged railroad presidents with not being in favor of removing the freight differentials which work to the detriment of southern industry and agriculture but working instead in behalf of eastern capital.

"Henry Grady in his famous speech at Boston," he said, "asked eastern capital to come south. They did. Instead of acting as Grady hoped they subordinated southern industry in favor of that owned in the east. Grady said Birmingham, with all its natural resources, would become the greatest steel center in the nation. It did not because of eastern pressure."

He had illustrations from TVA sources, giving the story of a manfacturer in Tennessee who, when he began to compete in Ohio, was bought out and the Tennessee plant closed, throwing people out of work.

MORE AND GREATER SPENDING Filled with statistics and enthusiasm for the cause, Clark Foreman thinks there is a need for more government spending, not less. He might change some of the methods of spending but would look toward the same end.

"In 1922 private spending, which was about all the spending there was, amounted roughly to about six billion. In 1929 it reached about eight billion. In 1931 and '32 it was down to about four billion. Now, with government spending, it is up to about six billion. At the same time the national income, which was down to about 33 billion in the worst depression year, is up to about twice that, well over sixty billion. The increase in the national income would more than pay off the debt.

"There must be a continuance of government spending. Perhaps some of the agencies on which money is spent might be changed but there must be a continuation of spending. A farmer sows his crop in the hope that he will get a return. He doesn't know, when he sows, what the crop will be. The government must keep spending, seeking to get going the machinery of private spending."

A THIRD TERM? YES! Queried on a third term for Franklin D. Roosevelt, Clark Foreman said there could be, for the progressive, no other choice.

"I am not for the third term as a matter of principle," he said, "but the facts are there is no other man in America who has developed into an executive capable of doing the job. There just isn't anyone else but Roosevelt."

"What about a Republican? What do you think a Republican victory would mean?"

"I think it would mean only one thing—a great boom for about two years and then a crash which would make 1929 and the terrible years of 1931 and 1932 look like years of prosperity."

Dr. Foreman's shadow may have grown less but his New Deal beliefs have not, nor has his zealous support weakened in the least.

The Stokers Below Would Be Terrified In a Storm If They Had No Faith In The Captain

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Something more than 50 per cent of America's hospital beds are occupied by mental cases.

That percentage, which has doubled in a few years, reveals a condition and a trend fearful and dreadful to contemplate.

What does it mean?

Does it mean that more of our people, for some unknown and mysterious reason, are losing their minds? Or does it mean that men of science, having more knowledge of mental disease, are able to recognize symptoms that formerly escaped notice?

Both, perhaps. Yet it does not follow that our race has changed or become more subject to mental disorder.

The more probable truth is that today's extra mental cases would have lived out their days in apparent sanity under the conditions that prevailed thirty or forty years ago, and an equal number of those who seemed normal in those days would have become mental patients under present conditions.

In other words, the weakness or tendency to break was equally frequent in both periods; and more breaks have occurred in our time because of a new and greater strain.

The majority to which this applies are women.

In other times, though trouble might have unbalanced their reason, such women lived sane and contented lives, free of dark anxieties and forebodings, because they had men to lean upon and felt safe. The male head of the house carried the whole burden of responsibility. The women had their duties and labors, but they relied on a man for guidance and protection.

Of course there were other women, capable and strong, who stood alone or ruled the domain; but we are speaking of a type.

And women of this type, burdened with the responsibilities of their new freedom, find life too complicated and difficult to bear.

That explains some of the increase; the rest—or much of it—has a similar explanation.

Vitamin B-2 cures maladies caused by the lack of it. And since psychiatrists are healing disordered minds by teaching them a new faith in God, it is reasonable to suppose that want of faith caused the disorder.

Ordinary human beings, weak and anxious and fearful, need some Power to trust and lean upon.

They are happiest, whether rich or poor, when they can sing, with Senator Ingall's washerwoman,

"Of a Savior and a Friend,
"Who will keep her to the end."

The private in the army polishes his kit and answers roll calls and feels no further anxiety, for the colonel or general carries the burden of making decisions and the responsibility for weal or woe is his.

Those fortunate ones who believe in God have peace of mind. They feel no fear or dread. It is His world, and His is the responsibility. Come good or ill, why worry? He does all things well.

Rob ordinary people of that faith and those who think will find great troubles unendurable. Troops give way to panic when their leader falls.

'No One Was Excited or Afraid,' Squalus Survivor Says, Telling Experience

SOUND OF ENGINES OF RESCUE CRAFT ROUSED OPTIMISM

Every Word From Every Man Was a Cheerful One—We Knew We Did Not Have To Worry.'

Judson Thomas Bland, 30, of Norfolk, Va., an electrician's mate on the Submarine Squalus, in better condition than some of his fellow survivors, gave the following interview Wednesday night.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 24. (AP)—"I'm very happy to be here to say I was with a very fine bunch of shipmates. I never saw a crew handle so well a situation that really needed good handling.

"We made a perfectly normal fast dive. It was a test dive and the test superintendent was timing it and clocking it as we went down.

"Then something happened. It just couldn't be helped. It was one of those things that might go wrong with any complicated mechanical thing.

"We started taking in water through the ventilation valve. We knew something had gone wrong aft. The captain came below. He was in complete charge at all times. All of his orders were carried out immediately.

Fought Against Water.

"The men worked to shut off the water. Then the diving officer came below and gave orders to blow the tanks. We took a terrific angle. It was about 45 degrees, I think, with the bow up. One of the men closed the door to the after part of the ship. It took super strength to do it and I don't see how he did it.

"All the men possible got out of the after compartments. I don't know if all the after compartments were flooded and I hope they were not.

"We lost all power and had no communications astern. No one was excited at any time. Everyone was living in the hope we'd be found. We fired smoke bombs at regular intervals. We heard the Sculpin's engines around 3 o'clock and knew she was there.

"We knew it was the Sculpin because her engines are just like ours. We were greatly relieved. We knew we had been found and had nothing to worry about.

All Kept Cheerful.

"Every word from every man was a cheerful one. Beating on the hull was our only means of communication. Two men forward and two in the after part of the bow kept beating signals all the time we were down in spite of the great cold and darkness.

"We got very good results. We were told the Falcon would arrive at 4:30 this morning. We knew she had excellent equipment and wonderful divers. I'm not afraid to say that not one man ever thought he would not be rescued.

"The air got a little bad just before we came up because we were trying to conserve the oxygen. When the first rescue party came down you can imagine how happy we were. We sent up the weakest men first. I was in the second rescue party."

Bland's wife, Nadine, met him at the dock and kissed him.

"She was very happy to see me and have me back again," Bland smiled.

He has a daughter, Lola Rochelle, 14 months old.

A dramatic moment in the history of Man vs. The Sea. Arrow points to navy's diving bell being hoisted to side of rescue ship Falcon from 40 fathoms of water with cargo of men from the ill-fated Squalus. The bell was sent down time and again on its mercy mission.

Here is the bell which accomplished the epic rescue just before it was lowered from the Falcon yesterday. This bell made possible the unparalleled rescue from the depth of 240 feet, a depth from which never before had a man been taken alive.

How 59 Aboard Squalus Fared

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 24. (AP)—The names of the following members of the crew of the sunken submarine Squalus were listed today by the survivors as probably dead:

Officers.

Ensign Joseph Patterson, Oklahoma City.

Civilians.

Don Smith, General Motors Corporation.

Charles M. Woods, electrician, attached to the Navy Department.

Enlisted Men.

James A. Aitken, Bridgeport, Conn., fire controlman.

John J. Batick, Portsmouth, N. H., electricians mate, first class.

William D. Boulton, Luton, Iowa, seaman first class.

Joshua Casey, Grand Ridge, Fla., fireman, first class.

John A. Chestnutt, Groton, Conn., chief machinist mate.

Robert L. Coffey, Fullerton, Cal., elcetricians mate, second class.

Elvin L. Deal, Copperhill, Tenn., machinist mate, second class.

Lionel H. Fletcher, San Diego, Cal., electricians mate, third class.

Kenneth R. Garrison, Joplin, Mo., chief machinist mate.

Robert F. Gibbs, Lexington, S. C., torpedoman, first class.

John P. Hathaway, San Diego, Cal., fireman, first class.

Eugene A. Hoffman, Brooklyn, Mich., machinist mate, first class.

Alexander B. Keegan, Quakertown, Pa., seaman first class.

John J. Marino, Marshalltown, Iowa, seaman second class.

Huie K. McAfee, East Point, Ga., electricians mate second class.

Alfred C. Priester, Rosedale, N. Y., torpedoman, second class.

Frank H. Schulte, St. Louis, machinist mate, first class.

Bascomb S. Scyphers, Bristol, Va., electricians mate first class.

Sherman L. Shirley, Little Rock, Ark., torpedoman, first class.

Jack J. Strong, Milwaukee, machinist mate, first class.

John M. Thomala, Royalton, Minn., machinist mate, first class.

Robert P. Thompson, Nashville, Tenn., ship's cook, third class.

Narion L. Ward, Drumright, Okla., radioman, third class.

Robert R. Weld, Kooskia, Idaho, fireman, second class.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 24. (AP)—Those rescued from the sunken submarine Squalus today—in the order in which they were brought to the surface—were:

Lieutenant (J. G.) John C. Nichols, Chicago, gunnery and torpedo officer.

Harold C. Preble, naval architect attached to the Portsmouth navy yard.

Roland Blanchard, Hersey, Mich., fireman, second class.

William Isaacs, Washington, D. C., ship's cook, second class.

Theodore Jacobs, Staten Island, N. Y., signalman, first class.

Gerald McLees, Richmond, Kan., electrician's mate, third class.

Charles Yuhas, New Salem, Pa., machinist mate, first class.

William David Boulton, seaman first class, Luton, Iowa.

Judson Thomas Bland, electrician's mate, Norfolk, Va.

Lawrence James Gainor, chief electrician's mate, Honolulu.

Basilio Galvan, mess attendant, Ivajay, Cariz, P. I.

Francis Murphy Jr., quartermaster, Charlestown, Mass.

Raymond F. O'Hara, pharmacist's mate, Elmira, N. Y.

Warren W. Smith Jr., signal man, LaPorte, Texas.

Robert L. Washburn, seaman second class, Greenwich, Ohio.

Lieutenant Robert W. Robertson, Quanah, Texas, engineering officer.

Arthur LaGrand Booth, radioman, Milford, Conn.

Roy Henry Campbell, chief torpedoman, Omaha, Neb.

Gavin James Coyne, machinist mate, Sacramento, Cal.

Feliciano Elvina, mess attendant, Manila.

William Joseph Fitzpatrick, torpedoman, Woburn, Mass.

Leonard D. Medeiros, torpedo, New Bedford, Mass.

Carlton B. Powell, machinist's mate, Cardiff-by-the-Sea, Cal.

Alfred G. Prien, machinist's mate, San Francisco.

Lloyd B. Maness, electrician's mate, Greensboro, N. C.

Lieutenant O. F. Naquin, commander, Alexandria, La.

Lieutenant William T. Doyle Jr., executive officer, Baltimore.

Allen Carlisle Bryson, machinist's mate, Greenville, S. C.

Eugene Donald Cravens, gunner's mate, Thayer, Mo.

Charles Kuney, yeoman second class, Tulare, Cal.

Donato Persico, seaman, Amsterdam, N. Y.

Carol N. Pierce, machinist's mate, Kansas City, Kan.

Charles A. Powell, radioman, Leesville, La.

33 ARE RESCUED FROM SUNKEN SUB

the Squalus, was the last to leave his ill-fated ship, glued to the bottom 15 miles off Portsmouth since 8:40 a. m. Tuesday, when water, pouring through an open air induction valve, flooded the after compartments during a practice dive.

Stepping from the rescue chamber with Lieutenant Naquin in the early morning hours today was his fellow executive officer, Lieutenant William T. Boyle Jr., of Baltimore, second in command of the Squalus. Thus four of the five officers were saved, as Lieutenants John C. Nichols, of Chicago, and Robert W. Robertson, of Quanah, Texas, were rescued earlier.

Nine in Poor Condition.

Almost simultaneous with the "final" rescue, an indication came from Rear Admiral C. W. Cole, commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard, who directed the fight to save the Squalus' crew, that the nine men brought up in the third trip of the diving bell were in poor physical condition.

In a radio message Admiral Cole said:

"Am sending nine men from Squalus for hospitalization and observation via Harriet Lane (coast guard cutter), arriving navy yard 1:30 a. m. daylight. Have ambulances."

Cheer upon cheer rose from the decks of the Falcon as the first seven survivors stepped yesterday into the free air. Each, as he was rushed quickly to a decompression chamber, made history.

Not only was this the first time that the diving bell had been used for a wholesale rescue of men actually trapped aboard a sunken craft, but also it marked the first saving of men from a submarine crippled at such a depth as 240 feet.

Still ahead of the rescuers lay a grim task. High navy officials reiterated that divers would search each flooded compartment for the bodies of the dead, bringing them to the surface before the Squalus itself was pumped out and raised.

Georgia Diver There.

Benjamin G. Jones, of Manchester, Ga., is one of the navy divers at the rescue scene.

The rescue bell, which rose and fell on one mercy trip after another during the day, first was dropped over the side of the submarine rescue ship Falcon at 11:40 a. m. (10:40 a. m., Atlanta time), little more than two hours after a diver first touched the Squalus.

Approximately two hours later the bell brought the first seven survivors to the surface.

The first man to breathe free air again after confinement in the cold, dark of the half flooded Squalus was Lieutenant J. C. Nichols.

A civilian navy employe and five enlisted men stepped out of the rescue chamber behind him, were rushed into a decompression tank and then taken to a Portsmouth hospital.

Sun Bursts on Scene.

The scene was dramatic. Just as the bell broke the surface the sun came through the clouds, allowing Lieutenant Nichols to step through a hatch in the roof of the chamber into a spring-like atmosphere.

Overhead circled airplanes, civilian and naval. Around the Falcon, which raised and lowered the bell on a huge steel cable, a dozen ships stirred the surface. Many were civilian craft, but nearby was the huge bulk of the cruiser Brooklyn, and almost alongside was a sister ship of the Squalus, the Sculpin. Nearby too were navy tugs and active coast guard vessels.

Other Ships Echo Shouts.

From the decks of the Falcon a concerted shout broke from the rescue crew, while echoing shouts were heard from other vessels.

Lieutenant Nichols brought word to his superiors that 25 men were still safe and breathing below, but said 27 others apparently had been trapped in the flooded after compartments.

"Little hope is held that they are alive," said an official navy statement issued soon after.

Five hours later, however, a naval officer announced to newsmen: "There has been a mistake. We have found one more man alive."

He was William David Boulton, seaman, from Luton, Iowa, first listed among the probable dead, but later brought to the surface on the second ascent of the diving bell. Thus the list of probable dead dropped from 27 to 26.

Seven Minutes Going Down.

Frank P. Miller, a Portsmouth navy yard diver, made the first descent to the Squalus at 10:15 a. m., landing on the deck seven minutes later.

"It was a tough dive," he said. "The water was extremely cold. The submarine lay on her starboard side at a five or six degree angle.

"I was down on the sub (connecting the descending line for the diving bell to the forward torpedo room) only 15 minutes, but it took about 73 minutes for me to come up and recover."

At 11:40 a. m. the rescue chamber was lowered, and at 1:18 p. m., the first ascent was started with seven survivors. It was 1:45 p. m., when Lieutenant Nichols stepped into free air and sunshine.

Coffee, soup and blankets were carried down in the rescue bell on its first trip this morning, as one of the major complaints of the men below had been the cold. Even on the surface the water temperature was around 35 degrees.

The rescue chamber—a huge, nine-ton affair—contained a cylindrical chamber on a rubber suction gasket base, which fitted against a wide skirt on the submarine's rescue hatch. Once attached, the water between the bottom of the bell and the submarine was expelled by pumps. Then the hatches of the bell and the submarine were opened to admit the trapped men.

DIVER DESCRIBES DESCENT TO SUB

Asserts Only Possibility for Men Aft Was To Reach Escape Trunk.

By FRANK P. MILLER,
Diver at Portsmouth Navy Yard.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 24. (AP)—I was the first diver to make the 240-foot drop to the submarine Squalus and spent 15 minutes hooking on the descending line to the forward torpedo room hatch where it was believed 33 men were alive.

As I walked across the deck of the sunken craft noise or my heavy boots apparently penetrated to the men inside. At every step I could hear them tapping from within. Every time I moved, tapping was the answer.

I heard no sound from the aft torpedo room. The only possibility for the men in there to be safe was to have reached the escape trunk in the after torpedo room hatch, but I very much doubt if anyone of them made it.

Although I was down on the sub only 15 minutes, it took about 73 minutes for me to come up and recover.

The water was extremely cold. It was a tough dive. The submarine lay on her starboard side at a five or six-degree angle. There was no damage apparent. It was very dark, but not dark enough to use marine lights.

It took me five minutes to connect the downward cable from the diving bell to the hatch. Coffee, soup and blankets were taken down in the bell and given to the men aboard the submerged vessel.

Seven men came up in the first trip. They were all cold and shivering. Most of them could not speak for several minutes. A man named Preble seemed to be in the worst shape, but he proved to be all right after we warmed him up. None of the men that I saw appeared physically injured, but all were extremely cold.

Other divers went down later and closed the induction valve which caused the accident.

Double (Money) Talk Costs Woman Here $550

They went out to lunch—with $550. And they haven't returned yet.

That was the complaint to police yesterday of a woman operator of a Whitehall street rooming house. She said two men appeared May 18, and talked volubly about a trick which "doubled money."

Finally, they showed her the trick, using her money. The idea revolved around placing currency between two boards and then pouring a chemical over the boards. Police are seeking the men.

SOUTHERN FORESTS RICH IN RESOURCES

Kircher Tells Supervisors National Area First-Class Timber Farms.

The 9,000,000 acres comprising the 13 national forests in the south are first class timber farms, Joseph C. Kircher, regional forester, told national forest supervisors yesterday at their annual conference here.

In some cases it would be necessary to assist city and state authorities in inducing new industries to move south in order to benefit from the increased supply of national forest timber, resulting from fire protection and good forest management.

Among the supervisors present were Frank W. Rasor, Montgomery, Ala.; E. W. Hadley, Puerto Rico; William H. Fischer, Gainesville, Ga.; Paul H. Gerrard, Cleveland, Tenn.; Frank A. Albert, Tallahassee, Fla.; R. M. Conarro, Jackson, Miss.; P. H. Bryan, Alexandria, La.; Charles Melichar, Franklin, N. C.; A. L. Nelson, Hot Springs, Ark.; H. R. Koen, Russellville, Ark.; H. E. Ochsner, Asheville, N. C.; P. F. W. Prater, Houston, Texas; H. M. Sears, Columbia, S. C., as well as Director Richard E. McArdle, Appalachian Forest Experiment Station, Asheville, N. C., and Director E. L. Demmon, Southern Forest Experiment Station, New Orleans, La.

VETS OUT OF STATE WILL GET PENSION

Arnall Rules Georgia Confederates Living Elsewhere Entitled to Checks.

Attorney General Ellis Arnall ruled yesterday Georgia Confederate veterans who lived with children or relatives outside the state but intended "ultimately to return" to Georgia were entitled to their $50 monthly pension checks.

"It is frequently true that an aged pensioner makes protracted visits to children in other states," Arnall said in a ruling, sought to clarify the status of veterans.

"But if it is the intention of the pensioner to ultimately to return to this state, I think he would be entitled to continue to receive his Georgia pension."

Will be sold at Athens, Georgia, Soda Fount and Restaurant equipment. Inventory may be had on request. Best stand in city. Splendid business built up to be sold as going concern. All bids must be in by June 2, 1939. All bids are held strictly confidential.

MERGER OF STATE UNITS HELD 1940 CAMPAIGN ISSUE

Roberts Likely To Oppose Move as Contender in Race for Nomination as Governor Next Year.

By The Associated Press.

Campaign ammunition for Georgia's 1940 gubernatorial race was foreseen by capitol observers yesterday in inquiries of the house economy committee into possible functional consolidation of the state departments of agriculture and entomology with the university system.

Commissioner of Agriculture Columbus Roberts, considered an almost certain contender for nomination as governor a year hence, topped the speculative list of candidates likely to make an issue of such a proposal.

Department Opposes Move.

The Department of Agriculture, long a source of campaign controversy, is opposed to the move, which it contends would hamper its prescribed activities. The Entomology Department, headed by Chairman Marning Yeomans, of the National Plant Board, also has protested the proposal as impractical.

Both executives, in conferences with the economy committee, praised the work of the University Extension Service and its experiment station, but insisted the state's interests would be best served by leaving the set-up in status quo.

The Board of Regents told the committee the university system could carry on agricultural and entomological research, but suggested policing powers of both branches be vested elsewhere.

Merger Also Proposed.

Proposals for consolidating the two departments with the university system also were made in the recent regular session of the assembly when Representative J. M. Simmons, of Decatur (Bainbridge), introduced bills to abolish both agencies and assign their duties entirely to the extension service. The measure died in committee.

Judge Watkins' Juvenile Court Strives To Help Children by Kindness

Constitution Staff Photo—Wilson.

Friendly faces greet the children brought into Fulton county's juvenile court where a spirit of helpfulness rather than that of punishment prevails. In this courtroom in the new juvenile detention home on Central avenue, Judge Garland Watkins and his associates attempt to help parents and children reach understandings that will reduce juvenile delinquency and give the children a chance in life. Defective Home Life Is Revealed By Cavalcade at Juvenile Court

Conglomeration of Cases Range From Dependency and Truancy to Serious Delinquency Charges; Typical Day's Hearing Is Cited.

(This is the second in the series of four articles by Miss Gwin on child delinquency and the operations of the Fulton county juvenile court.)

By YOLANDE GWIN.

Children appearing at the juvenile court represent a cross-section of life in homes of defectiveness, viciousness, poverty and bad environment.

What, then, is the story they tell? What brings them into the court, what are the circumstances surrounding these juvenile offenders?

The juvenile court building on Central avenue is a bee hive of activity. Judge Garland Watkins, who presides in the court, as a rule works from early morning until late in the evening trying to keep up with the many duties required of him.

Personal Advisor.

When he takes the bench, he is confronted with a conglomeration of cases ranging from dependency and truancy to serious deliquency charges. Judge Watkins is an even-tempered man, and is a friend of every dependent, no matter what the offense. Children seem to want to confide in him. They seem to think he is their friend—and he is—that he will "fix them up right," and is their own personal advisor trying to help them. He's not the bogey man whom they fear when they are haled into the toils of the law by a probation officer.

Judge Watkins watches the youthful calvacade march before him. Following are a mere handful of a typical day's hearing. No names are used, but facts, although not given in detail are true.

A neglected child, seven years old, peers over the bench out of big, brown eyes.

"Where did you get those pretty eyes?" asks Judge Watkins, in a friendly way to wave aside childish apprehension.

"My daddy gave them to me," is the answer.

Whereabouts of daddy, however, are as vague as events of centuries past. The same is true of the child's mother.

Neglect Case.

Seven-year-old A was a neglect case. Early in the spring of 1938, A's mother, a member of a road show, "boarded out" her baby with a kindly-faced woman with a promise to take the child back within six months. Only two months' board for the child has been paid. The mother and father, living amid defective circumstance as well as poverty, have deserted their child. They are no where to be found. Their child is now the responsibility of a community in which its parents have no part, and no interest. The child needs medical attention. Her white-haired benefactor cannot afford to keep her. She cannot afford necessary medical care. She is offering the child for placement in a home where care can be given her.

If you were judge, what would you do with this case?

A young girl we will call B is brought in next on charges of disorderly conduct with a 21-year-old married man. She is 15 years old.

When her mother died, two years ago, she was forced to stop school to keep house for her father and four brothers. The six live in three rooms. The father, objecting to his daughter running around with the married man, was accused in court by his daughter, of making improper advances to her. This charge was later denied by the girl who said she "thought he meant to harm her." She ran away from home to go with C, the married man. The father admitted using the hickory stick method to punish his daughter, but with no result.

B admitted having immoral relations with C over a period of weeks while out joyriding. When arrested for disorderly conduct she gave her age as 21 and said she was the wife of C. A check-up by probation officers gathered the facts to present a background of poverty, bad associates and defective home life.

Another case involved two boys, 13 and 11, who admitted begging on the streets in front of movie houses "just for fun and to have money to spend."

No Father.

It was revealed in questioning by the judge that the 13-year-old boy had been begging since he was seven years old and had been in juvenile court 15 times. Blame was placed on his invalid mother who was not able to discipline her son at home or to supervise his outdoor activties. The boy has no known father.

Where will this boy be in five years? What will be his crime record at 25, when at 13 he has 15 offenses against him? What can be done to re-route this boy's way along the highway? Begging for pennies now may mean hold-ups for dollars later, and another criminal will be made.

This boy's partner is 11 years old. This child had everything in his way to prevent his going straight. His father is in the stockade. His mother recently gave birth to her eighth child, and she was not able to discipline her 11-year-old child in the proper manner. X's school teacher sent him home because his clothes were dirty. In testifing in the court, the mother admitted that with eight children, one just a few weeks old, what, with cooking, washing and housekeeping, she was not able to wash and iron X's one suit of clothes every night for him to wear to school. With the result that she took him out of school, and with days of idleness he soon ganged up with other boys in begging. What will happen to X next?

Boyish Adventure.

Two more boys, each 15 years old, from good but defective homes, appeared before Judge Watkins on charges of burglary. Their loot was money, cigarets and candy, taken from a neighborhood theater and soft drink stand. The "pull," according to the boys, had been planned two days in advance. They had timed their job to the minute.

It was a case which reflected boyish adventure. Neither of them considered the fact that it would be of any serious outcome. The spirit of adventure was uppermost in their minds, for after their "pull" they met the rest of the gang, preparatory to leaving for Florida.

When picked up by the probation officers, at 1 o'clock in the morning they were in the railroad yards preparing to hobo to Florida. One of the boys appearing in court came from a family where parents were living under the same roof as man and wife in name only. The boy admitted he did not get along with his mother "because she wouldn't let him go out after 9 o'clock at night." His father came home at nights, for appearances only, and had no apparent interest in his son and his activities. What chance, then, did the boy have for any understanding with mother and dad?

Here you have examples of numerous cases which come before Judge Watkins. The next story appearing tomorrow reveals how the juvenile court copes with the condition.

SENATE OKAYS BILL TO CUT RAIL RATES

mestic water carriers to regulation under the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, co-author of the bill with Senator Truman, Democrat, Missouri, said it was designed to make "all forms of transportation equal before the ICC."

Bailey told the senate the railroads were "no worse off than the Twofold Purpose.

The purpose of the amendment was described as twofold:

First, to permit southern railroads to pass along to the public, in reduced rates, the advantage of low operating costs.

Second, to protect water carriers against the danger of inability to compete with the faster railroad service.

Originally, the amendment had included a provision making it unlawful to establish any transportation rate which would not be compensatory.

Provision Opposed.

This language drew such determined opposition from Chairman Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, of the Interstate Commerce Committee that it was withdrawn. The amendment then was approved on a voice vote.

Earlier, it had been asserted the ICC "deliberately built up a system of freight rates that saps our territory of its raw products and yet at the same time prevents our shipping manufactured goods into other areas."

Senator Miller, Democrat, Arkansas, said the south, because of high territorial rates, had been reduced to "economic slavery." He praised Senator Hill, Democrat, Alabama, for "a distinct service" in leading the fight to adjust rail charges.

Predicts Lower Rates.

Miller predicted southern railroads would take advantage of his amendment and cut rates to help eliminate the area's industrial handicap.

He said the Wheeler-Truman bill might work a hardship on water carriers because its effect would be to place all three types of transportation under the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Unless water carriers were permitted to establish rates considerably lower than rail rates, he said, ships could not compete.

Some southern legislators have announced opposition to the Wheeler-Truman bill because they feared the effect of regulating ship lines.

BILL SEEN AS AID TO DIXIE INDUSTRY

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—If the freight rate investigation provision of the Wheeler railroad bill is finally enacted, it will result in the expansion of existing manufacturing plants in the south and should be a inducement for new industries to be located there, Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Georgia, joint author of the provision along with Senator Lister Hill, of Alabama, said today.

The Ramspeck-Hill provision was adopted by the senate originally proposed with the exception of an amendment by Senator Tom Connolly, of Texas, which provides that the Interstate Commerce Commission shall investigate "any unreasonableness or unlawfulness which may be found to exist."

Provision Cited.

As drafted by Senator Hill and Representative Ramspeck, the provision read:

"The commission (ICC) is hereby authorized and directed to proceed immediately, in such manner as it deems advisable in the interest of a correct ascertainment of the facts, to investigate the rates on manufactured products and raw materials between points in one classification territory and points in another such territory, and to like rates within any of such territories maintained by common carriers engaged in transportation subject to this act, for the purpose of determining whether such rates are unjust or unreasonable or unlawful in any other respect in and of themselves or in their relation to each other, and to enter such orders as may be appropriate for the removal of any unlawfulness which may be found to exist: Provided, that the commission in its discretion may confine its investigation to such manufactured products and raw materials and the rates thereon as shippers thereof may specifically request to be included in such investigation.'

It was freely predicted around capitol corridors that if and when the Wheeler railroad bill becomes law, the ICC will make a conscientious investigation of alleged freight rate discriminations in the south and will revise their schedules so that the south will be on an equality with so-called preferential territory of the northeast.

Adoption by the senate of the Ramspeck-Hill amendment to the Wheeler railroad bill, still pending before the upper chamber, will go a long ways toward correcting the rate discrimination evils compiained of by southern shippers.

The southeastern governors' conference, of which Governor Rivers, of Georgia, is chairman, has made a determined fight against rail freight differentials for the past two years.

PAINTER DROWNS IN PIEDMONT LAKE

Witness Reported Cliff Craig Jumped Into Pool.

The body of a man identified as Cliff Craig, 55, of 30 Capitol square, S. W., was recovered from the Piedmont park swimming pool yesterday morning a short time after a park employe reported seeing him jump from a diving platform.

Firemen worked for an hour attempting to revive him. Police said Craig's coat, containing a note, was found on the platform. The note indicated Craig, a housepainter, had been despondent. The body was removed to the mortuary of Harry G. Poole.

Craig is survived by four sisters, Mrs. C. B. Thibadeau, Mrs. Norris Noble, Miss Lula Craig and Mrs. Willie Harrington, of Vero Beach, Fla., and two brothers, Ed Craig, of Lake Wales, Fla., and Robert Craig, of Tennessee.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Harry G. Poole,

Dancing, Flying and Conquering Are Film Topics for Coming Week

'The Story of the Castles' at Fox; 'Only Angels Have Wings' Comes to Rialto. 'Man of Conquest' Opens at Paramount.

By LEE ROGERS,
Motion Picture Editor.

From the looks of the theater managers' advertising this week, we Atlanta moviegoers are in for the best week of film entertainment in some time.

Manager W. T. Murray is showing "Only Angels Have Wings," opening today at the Rialto after a profuse publicity campaign. Cary Grant and Jean Arthur are the box office names. Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire portray the "Story of Irene and Vernon Castle" in the feature of that name at the Fox. These dancing stars of today re-enact the lives of the stars who popularized dancing.

"Man of Conquest," the picture from Republic studios which Paramount Manager Billy Pratt and Republic Publicity Man Perry Spencer have been boosting for lo, these many months, will open tomorrow, packing outdoor action in a jam-up picture. (We know this has merit for it was seen in preview.)

Double features enter the second week at the Roxy today with Manager Moe Baranco offering Victor McLaglen and Boris Karloff in "The Lost Patrol," and the Jones Family in "A Trip to Paris."

"Calling Dr. Kildare" stars Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore at Loew's. Beauty is added by Lana Turner, Laraine Day and other Hollywood stars. The Capitol has a new vaudeville opening tomorrow and an action-filled gang picture in "You Can't Get Away With Murder." The Rhodes is opening tomorrow with "Lucky Night," starring Robert Taylor and Myrna Loy.

SOUTH AMERICAN SAGA OF AIR AT RIALTO

"Only Angels Have Wings," aviation saga from South America, opens at the Rialto today.

Costarring are Cary Grant and Jean Arthur. It is a story of adventurous American aviators, battling nature, the weather and mountain peaks in South America, to win a mail contract. Battling, too, against personal rivalries on the ground.

STORY OF THE CASTLES OPENS AT FOX

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers tread the path of yesterday in "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle," starting today at the Fox theater, which deals with those years immediately preceding the World War when the Castles set the whole world dancing.

To play the roles of Vernon and Irene Castle, monarchs of the dance in their day, the producers had at their command the dancing idols of today—Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. These two have danced their way through many screen successes, but in "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle' they have what they call their finest and most important vehicle.

In depicting the real life story of Mr. and Mrs. Castle, the screen also recreates a golden era of the dance, shattered by war, on the grave of which the jitterbugs now prance.

In the cast are Edna May Oliver, Walter Brennan, Lew Fields, Etienne Girardot, Janet Beecher, Donald MacBride and Frances Mercer.

"LOST PATROL" HEADS ROXY DUAL BILL

The Roxy, continuing its double-bill policy, will offer "The Lost Patrol" and the Jones family in "A Trip to Paris," commencing today.

"The Lost Patrol," starring Victor McLaglen and Boris Karloff, is a drama of a band of soldiers trapped on the burning sands of the desert and their reactions to the suffering. In a distinguished, all-male cast, Wallace Ford and Reginald Denny add much to this unusual and exciting drama of men against the Sahara.

The Jones family, with all the familiar faces, are transported to Gay Paree for "A Trip to Paris" and encounter all the social pitfalls familiar to an American abroad. A comedy in which the situations form a natural for this popular cinematic family.

Saturday morning will usher in a new series of special Saturday morning kiddie shows at the Roxy, under the auspices of "Uncle Harry" of radio fame. This jovial relation-by-radio of many of Atlanta's youngsters will auction off many objects dear to the heart of every boy and girl, including, bicycles, radios, baseball equipment, and take in payment hoarded bottle caps of a well-known beverage. On the screen will be shown a shoot-'em-up western, cartoon and comedies and a suspense-filled serial, "Mandrake the Magician."

PARAMOUNT TO SHOW "MAN OF CONQUEST"

The picturesque life of Sam Houston comes to the screen for the first time in Republic's "Man of Conquest," opening tomorrow at the Paramount theater.

Richard Dix plays the title role. A cast of thousands supports him, headed by Gail Patrick, Joan Fontaine, Edward Ellis, C. Henry Gordon, Robert Armstrong, Victor Jory, Ralph Morgan, Max Terhune and George Hayes.

The story concerns the eventful career of Houston, whom the Indians called "The Raven," and prominently interweaves the historic, consequential friendship of Houston and Andrew Jackson, who is portrayed by Edward Ellis.

Action is concerned mainly with the years 1812 to 1836. Brought to screen life are the War of 1812, the Battle of San Jacinto, where Houston's brave band cast the die of life or death for Texas independence. Joan Fontaine and Gail Patrick appear as the women in Houston's life.

THE LORDLY SWEEP OF THE ANDES . . . THE BREATHLESSNESS OF SUDDEN PERIL . . THE DRAMA OF A GREAT LOVE!

1939's mightiest film adventure! Months in the making! The magic of Hollywood creates a tropical "world" of swirling fog, crashing tempest, lush vegetation . . . as background for this blood-tingling . . . thrill-packed romance!

The stars of "Gunga Din" and "You Can't Take It With You"—together for the first time!

BABY SURVIVES WITH PEANUT IN LUNG 3 MONTHS

Although he's only 22 months old, Bobby Kemp, of Opp, Ala., took his place yesterday as a rarity in the history of bronchoscopic surgery, having survived three months with a peanut in his left lung.

Since February the baby had suffered recurrent attacks of bronchitis and pneumonia but X-rays showed no foreign body in the lungs due to the vegetable nature of the nut.

Finally a bronchoscopic examination was advised and the parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Kemp, brought Bobby to an Atlanta hospital Tuesday. A sizable piece of a roasted peanut was found and removed and the child is now reported doing well. The mother recalled after the operation that the baby had choked briefly after eating some peanuts in February.

Attending surgeons explained the case was unusual in the length of time which the nut remained in the lung without fatal results. Ordinarily, they said, a peanut—particularly a cooked one—decomposes rapidly and unless it is removed soon brings on pneumonia, abcesses or other complications that usually prove fatal.

DR. KILDARE SERIES CONTINUES AT LOEW'S

Returning to the screen for fresh triumphs following "Young Dr. Kildare," Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore resume their personal differences with a vengeance in the second of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer series, "Calling Dr. Kildare," opening tomorrow at Loew's Grand.

Assuming the title role, Ayres once more carries on as the protege of the garrulous Gillespie (Lionel Barrymore), who, knowing he has but a short time to live, selects Kildare to carry on his life's works. What ensues during the process is vividly shown in "Calling Dr. Kildare."

In order to learn the rudiments of medicine, Lew Ayres is sent to an outlying district, where he is kept under the watchful eye of Laraine Day, spy-nurse for Barrymore. The first day at the clinic finds the young medico involved in a bullet-wound case which he fails to report at the request of the victim's red-headed sister, Lana Turner. Involved in a plot which threatens his exposure to the police as an accessory after the fact and a resultant expulsion from his hospital, Ayres is sent away on a ruse by Barrymore in order for things to clear up. However, the young doctor returns in time to give the suspected victim a transfusion and to figure in the criminal's capture which releases his patient in the killing of a bookmaker.

WARDEN LAWES WRITES PRISON PICTURE

"You Can't Get Away With Murder," a prison drama written by Sing Sing's famous warden, Lewis E. Lawes, opens tomorrow at the Capitol. In the cast are Humphrey Bogart, Billy Halop, leader of the "Dead End" kids; George E. Stone, John Litel, Gale Page and Herbert Rawlston, a recent Atlanta visitor.

Every element of action known to the screen has been incorporated into this drama which tells a story of crime, gangs and prison life. Most of the story is based on actual happenings as recorded by Warden Lawes.

On the stage, the Capitol will bring a variety program of vaudeville acts, including the 3 Gasca brothers, European circus stars.

Others featured are: June Carr and Joe Rollo, famous comedy stars; Rahn Ormond, the novelty illusionist; Warner and Leigh, singers from "The Student Price" offering popular songs of the day and the Merrill twins, two handsome girls who dance.

TAYLOR-LOY ROMP IN "LUCKY NIGHT"

The screen's "Thin Man" heroine and "Camilli's" hero have been teamed for rollicking funmaking in "Lucky Night," the picture starting today at the Rhodes theater.

Robert Taylor, who has played hit roles in such recent films as "The Crowd Roars" and "Stand Up and Fight," now enacts a happy-go-lucky playboy. Miss Loy is right at home in comedy as Cora Jordan, the girl who runs out on her fourth engagement rather than marry a man she doesn't love.

A cast of funmakers support the starring team, among them Joseph Allen, Henry O'Neill, Douglas Fowley, Bernard Nedell and Charles Lane.

DODGE CITY OFFERED TO LATE GOERS

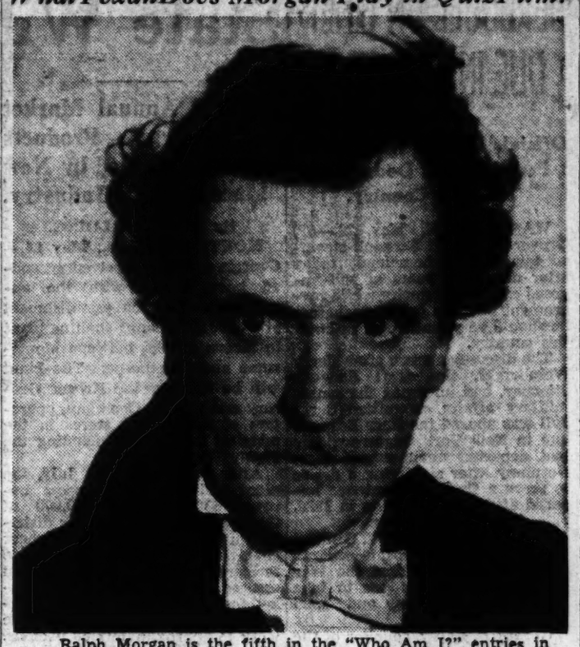

The roughest and toughest cattle town in the history of the western frontier is the setting for the vigorous tale of virile adventure told in "Dodge City," the Warner Brothers production in technicolor, starring Errol Flynn, which is the midnight offering at the Fox tomorrow.

Other members the cast are: Olivia de Havilland, Ann Sheridan, Bruce Cabot, Frank McHugh, Alan Hale, John Litel, Henry Travers, Henry O'Neill, Victory Jory, William Lundigan and "Big Boy" Williams.

RADIO PLEA DELAYED.

VALDOSTA, Ga., May 24.—The Valdosta Chamber of Commerce has been notified by the Federal Radio Commission that a hearing on the application for a radio broadcasting station in Valdosta has been postponed until July 10.

What Texan Does Morgan Play in Quiz Film?

Ralph Morgan is the fifth in the "Who Am I?" entries in the "Man of Conquest" contest, the winner of which will have a week's free trip to New York and the World's Fair.

Movie Contestants Must Identify Texan Depicted by Morgan in Film

Fifth in Series of Pictures and Questions Announced in 'Man of Conquest' World's Fair Trip Contest Sponsored by Theater.

"It seems I must always be cast as the gentle, misunderstood idealist, and my role in Republic's 'Man of Conquest' is no exception," said the quiet-spoken Ralph Morgan. "In this picture I play the brave visionary known to many as the 'Father of Texas.' It was I who brought the handful of courageous American settlers to Texas when it was part of Mexico, and later I suffered imprisonment under a Mexican tyrant. Who am I?"

If you know your history you will recognize this character immediately. At any rate, a little research will help you to discover his identity and permit you to join in the fascinating "Man of Conquest" contest, for which first prize is a free trip of a week in New York, visiting the World's Fair and many other points of interest—all this during Georgia Week at the fair.

In addition, there will be 25 pairs of guest tickets given by Billy Pratt, manager of the Paramount theater to see "Man of Conquest" which opens there tomorrow.

This is the fifth of a series of pictures and questions, the last of which will be published tomorrow. Your answers must be sent immediately to the "Man of Conquest" Editor of The Constitution. For Atlanta contestants the deadline is 11:30 Friday morning, and answers coming from other cities must be postmarked not later than 11:30 Friday morning.

With your six pictures and answers to questions, write a letter of not more than 100 words stating which of the historical characters represented you admire most, and tell why. That's all there is to it. So if you haven't started the fascinating game get busy immediately so that your entry will be in on time.

MRS. T. B. IRWIN, 89, DIES AT COBB HOME

Sister of Judge Atkinson To Be Buried Tomorrow Morning.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MARIETTA, Ga., May 24.—Mrs. Thomas Beverly Irwin, 89, sister of Judge S. C. Atkinson, of the Georgia supreme court, and member of a family that has long taken a leading part in the development of Georgia, died today at Irwin Manor, her home for the last 55 years. She was stricken Saturday.

Funeral services will be held Friday morning at 11 o'clock in St. James Episcopal church, with Dr. J. H. Patton, the Rev. C. E. Wood and the Rev. James V. Lawrence officiating. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers will include Beverly Irwin, Dave Irwin Jr., William A. Irwin, Bayard Irwin, Donald Lawrence and Ed Smith. The honorary escort named is Paul Lovejoy, Everett Irwin, J. T. Corley, Dr. R. G. Dunwoody, Herbert E. Hague, Eugene Setze, George Anderson, Fred Morris, Bayard McIntosh, Alston Goodman and Eugene Goodman.

War-time Refugee.

A revered character and known throughout the state, Mrs. Irwin was the former Miss Lillie C. Atkinson, daughter of the late Colonel and Mrs. A. S. Atkinson. Before her marriage she and her family refugeed in the 1860's to Scottsboro, near Milledgeville.

Returning to the Irwin home, three miles south of Marietta on Powder Springs road, she was married to Mr. Irwin, of Marietta, who was a prominent lawyer in north Georgia for 40 years. He died in 1916. His father, the late Judge David Irwin, compiled the first Georgia law code, known today as the "old Irwin code." Mrs. Irwin died on her husband's birthday.

Governor's Granddaughter.

The late Governor Charles J. McDonald, of Georgia, was her grandfather.

Surviving are three sons, Alexander (Lex) Irwin, of Marietta; David A. Irwin, of Buford; George B. Irwin, of Wichita, Kansas; a daughter, Miss Mary Anne Irwin; a brother, Judge S. C. Atkinson, of Cobb county; two sisters-in-law, Mrs. B. Atkinson, of Waverly; Mrs. D. Atkinson, of Thomasville; a number of grandchildren, a great-granddaughter and several nieces and nephews.

MOSELEY SPENDS DAY IN SECLUSION

Declines To Discuss Hearing Until He Appears Before Committee.

Major General George Van Horn Moseley spent yesterday in seclusion at the Biltmore hotel following his arrival early in the morning from the west coast en route to Washington to appear before the Dies committee investigating un-American activities.

It was learned the former Fourth Corps Area commander, now retired, planned to leave Atlanta Sunday night for Washington. His testimony concerning letters and other evidence assembled by the committee, indicating anti-Semetic activity, was scheduled to be given Monday.

General Moseley adhered to his attitude of declining to discuss the development for publication. He told all questioners to wait for his appearance before the committee and indicated he believed his testimony would prove of wide news interest.

His one observation on the case, made in El Centro, Cal., Saturday, after the committee's announcement of revelations, was: "I am trying to save the American people from themselves." This he repeated to Constitution reporters upon arrival in Atlanta, where he makes his home.

Father, 2 Sons Will Get Degrees at Same Time

WILLIAMSBURG, Ky., May 24. (AP)—Orena Wilder will have a lonesome 14-mile ride from her homein Walden, Ky., to Williamsburg next year for senior classes at Cumberland College.

Her father, M. H. Wilder, 44, and her two brothers, Baylor and Vernon, won't be making the daily trip any more.

The father and sons—classmates—will be graduated together on May 29.

BERGDOLL ON LINER DUE IN U. S. TODAY

Oficials Debate Whether To Permit Draft Dodger To Re-enter Country.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP) Grover Cleveland Bergdoll steamed toward his homeland today after nearly 20 years of self-imposed exile in Germany while government officials debated whether he should be permitted to re-enter this country.

The discussion arose after Harry Weinberger, the draft dodger's attorney, had informed the senate military affairs committee Bergdoll was aboard the liner Bremen, due in New York tomorrow. He had departed unannounced from Germany after signifying a desire to serve a five-year sentence imposed after his conviction in 1920.

Entry To Be Opposed.

Major General Allen W. Gullion, the army's judge advocate general, told the committee that the War Department was anxious to take Bergdoll into custody and send him to prison.

Gerard D. Reilly, solicitor of the Labor Department, said immigration authorities would oppose Bergdoll's entry on the ground that he had forfeited his citizenship by his nearly 20 years of exile.

Bill to Bar Entry Studied.

The committee had under consideration a house-approved bill designed to close the doors of the United States to Bergdoll and any other draft evaders who might have fled this country to escape punishment.

After hearing conflicting testimony concerning Bergdoll's citizenship by representatives of various government agencies, Chairman Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, of the military committee, announced that no attempt would be made to speed the exclusion legislation through the senate before Bergdoll arrived.

THIRD TERM APPROVED.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 24.—(AP)—The Missouri Federation of Labor approved by a rising vote today a resolution favoring a third term of President Roovele,t "the friend of labor."

State Will Get $100,000 Peanut Plant

$400,000 Annual Market for Georgia Products To Be Provided by New Macon County Industry.

By JACK SPALDING.

MONTEZUMA, Ga., May 24.—Georgia products received an added boost today, with the announcement of the establishment of a $100,000 peanut-shelling plant in Macon county, between Montezuma and Oglethorpe. The plant will be built by the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company, operators of 3,900 retail stores in the midwest and south, including the Piggly Wiggly chain.

After completion this July, the plant will buy and process between $300,000 and $400,000 of Georgia peanuts a year for distribution and sale through Kroger chain outlets and will provide farmers of this vicinity with an assured, cash-on-the-barrel market for one of their most important crops. The plant will give work to approximately 60 persons.

6,000 Tons Annually.

The plans today call for equipment with a capacity of 6,000 tons of peanuts annually, with possibility of expansion if the company's volume of peanut products continues to grow as it has in the past. A water tower, office building and power plant have been completed, and work is now proceeding on the foundation for the main building. An innovation in peanut shelling plant construction will be three 75-foot concrete silos, 60 feet in diameter, for peanut storage. Proper storage, it was pointed out, will enable the plant to operate from 25 to 35 weeks a year.

Details of the new industry, and possibilities of its expansion were discussed this afternoon by Albert H. Morrill, company president, at a barbecue given by the Montezuma Kiwanis Club on the 21-acre tract bought for the plant.

He said he was very much impressed with the quality and variety of Macon county agricultural products, which, he commented, his company may eventually take and put into salable condition here in Georgia for nation-wide consumption.

Soon to be processed in Georgia for shipment out of state is Macon county's annual half million dollar peanut crop. Inspecting a sample, from left to right, are W. L. Campbell, general manager of the Kroger Grocery Company's manufacturing plants; Mary Mullino, Ed M. McKenzie, chairman of Macon county commissioners, Claire McKenzie and Governor Rivers.

Co-operation Stressed.

In his talk he stressed co-operation between farmer and the seller of farm products as the logical solution of many farm problems. The farmer's greatest difficulty, Morrill says, is getting the products from his fields into the stomach of the consumers.

Marketing organizations, and sales promotions hold the answer to the problem of surplus products rather than curtailment, he believes.

Before the barbecue, Morrill, other grocery company officials; Colonel B. L. Bugg, president of the A., B. & C. Railroad; Governor Rivers and others were taken on a tour of Macon county farms and shown the section's famous peach orchards and packing sheds, the birthpl..e of the commercial peach industry, the state's largest wheat field, beef cattle, pecan groves, and fields of asparagus, watermelons, potatoes, pimentoes, peanuts and other evidences of Macon county's highly successful program of diversified agriculture.

At the close of the days' events, he was presented with canned and preserved samples of all of the county's farm produce.

Rivers Welcome Industry.

Speaking at the barbecue, which was attended by several hundred prominent residents of the vicinity, the Governor welcomed Morrill, his associates and their new industry to the state, saying that it was another forward step in his desire to see Georgia agriculture on a finished products rather than a raw material basis. He called marketing the sore spot in Georgia's agricultural economy, and said the establishment of this, and similar plants in other counties would do much to relieve the farmers' ever-present problem of where to sell his goods.

"It is significant," he stated, "that the president of the company should come here for the occasion, and I think I am justified in reading between the lines, and prophesying additions to this initial plant."

In a brief talk, Columbus Roberts, commissioner of agriculture said establishment of more processing plants would aid in the Georgia farmer greatly by providing certain markets for products other than cotton, and by shortening the long road between farmer and consumer.

Other Speakers.

Presiding at the barbecue was Dr. Tom Adams, president of the Kiwanis Club. Invocation was delivered by the Rev. Henry J. Stokes Jr., pastor of the First Baptist church, of Montezuma. Welcoming addresses were made for Montezuma by W. H. McKenzie; for Oglethorpe by Dr. Charles A. Greer, mayor for the past 27 years, and for Macon county, Ed M. McKenzie, chairman of county commissioners. Brief talks were made by Mr. Bugg and H. D. Pollard, receiver of the Central of Georgia, both of whose lines are adjacent to the plant.

Morrill, accompanied by W. L. Campbell, general manager of the manufacturing plants of the grocery company and its subsidiaries, other company officials, the Governor, Pat Gillen, his executive aide, and others arrived early this morning on A., B. & C. special cars that were parked on the siding built for the plant. The party left for Atlanta late this afternoon.

MAYOR URGES WAR ON SLOT MACHINES

manner, "but law enforcement would be easy if police had only the underworld to deal with. It is when the underworld ties in with the decent, respectable element that enforcement becomes difficult.

Allies of Underworld.

"We see this every day in cases where respectable people, because of some selfish reason, usually money or property, make themselves allies of the underworld."

The mayor pointed out that cleanup campaigns in cities in other sections of the country bring dangerous potentialities to Atlanta because "those who have been run out of these cities are looking for a good place to light."

"At least 90 per cent of the pinball games in the city are used for gambling," he continued. "Children are learning to gamble on these machines. And these 'games' are just being used as a front to get in the slot-machines later. The slot-machine business is nothing but the rottenest kind of racket.

Million-Dollar Racket.

"There is big money in it—at least a million dollars a year here in Atlanta. These men would like nothing better than a city administration and a police department that would look the other way."

Turning to the machines, the mayor "introduced" them. One was the type of machine known as the "one-armed bandit," or the "old-fashioned type." The others were a poker-hand slot machine, in a small mahogany cabinet. Another was a machine which "paid off at the cash register." The other was what the mayor called a "streamlined slot-machine," a small, compact metal box, with the gambling "business" disguised.

"The manufacturers of these things," went on the mayor, "frankly state that within 60 days they will pay for themselves and make plenty of profit. After the 60-day period, they boast that the 'police can have 'em!'"

Machines Boost Crime.

Mayor Hartsfield pointed out that pinball games and slot machines bring about increases in other crimes.

"Last year, there were 107 burglaries of pinball machines in various establishments," he said. "Nothing else was looted except the machine."

He stressed that "war against gambling and crime is continuous," saying:

"There must never be a letup in the campaign against racketeering and crime. The racketeers take advantage of the indifference of the public. Let 'em alone and they'll take your town. It behooves us all to know about these things and to watch out for them."

Strikes in High Places.

Referring again to "decent people," the mayor struck at "people in high places."

"In the old days, people high in business, banking and the professions lived lives that were examples of good conduct to the rest of the community. They were pillars of the church and people to be imitated in good conduct," he said.

"But that is not true now-a-days. How can a businessman who breaks the law expect his clerks and other employes not to break the law also?

Urges Co-operation.

"And when responsible persons gamble, they fail to realize that they are helping to break down the very system which protects their property.

"There will never be genuine law-enforcement until this class sets an example for others and abides by the law."

The mayor also stated that judges, city and state legislative bodies, parole bodies and grand juries, as well as police officers, need to co-operate if a cleanup is to be brought about.

His speech drew prolonged applause.

Over 40 years ago, H. G. Wells, the English author, was a sickly teacher of biology, who expected to die soon. Today he turns out not less than two full-length books nearly every year.

Civic Boosters Tour Atlanta Area Seeking City's Best Selling Points

Municipal Airport, Ginger Ale Plant Inspected on Chamber of Commerce Trip Designed To Show Opportunities of Locality.

About 100 of Atlanta's best civic boosters took time off from business routines yesterday to go searching for new sparkling points with which to sell this industrial city—and found them in, of all things, ginger ale and airplanes.

This was another of the Chamber of Commerce's bi-monthly industrial tours which are designed to acquaint Atlanta businessmen with the wonderful opportunities for industrial expansion to be found in their own backyard. This civic lesson is taught by touring plants of industries already well established here.

Yesterday the itinerary included the Canada Dry Ginger Ale plant at 1876 Murphy avenue, S. W., and the municipal airport. At the former they learned what there is in this "water" that puts "fizz" in their long, tall drinks, and at the airport the Delta Air Lines provided a transport plane to take the sightseers up high enough that they might see their city actually sparkling below them.

Officials had men demonstrate how fruit juices are pasteurized and how each bottle spends 25 minutes in a $25,000 sterlizing machine before the various drinks are poured into them. Kingman Moore is director of the southeastern division of the company which is headed by Roy W. Moore, formerly of Macon.

Airport Manager Jack Gray explained the air terminal.

Tribute Is Paid Mrs. John Ottley By Tallulah Group at Meeting

By Sally Forth.

MEMBERS of the Young Matrons' Circle for Tallulah Falls School paid sincere tribute to Mrs. John K. Ottley yesterday when the organization's membership gathered in annual spring meeting at the Piedmont Driving Club. The affection of every young matron for this beloved president of the school's board of trustees was expressed by Mrs. Charles T. Pottinger in verse, which she read as her last official act before relinquishing the office to Mrs. James Frazer, the circle's new leader.

A handsome electric clock of sun-dial design was presented Mrs. Ottley as an expression of her services for the school. In presenting the gift to Mrs. Ottley, Mrs. Pottinger compared it to "The Light in the Mountains," the name often applied to the school that casts its rays of hope, sunshine and opportunity to the deserving children residing in the mountains of north Georgia.

Mrs. Pottinger was assisted in the presentation of the massive timepiece by Mrs. Willard McBurney, a former president of the circle.

The following poem, which was written by Mrs. Pottinger's aunt, Mrs. Mary Venable Womble, well-known poet, was read by the group's retiring president in tribute to Mrs. Ottley:

"I always think of the loveliest things
When your dear name I hear,
Like songs of hope on rainbow wings,
And children's laughter on the mountain air.

"We follow through the realms of Time
Your Star of Inspiration,
Where satellites in rhythmic chime
Revolve in glad co-operation.

"To fair Tallulah lands we go
To find your bit of heaven;
Your joyful service we would know,
Your magic wand of leaven.

"There is a glory of moon, stars and sun,
The glory of a woman like you—
The Master will say to you: 'Well done,
For Light and Love and lives made new!'"

Achievements of the Young Matrons' Circle during the past year were reflected in the unusual decorations which featured the alfresco buffet luncheon following the meeting. The circus theme was carried out on the long buffet table, the three rings representing miniature tableaux depicting the navy band concert, the horse show and the fashion show, three major projects sponsored by the circle during the past year.

Small dolls, representing Mrs. Harold McKenzie, and Mrs. Philip L'Engle, chairmen for the concert, were in the navy band "ring." In the horse show ring dolls depicted Mrs. Eugene Harrington and Mrs. Marion Candler, chairmen for this event. In the fashion show ring, Mrs. Murdock Equen, Mrs. John K. Ottley Jr. and Mrs. Fort Adams were represented by dolls.

Tiny pennants fluttering in the breeze over the imaginary big top bore the names of the officers and general chairmen of the circle. The novel decorations were the handiwork of Mrs. Willard McBurney and Mrs. E. A. Cronheim.

ONE of the loveliest of the "sweet girl graduates" at Washington Seminary last evening was Ladi Sanz, of Ponce, Puerto Rico, who spent the past winter here with her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Ricardo Mestre, on Martina drive. Ladi's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Angel Sanz, arrived from Puerto Rico several weeks ago to visit their brother and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Mestre, and to attend the graduation of their daughter.

The trio will leave this morning for Washington, D. C., where they will investigate schools for girls, with the idea of Ladi completing her education in the national capital next year. They will sail next Wednesday from Baltimore for their island home.

Since her arrival in Atlanta, Ladi has made a host of friends among the college contingent, who regret that her stay here is ended. One of her closest friends is Virginia Kirkland, schoolgirl daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Spencer Kirkland, who will, in all probability, visit her in Puerto Rico this summer. That is, if present plans carry through for the United States army reserve officers, who expect to charter a boat for a trip to the island about the middle of June. In that event, Virginia will sail with them under the chaperonage of Dr. and Mrs. Perrin Nicolson and Dr. and Mrs. E. N. Schillinger, to spend the summer with Ladi.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanz have been extensively entertained during their visit here to Dr. and Mrs. Mestre, with a round of luncheons, teas and dinners crowding each day. Dr. and Mrs. Perrin Nicolson were among their hosts, assembling a group of friends on Tuesday as a farewell gesture to the visitors.

PATRICE POOLE, that popular gadabout who recently returned from Sea Island Beach, is off again! The travel enthusiast and Mrs. John M. Bell and Alberta Bell, of Decatur, left yesterday for Washington, D. C., and Forest Glenn, Md., where they will attend the graduation of Anne Bell, an attractive member of Atlanta's college contingent enrolled at National Park Seminary.

Patrice will be joined by her aunt, Mrs. Clyde King Jr., who will arrive in time for the cap-and-gown event on June 1. Mrs. King, you know, is a graduate of National Park Seminary, and manifests great enthusiasm in the "doings" of her alma mater.

Clyde King Jr. and little daughter, Frances, accompanied by Patrice's grandmother, Mrs. T. O. Poole, will meet the pretty blond belle and her attractive aunt later in Washington, after which the family group will journey to New York city to mingle with World's Fair visitors at the mammoth playground. They have a host of friends in New York city, who anticiapte their arrival with eagerness.

Their enjoyable vacation will conclude with a sojourn with friends on Gwoque, Long Island.

Heads Young Matrons' Circle

Neblett Photo.

MRS. JAMES N. FRAZER.

Mrs. James N. Frazer was elected president of the Young Matrons' Circle for Tallulah Falls school at the annual spring meeting of this prominent organization held yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club. Mrs. Frazer was presented the gavel by Mrs. Charles T. Pottinger, who, with yesterday's meeting, concluded two years of brilliant achievement in work for the mountain school.

Mrs. Frazer is well qualified to become leader of the circle as she has taken an active part in affairs of the organization since her marriage. She has served as chairman of entertainment committee during the past year and much of the success of the recent horse show ball sponsored by the circle is credited to her efforts.

The newly elected president is a graduate of the North Avenue Presbyterian school and Sweetbriar College. As Miss Rebecca Young, she made her debut with the Debutante Club of 1935-1936 and was one of the season's most popular belles. Mrs. Frazer is a member of the Girls' Circle for Tallulah Falls school.

Elected to serve with her are Mesdames Charles H. King, first vice president; William C. Warren Jr., second vice president; Crawford F. Barnett, third vice president; George Griffin Jr., recording secretary; J. J. Singleton, corresponding secretary, and Blair Foster, treasurer. Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright is honorary president.

New directors named are Mesdames Herman Evins, Robert Vance, Pope Brock, Ben T. Smith, Edward S. Wright, Frank M. Inman Jr., Clevent Evans, E. L. Osborne, Frank Sites and O. D. Bartlett.

Over $16,000 Raised.

A high point of yesterday's business session was the announcement of the grand total realized for the year from membership dues, scholarship payments and the three major projects of the group, including the Navy Band concert in November; the Atlanta horse show in May, and the fashion show the latter part of May. The grand total represents cash on hand and does not include additional funds from this year's work which will be received before the end of the school year. It was reported that to date there has been paid into the circle treasury $16,617.36. Of his amount, $6,890 is credited to scholarship payments and $9,727.36 to dues and earnings.

Mrs. Harold McKenzie, chairman of the band projects, announced that of this latter amount $2,496.87 was realized from the concert. Mrs. McKenzie was assisted in this enterprise by Mrs. Philip L'Engle as ticket chairman.

Mrs. Eugene Harrington, general chairman for the horse show, presented by the Atlanta Horse Show Association, and sponsored by the Young Matrons' Circle, announced that cash on hand from the circle's earnings relative to the horse show, has been deposited so far from the concessions only which include the barbecue and horse show ball. Mrs. Marion P. Candler assisted Mrs. Harrington as co-chairman of the horse show. Cash thus deposited is $899.03, with the circle's proportionate share of gate receipts and boxes to be added later.

Mrs. Murdock Equen, chairman of the fashion show; Mrs. John K. Ottley Jr., co-chairman; Mrs. Fort Adams, ticket chairman, and Mrs. Robert Vance and Mrs. Seth Mellen, co-chairmen of tickets, received from the show $785.33 for the circle.

Scholarship Report.

Of interest among reports made was that of the scholarship chairman, Mrs. Hugh M. Dorsey Jr., of the receipt of scholarship gifts paid in the sum of $6,890 for the year.

Enthusiastic thanks was expressed for the Frances Pardee perpetual scholarship bequest of $2,000 given by Mrs. Don A. Pardee. The Harriett Cordelia Dick Inman perpetual scholarship of $2,000; the memorial of Mrs. Morris Brandon in memory of her mother, the late Mrs. Walker P. Inman, was reported paid in full. The Elizabeth Rutherford Seydel scholarship of $150 was received from the baby's grandmother, Mrs. Paul Seydel Sr.

Mrs. Charles J. Haden and Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Hawkins gave annual scholarships of $150, which were greatly appreciated by circle members. Mrs. W. W. Brookes, Mrs. Price Gilbert and Harry A. Alexander were thanked for tenth anniversary gifts of $100 and the report was given of many tenth anniversary gifts of smaller sums.

Mrs. Dorsey expressed gratification in announcing the Jessie Thompson Pottinger scholarship of $150. This scholarship was given by friends as a tribute of appreciation for two splendid years of work by this beloved retiring president.

The Herbert Porter memorial scholarship of $150 was proposed by Mrs. Eugene Harrington as a tribute of esteem and appreciation for one of Tallulah's most valued, helpful and appreciated friends. The suggestion was accepted unanimously by the Young Matron's group.

An honored guest introduced to the circle at this time was Mrs. Thomas J. White, of Long Island, who, with Mr. White, is the donor of the Ann Gillette perpetual scholarship in memory of Mrs. White's mother.

Interest was shown in reports from other Tallulah circles whose representatives were present at this meeting. Miss Martha Blalack, president of the North Fulton Tallulah Juniors, reported $190 for the school; Miss Jean McIntosh, president of the Washington Seminary Juniors, $153, and Mrs. Rufus Carswell, president of the Girls' Circle for Tallulah Falls school, $150.

Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, resident vice president of the Tallulah trustees, expressed the school's appreciation of the splendid service for Tallulah rendered during ten of the finest years of the life of the "Light in the Mountains" institution.

Mrs. Pottinger's Gift.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick presented to Mrs. Pottinger a hand-woven shopping bag with the school's love and appreciation.

Towels were presented to Mrs. Robert L. Towles, who leaves at an early date to make her home in Birmingham, as a token of appreciation of many years of loyal service to Tallulah.

Miss Grace Fretwell, president, and Miss Dorothy Hills, historian, of the senior class of 28 graduates of 1939 from Tallulah were present. They expressed appreciation of a gift of $50 from the Young Matron's Circle to be used in connection with a similar gift of $50 from Miss Marian Woodward, trustee-sponsor, to rebuild the school tennis court as a parting gift from this class. The class during the year placed a velvet curtain at a cost of $125 in the school auditorium.

Little Bessie Bragg, one of the school's youngest pupils, expressed appreciation of the gift for the many future years.

Talks were made by Mrs. Pottinger, Miss Woodward, Mrs. Rix Stafford, Mrs. Percy Adams and Mrs. John K. Ottley, chairman of the board of trustees, in telling of Tallulah's 29th commencement May 13-19.

In retiring from her office Mrs. Pottinger said: "We come now to the close of the two terms of office which, as your president, I have enjoyed. If I have been able to help you in the work at the Tallulah Falls school I am happy in that thought. Your willingness and your response to appeals for help has been wonderful and the spirit of co-operation among this group makes it an outstanding organization. Keep up your interest in the school at Tallulah for there character training as a fundamental is taught along with the other rudiments of education. The guiding hand of one we all love and honor has shed light over those these past two years comparable only to the rays of the sun which is signified in these beautiful decorations today."

Following the business session an alfresco buffet luncheon was enjoyed under the trees by the Driving Club pool.

Reid - Harvey Rites Will Be Solemnized At Church on June 7

Announcement is made today of the wedding plans of Miss Harriett Reid and Dillard Harvey. The marriage of this popular couple will be solemnized on June 7 at the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Dr. Ryland Knight will perform the ceremony before an assemblage of friends and relatives of the couple.

Mrs. Charles Chalmers will present a program of music.

Edward Johnson Reid, father of the bride, will give his daughter in marriage and Winston Harvey Jr., brother of the groom-elect, will be best man.

Miss Charlotte Granberry will be the bride-elect's maid of honor and the bridesmaids will include Misses Laura Sale, Florrie Guy, and Rebekah Hogan. Little Henrietta Reid, cousin of the bride-elect, will be junior bridesmaid.

The groomsmen will include A. P. Yundt, Robert G. Harvey and Edmund Schaefer, of Lynchburg, Va. James Spottswood Harvey will be the junior groomsman.

Ushers will be John P. Harvey, Powell G. Dillard, David H. Dillard, John W. Dillard, all of Lynchburg, Va.; Starr S. Dillard, of Greensboro, and Newton S. Herod, of this city.

A series of prenuptial affairs has been planned in honor of the betrothed couple. Among those entertaining will be Miss Charlotte Granberry, Mrs. J. B. Dickey, Miss Laura Sale, Mrs. Henry S. Reid, Miss Florrie Guy and Mrs. Roy K. Hendee. The dates and nature of these affairs will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Wivston Harvey will compliment the engaged pair at a buffet supper preceding the wedding rehearsal. Guests will include members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

For Miss Smith.

Miss Joyce Smith, bride-elect, was honored yesterday at a luncheon at which her sister, Mrs. Clarence Reese Jr., and her cousin, Miss Alline Tolbert, were hostesses, at the Colonial Terrace.

Covers were marked by bridal place cards at each of the 12 guests' places.

Kappa Alpha Deltas To Entertain Friday at East Lake Country Club

Kappa Alpha Delta sorority entertains at its annual spring formal tomorrow evening at 10 o'clock at East Lake Country Club. Preceding the dance, members and their escorts will dine at the club at 8 o'clock.

Decorations will carry out the sorority colors, blue and white, and a feature of the dinner will be the announcement of officers for the coming year.

Mrs. H.H. Sampson To Fete Bride-Elect

Miss Dorothy Bagwell, whose marriage to Worth Yankey will be a social event of the near future, will be central figure on Tuesday at the luncheon at which Mrs. Harold Sampson will entertain at 1 o'clock at her home on Club drive.

Mrs. Clinton Bagwell, mother of the popular bride-elect, will assist in entertaining.

Guests invited are Misses Mildred Ewing, Cora Gantt, Helen Roberts, Ann Brumby, Mary Ann Hilsman, Marion Williams, Nancy Moody, Mary Carver, Bebe Young, Marney Sampson and Mrs. T. B. Shropshire.

Popular Visitors Continue To Be Feted.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl McFarland, of Washington, who are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Tuttle, on Brighton road, continue to be honored at many parties.

Mr. McFarland is attending the Georgia Bar Association convention here.

Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Longino were hosts yesterday at 5:30 o'clock at their home on Brighton road at a tea complimenting the visitors. Guests included a group of friends of the honorees.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tye were hosts at a dinner party for Mr. and Mrs. McFarland and Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle last evening.

Mrs. McFarland was feted recently at a luncheon at which Mrs. Wiley Ballard was hostess at her home on Habersham road.

Guests included a dozen friends of the hostess and honoree.

Miss Peggy Gaddis To Speak at Club.

Miss Peggy Gaddis, highest paid pulp magazine woman writer in the United States, will speak to the Amateur Writers' Club this evening at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A.

Miss Gaddis is a most prolific and talented author. Her present contracts call for some six or eight novels a year, and in addition she is a well-known contributor to Cosmopolitan and other national slick paper publications.

Other features of the program will be a discussion of "The Modern Trend," by Mrs. Dorothy Bruce Scruggs, and the open forum.

The criticism group will be conducted by Miss Leita Bricken from 7 until 8 in the conference room.

New Salads and Sandwiches For Your Summer Repertory

By SALLY SAVER

Sandwich and salad days are here again. They should be happy days for the housekeeper, because they provide more time to play, and, of course, cooler meals. After a word of warning about the possibility of overdoing the matter of serving cool foods to an extent that nutrition might be impaired, straightway I shall give you some vegetable salad recipes which will prove helpful in getting in the vegetable quota and at the same time keeping the menu cool.

A string bean salad is both pretty and good.

String Bean Salad.

2 quarts young string beans.
6 narrow rings of pimento.
French dressing.
Indian dressing.

Choose beans with smooth, slender pods. Bulging pods mean mature and usually tougher beans. Wash and string beans and cook them whole in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and cool. Marinate in French dressing. Chill thoroughly. Arrange in mounds on tender lettuce leaves, holding each mound together with a pimento ring. Serve with Indian dressing.

Indian dressing is made by taking 2 cups mayonnaise and adding to it 1-4 cup chopped chow-chow pickles.

Cucumber Boat Salad.

2 tomatoes.
1-2 cup chopped celery.
1 teaspoon salt.
1-8 teaspoon pepper.
1 tablespoon chopped onion.
Mayonnaise.

Chill cucumbers and tomatoes. Peel cucumbers. Cut in halves lengthwise. Remove pulp from centers, being careful not to break the outside. Peel tomatoes, cut in cubes and drain. Mix the cucumber pulp, tomatoes, celery, salt, pepper and onions and moisten with mayonnaise. Fill the cucumber halves (boats) with this mixture and arrange on crisp leaves of lettuce or romaine. Garnish with parsley.

Julienne Salad.

1 green pepper.
1 cup cooked carrots.
2 cups shredded cabbage.
1-4 teaspoon salt.

Remove outside leaves from a small, firm head of cabbage. Cut in halves or quarters and slice very thin. Put in ice water until crisp. Drain thoroughly. Remove seeds and partitions from peppers and cut in fine shreds. Cut cooked carrots in strips and marinate in French dressing. Mix one shredded pepper and one cup carrot strips with each two cups shredded cabbage. Serve on leaves of lettuce or romaine or on one of the large cabbage leaves, with piquant dressing.

Piquant Dressing.

Use French dressing for foundation, add 1-2 teaspoon mustard, 1-8 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1-2 teaspoon onion juice and 2 drops tobasco.

And now for two nourishing sandwiches to add to your repetory.

Summer Savory Sandwich.

Bread (crusts trimmed).
Salad dressing or mayonnaise.
American cheese.
Spiced ham.
Thousand Island dressing.
Hard-cooked eggs.
Parsley.

Toast bread on one side. Spread the untoasted side of each with salad dressing. On one-half of the slices of toast place a slice of cheese, a slice of ham and cover each with another piece of toast. Cut each sandwich twice, or in four squares and arrange them on the plate. Put Thousand Island dressing over each portion and top each with a slice of hard-boiled egg. Garnish with parsley.

Salmon Sandwich De Luxe.

Bread (crusts trimmed).
Salmon.
Horseradish.
Lemon juice.
Mayonnaise.
Salt, pepper.
Butter, melted.
American cheese.
Milk.

Flake the salmon, remove bones and mix with the horseradish, lemon juice, mayonnaise and seasonings. Spread generously between slices of bread. Spread the outsides of each sandwich with melted butter, and toast the sandwiches on both sides under the low, broiler heat until brown. Slowly melt the cheese in top of double boiler. Add the milk, gradually stirring constantly, until sauce is smooth. Serve a generous amount of this hot cheese sauce over each salmon sandwich. And garnish with sweet pickles.

Questions about recipes, cooking, menus, parties, or other food subjects, will be answered gladly. Just phone or write Sally Saver, Walnut 6565.

Utterly Feminine

By Lillian Mae

A heart-breaker if there ever was one—this adorably frivolous, utterly feminine little Lillian Mae dress. And a heap o' fun to make, too! With the easy-to-follow Instruction Sheet that accompanies Pattern 4155, even a beginner could cut and baste and stitch up this dress like an old hand. The smooth fitting, high-pointed girdle makes your waist look trim and little, in dramatic contrast to the flare of the skirt and the soft, full bodice. The grace of the low V-neck is enhanced by ruffles and a cluster of bright flowers. Cut the sleeves short and wide, or finish them off with a perky surprise bow.

Pattern 4155 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 3 1-2 yards 39 inch fabric and 3-4 yard ruffling.

Player's Average Expectancies In Bridge

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Early in bridge, players are taught the Rule of Eight as a means of anticipating the combined trick-taking strength of a partnership and to assist them in tentatively placing the balance of high-card power held by opponents.

For simplicity's sake, players are taught to expect the average deal of bridge to produce about eight honor-tricks around the table; and that these eight honors should win eight of the total 13 tricks won in each deal. This 8-5 ratio is generally applied to both trump and notrump contracts as a method for quickly judging the approximate value of partnership hands.

4-5-6 COUNT

When combined hands contain four honor-tricks, a contract of one odd is considered comparatively safe.

With five honor-tricks combined, the partnership is told it may expect to make a contract of two odd.

A total of six honor-tricks combined signals a game zone. With rare exceptions, at either suit or notrump contracts, game should be possible, This is the basis of game-forcing jump suit and notrump takouts holding 3 1-2 honor-tricks, after partner with 2 1-2 to 3 honor-tricks, has opened the bidding.

The 4-5-6 table is a good guide for the average player because it is easy to remember.

GAME ON 5 H. T.

But, a combined holding of six honors is not always necessary to produce game, especially in a major suit.

With no major suit available, it is safer to know there are six honors combined in the two hands before trying for game, but with either hand holding a fair major suit, 5 1-2 honors will more than likely be sufficient.

With a good, substantial major suit, five honors combined should suffice and very often game can be reached with as little as 4 1-2 honors in the two friendly hands.

DEFENSIVE BIDDING.

This fact accounts for many game contracts being successfully bid and made in the face of a sound adverse opening bid followed by reassuring raises by opposing bidder's partner . . . the reason why so many times game bids and often slam contracts are developed by defending bidders after a takeout double.

'Til tomorrow . . . .

Night Blindness May Be Relieved By Vitamin A

By Dr. William Brady.

Generally glare is harmful, a strain on eyesight, fatiguing to vision and to patience, a cause of painful and serious eye inflammation, and, as thousands know to their sorrow, a cause of many traffic accidents.

Unreasonably powerful headlights or unadjusted lights are more or less trying to all who have to drive at night. Some of us however, are actually more sensitive to headlight glare than others. It is not mere imagination nor fussiness. To the best of our present scientific knowledge an individual's sensitivity to glare depends on the ability of a substance known as visual purple, which is bleached by strong light, to regenerate quickly in the rod cells of the retina or light sensitive film in the back of the eye. When regeneration of the visual purple is slow the momentary blindness that every one experiences immediately after brilliant light has shined into the eyes continues for longer periods, from seconds to hours or days, depending on the circumstances.

When such capacity to regenerate visual purple is markedly diminished, the individual himself, or at any rate his friends or other observers, recognize that he has night - blindness, hemeralopia, which really means day-blindness, but by characteristic medical confusion has replaced the term nyctalopia, which really means what we're talking about—you pays your money and takes your choice of terms, only please remember it means inability to see well in dust, semi-darkness, after sunset, following a flash or sudden glare in the eyes, against opposing traffic, in a dimly lighted room when you come in from bright daylight. By means of a simple instrument (biophotometer) a precise measurement of the time it takes to regenerate the visual purple or of the night-blindness may be made —the subject indicates how many points of dim light he perceives in a totally dark space—and this is regarded as a fair indication of the subject's vitamin A reserve or deficiency, for vitamin A is essential for regeneration of the visual purple; the retina is normally rich in vitamin A.

Again I suggest to any one who is excessively dazzled or blinded by glare or who suffers from any degree of night-blindness that a fair test of the value of vitamin A would be to take one hundred thousand (100,000) U. S. P. units of natural vitamin A (not carotene, which is only pro-vitamin A and must be changed into vitamin A in metabolism) daily for a week, and after that one capsule (25,000 units) a day for several months, especially if improvement is experienced in the first week or so. Soft capsules, each containing 25,000 units of natural vitamin A concentrate, are easy for adults or children to take.

In some instances of hypersensitivity to glare or troublesome night-blindness marked relief may be obtained from much smaller amounts of vitamin A. However, experience has shown that in many cases the optimal quantity I have suggested is necessary, and over a period of at least a week, to produce a definite result.

A Budget Plan Guards Your Happiness

"Good-by, good-by," wave the bride and groom. But are they saying good-by, too, to fun, carefree days? Not the clever moderns.

"We've worked out a budget plan," they say, "which cares for our special wants as well as our daily living—leaves money for pleasures, too."

Does that sound like financial wizardry? It isn't really. You simply plan ahead in your spending, allot to each item such as rent and food a certain portion of your income.

Good idea to look at a model budget plan based on an income like yours—then adjust figures to your own wants.

A charming home may be your first want—you have important friends to entertain—so you decide to spend $45 for rent out of a salary of $160. A little high but you economize in other ways.

Your food bills? Fifty cents a day for each person is a safe rule. You easily stay within it by keeping meal plans flexible, watching prices, jot down "fresh fruit" for dessert. Then, if raspberries are high, strawberries cheap, buy the latter.

But suppose entertaining knocks your food budget skyhigh? Have more fun, fewer "leaks" by setting aside a separate sum each month for company, recreation.

And losing that glorious feeling of independence when each has a personal allowance! How much should it be? What to allow for clothes? Savings?

Our 40-page booklet, HOW TO BUDGET YOUR INCOME, tells how to plan your spending to get what you want, suggests amounts proper for routine expenses. Gives sample budgets used by real people, ruled pages for a year's entries.

Send 15 cents in coins for our booklet, HOW TO BUDGET YOUR INCOME, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

SKIRTS ARE GOING HIGHER: And here's one, worn by Jane Bryan of the films, that is at least 18 inches from the ground. The skirt is part of a black jersey dress, with exaggerated shoulders, soft sleeves and a smooth waistline that is achieved by deep tucks, released below the waist. The popular lingerie trim is used on the top front of the dress.

Popular Lingerie Trim Worn by Jane Bryan

By Sheilah Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—Skirts are going higher and higher every day. Take a peek at the dress worn by Jane Bryan, who is appearing with Bette Davis in "The Old Maid." It is at least eighteen inches from the ground and is fashioned of black jersey with exaggerated shoulders, soft sleeves and smooth waistline, achieved by deep tucks which are released below the waist. The top front of the dress has the popular lingerie trim. Jane's black and white high-crowned hat is trimmed with voluminous double fishnet veil.

Bette Davis's new summer wardrobe includes a Kelly green taffeta frock, splashed with yellow, black and red in a floral motif. The front is softly draped, accented with a cartridge trim at the neckline, below the waist and also edging the softly draped sleeves. A sleeveless jacket of matching fabric completes the costume. The accompanying cartwheel hat is of bright red straw.

Scribble prints have made their debut for evening wear in Hollywood. One of the most attractive was recently worn by Lana Turner. Against a black background of black organza, gay circles and whirls, blocked in vari-colored dyes, gave the slim-bodiced, wide-skirted dress a carnival appearance. To give atmosphere to the frock, the Metro actress wears gypsy bangles, bracelets and necklace.

Lightweight millinery is popular with Myrna Loy. Her latest afternoon hat is made entirely of net with two large choux of beige and henna net perched saucily on the front of the tiny beige net turban. A biege net veil dotted in the henna ties under the chin in a soft bow.

Playing golf at Lakeside, Irene Dunne wore a wistaria-colored sheer wool dress on shirtmaker lines with zipper front opening, plain short sleeves, wide box-pleats all around the skirt from the hips; the waistline marked with a pigskin belt. The rest of the sports outfit—a matching cashmere jersey cardigan, simple dusty rose felt hat and navy calf oxfords.

To wear about town, Una Merkel chooses a two-piece suit with dressmaker jacket. The plain-fitted jacket and four-gored skirt is in yellow, tan, brown and white plaid tweed. Her blouse is of light brown wool. A rough straw sailor, with band of brown grosgrain, brown gloves, shoes and bag, complete the ensemble.

Billie Burke's morning dress of cream linen has cute appliqued flowerpot pockets of rush hopsacking. "Growing" up the front of the short-sleeved frock are appliqued ivy leaves of glazed green chintz. The whole thing zips down the middle, is non-crushable and washable. There are matching sandals of the linen with miniature flowers appliqued to match the dress trim.

Dorothy Lamour dining at the Cafe Lamaze in a pale blue-green crepe dinner gown with short draped sleeves, square neckline caught by two diamond and ruby sunburst clips, a shallow peplum edging the corselet girdle and a flowing skirt. Platform-soled crepe sandals, an unusual Schiaparelli matching crepe bag—small, flat, long-handled and rimmed round with a tiny pleated frill—and a honey-colored collarless fox jacket completed the chic outfit.

Hollywood Fashion Parade . . . At a charity fashion show, Priscilla Lane in a blue-checked French gingham styled with whirligig skirt . . . Gloria Dickson swimming at the Ambassador Lido pool in a black, gray and fuchsia dressmaker swim suit . . . Janet Beecher shopping on Hollywood Boulevard in a three-piece suit of Shetland wool in powder blue—consisting of fitted dressmaker jacket over a white ruffled blouse, a casual box coat and gored skirt; matching felt hat with high, narrow crown, ornamented with long looped veiling . . . Barbara Stanwych and Robert Taylor, dressed in sports clothes of the same color and same material, dining at the Vine Street Brown Derby.

Mothers Prefer Living Apart From Children

By Caroline Chatfield.

Not only the younger generation but some members of the older one as well are getting a new viewpoint on the matter of living with their children. Only recently I heard a conversation between two mothers in which they agreed that, provided their friends understood they weren't being pushed out by their children, they had much rather spend their declining years in an old ladies' home, with those of their own age class, than with children and grandchildren.

Said one of them: A week's visit from my son and his family is enough to show me that I couldn't adjust myself to living with them. I don't approve of the way they are bringing up their children. I don't approve of the way my daughter-in-law treats my son. It seems to suit him, but it's all I can do to hold my tongue when they are in my house. I can't conceive of a worse existence than being under the same roof with them for life.

Said the second: "Just wait until you go to visit your married daughter and have her freeze you out when you tell her that there are enough scraps spoiling in the ice box to make a meal. 'What are you doing in my ice box?' she demands icily as though I had overstepped the bounds. Of course she doesn't hesitate to go through mine at any time of day or night nor to criticize anything about my place that she doesn't like. Yet when I make bold to tell her that a pie has cooked too fast she exchanges glances with her husband that say, 'You see how she meddles!'

"Probably I should have sat like a dummy and pretended that everything was perfect; but with my own child it didn't occur to me that I was overstepping. I'd rather starve to death than live under those conditions. Oh, they are a high-handed lot, which is all right so long as I have my home to go to!"

All very well, ladies, you who are financially independent. You who don't have to live with your children nor go to old ladies' homes. You can roll your own even to the end. But what of the thousands of mothers who haven't a bank account, thousands who have nothing but hope of mercy at the hands of sons and daughters and their mates? Those mothers have to take dependence and make the best of it and if they have done a good rearing job on their children, the children will take it and make the best of it.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

The Last Call For Summer Furniture

By Elizabeth Boykin.

For those of us who don't get around to buying things till we really are ready to use them—and indeed why should we—it's good to hear that new things in summer furniture are still turning up every day. Right now at the top of the season, the selections are at their best. And here are tidbits of last-minute news:

Iron in combination with rattan is new and smart. So are iron tables with sand blasted oak tops. Rattan with cork is something to watch too. Basket-weave seats and backs are interesting in reed and wicker; watch also for ribbon-effect lacing, which is flat and practical and is used in rattan and in metal; twisted cellophane is shown for summer furniture seats and, when varnished, is waterproof. You will also hear about brushed aluminum summer furniture.

Antique green is next to white in popularity of finish for metal furniture. But you will be seeing brown and pewter finishes in high style metal pieces. Rattan is almost always, this year, shown in a pickled pine color.

This is almost the last call for summer furniture—that is, you'd better shop soon if you really want to get a full season's use out of it.

Don't forget that the real pleasure you'll have in your porch or yard will depend on whether it's pleasantly furnished. First in order of importance come chairs, settees, swings, gliders and hammocks, for you'll want places to sink comfortably into. Next come tables, small and large. Then the can-do-withouts like plant stands, fountains, pools, cabanas, arbors, stone lanterns, bird baths—the things that add graciousness and luxury to the scene.

Woman's Quiz

Q. How deep should bulbs be planted?

A. The general rule is to place them as deep as twice their diameter. In some instances it is better to plant them a little deeper. A 24-page booklet, "The Bulb Book," which contains information about the selection, planting and cultivation of bulbs, may be ordered for ten cents from our Washington Service Bureau, 1013 13th St., Washington, D. C.

Q. Give directions for making wall paper cleaner.

A. Mix together two cups of flour, four level teaspoons of baking soda, two and one-half tablespoons of household amonia, and enough water to make the mixture the consistency of thick batter. Steam it for an hour and a half and knead it until it is firm and smooth.

Q. How may I remove toilet water stains from a bureau scarf?

A. Apply a solution of equal parts of peroxide of hydrogen and water.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to the Woman's Editor of The Constitution's Washington Service Bureau, 1013 13th street, Washington, D. C. for a reply. Three of the most interesting answers will be printed here daily. Don't telephone: write as directed.

MY DAY — Atlanta Group Plays For Mrs. Roosevelt

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY.—So many young people have been coming to the White House to sing and play that, in going back through my columns, I find that I forgot to mention a delightful group from Atlanta, Ga., who came here with their director, Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs. They are very young ladies, and they are called the Dobbs Miniature Harp Ensemble. They play charmingly and have a great deal of poise for their age.

All the groups of young people staying with me, who visited the Federal Bureau of Investigation the other day, were fingerprinted and later on, this brought up an interesting discussion. I believe that, for our own protection, it would be well if all of us were fingerprinted. We do it now to babies when they arrive in this world by taking an imprint of the tiny feet. However, it seems to me altogether wrong that we should demand the registration and fingerprinting of aliens in this country, when we do not insist on living up to the same regulations ourselves.

So much that is good has come to us through our foreign immigration, and yet so often we hear people who seem to be entirely ignorant of the contribution which other lands have made to civilization in the United States. We would undoubtedly loose much if we ever cut off entirely this flow of new blood into our country.

I think there is much to be said, however, in favor of deporting alien criminals who are not citizens. Secondly, I would like to see all people who live here and earn their living here, make up their minds after a given period of time, either to go home, or to become American citizens. The exact period when they should be asked to make this final decision is, of course, debatable, but it should be at some point and not too long after they have had an opportunity of knowing this country. This seems to me entirely fair and desirable for the good of the nation.

Mrs. Morgenthau and I left Washington yesterday afternoon to come to New York city for Rural Women's Day at the New York Fair.

We went without dinner in order to see Katharine Cornell in "No Time for Comedy." This is the first time I have seen her in comedy and she is charming as always. The whole cast is excellent and Laurence Olivier, seemed to me, very good.

We came home after the play and had a bite of supper all by ourselves. Today we start out early for the fair.

Slimming Program Depends Upon How Fat Was Gained

By Ida Jean Kain.

Ways and means of getting slim depend largely on the way you got fat. If overeating causes the excess, diet to remove it. If you gain weight easily, checkmate this aggravating tendency by developing a preference for low calorie foods. If you have been a lazy-bones, exercise.

Usually overeating, low calorie requirements or just pure laziness is at the root of avoirdupois—and usually it's overeating. It's so pleasant and easy to do! When you consider how casually you annex 1,500 calories at a bridge luncheon, or 500 at a more modest afternoon tea, you begin to appreciate how hard it is not to overeat!

Even if you stay at home and eat three fairly plain meals a day, it is easy to overstep the 2,200 calorie maximum of the average women. Just one and one-half extra pats of butter a day would cause a gain of one-fourth pound a week, or about 12 pounds in a year!

The ideal way to deal with social calories is to go on high vitamin, low calorie menus the following day and use the surplus calories in energy right away. But when you have steadily exceeded your requirements over a period of time, the only answer is a balanced diet permitting you to lose at the rate of two pounds per week. Reducing isn't as much fun as gaining, but you can take weight off faster than you can put it on—which should be some consolation!

Not all overweights are large eaters. There are people with fuel requirements so low that everything they eat seems to turn into fat. A good percentage of these people belong to the short, stocky type and they wage a constant battle with the scales. If you fall into this group, "dieting" in the unpopular sense of the word is not for you. No, you will have to do something that will give you permanent control over your weight—you will have to learn to like the foods low in calories: fruits, vegetables, lean meats, simple salads. When you learn to like these foods—as you will—there will be no more weight trouble for you.

Or perhaps you are not getting too many calories. You may be using too few! Everyone needs a certain amount of daily exercise, but in this age of hurry, hurry, hurry, it's hard to find time for it. However this is a problem you must solve. You will be delighted with the effect a little invigorating physical activity has on your health, weight and figure.

Perhaps you are convinced that all your trouble is glandular. It isn't likely that anything is wrong that a good balanced diet won't fix, but if your glands are misbehaving, by all means see your doctor. Let him prescribe treatment and the diet you will require to bring your weight to normal.

Shirtwaister Favorite

By Barbara Bell

Here's a new version of your favorite shirtwaister (1438-B) that you will like not only because it is slenderizing, but because it's the type of house dress you can wear on the street, too. Designed in the best tailored manner, it has a plain skirt, straight sleeves (set in at comfortably wide armholes) and a becoming narrow collar. Gathers beneath the shoulder yoke, and a slight blouse above the waistline, insure perfect freedom for action, when you're busy round the house, and perfect fit as well.

Percale, gingham, linen, flat crepe and pique are just a few of the materials in which this classic will make up beautifully.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1438-B is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. With long sleeves, size 38 requires 4 1-2 yards of 35-inch material. With short sleeves, 4 1-4 yards.

Send for Barbara Bell's Spring and Summer Pattern Book! Make your own smart new frocks for street, daytime and afternoon, with these simple, carefully planned designs! It's chic, it's easy, it's economical, to sew your own. Each pattern includes a step-by-step sew chart to guide beginners.

Price of pattern, 15c. Price of Pattern Book, 15c. Do not send stamps.

Mrs. W. W. Davison Elected Head Of Wesleyan Alumnae Association

At the annual spring meeting of Weslyan Alumnae Association on Tuesday at the Atlanta Woman's Club, Mrs. W. W. Davison was elected president for the next two years, succeeding Mrs. A. Worth Hobby; Group No. 3, was awarded the silver loving cup, and distinguished literary alumnae were entertained as honor guests at tea following the business session.

Over 100 letters were written to alumnae having achieved literary distinction, inviting them to Atlanta, and 75 replies revealed that Wesleyan daughters all over the country are writing poetry, children's stories, novels, essays, trade magazine articles, religious publications, serving as newspaper editors, journalists, publicity directors, are text book authors and play writers.

Among the honor guests were Miss Vera Courson, Columbus; Miss Jennie Daughty, Allentown, Ga.; Mrs. R. M. Wyly, Forsyth; Mrs. Ralph Zeigler, Columbus; Miss Lucille Bryant Johnson, LaGrange; Mrs. Lily Abbott Everett, Mrs. Eli Thomas, Miss Miriam Rogers, Miss Julia Sparks, Miss Anabel Horn, Mrs. Edward G. Warner, Atlanta. Miss Margaret Richards introduced the guests and read excerpts from the letters.

Mrs. Harold McKenzie, Atlanta campaign manager for the recent Wesleyan campaign, reported that of the $326,000 raised in February and March, alumnae contributed $77,000. Of this amount, Atlanta alumnae contributed $10,987, with 202 members making donations and 97 actively working in the campaign.

Group No. 3, with Mrs. W. C. Key, chairman, was awarded the loving cup because its 62 active members secured 275 points on leadership furnished, original papers prepared, interest stimulated in college preparatory girls, amount of money raised for the college and general excellence of reports. The cup was presented by Mrs. W. W. Davison, who, as first vice president, was chairman of groups.

Mrs. Walter Garrard reported on the success of dormitory day in April; Mrs. D. W. Clanton on visits Dr. Dice R. Anderson had made to Atlanta high schools; Miss Margaret Richards on the generous publicity accorded by the three newspapers; Miss Julia Sparks on the efforts to keep corrected lists of alumnae's addresses here in the city. Miss Berta Smith, treasurer, announced that there was $392.87 on hand, so it was voted to allot $55 to the Florrie Cook White loan fund and $300 to gift scholarships.

Miss Anabel Horn, national president, brought an inspiring message, and Mrs. Augustus M. Roan, national vice president, invited Atlanta alumnae to Macon this week end to attend festivities May 25-28.

Mrs. Hobby, retiring president, reviewed a calendar of activities, and listed the many outstanding accomplishments of the past two years.

Mrs. J. V. Poole, nominating chairman, presented the following to serve with Mrs. Davison: Mesdames J. T. Stillwell, James C. Davis, W. D. Evans, Richard Anderson, Fred Cole Sr., Walter Garrard, R. E. Boyle Jr. and Miss May Allen King.

Druid Hills Garden Club Names Board

Druid Hills Garden Club met recently at the home of Mrs. R. B. Wilby on Tuxedo road, with Mrs. John Harland as co-hostess. The club will not meet again until September.

Reports from various standing committees were made, the most important being that of the 1939 rose show. The president, Mrs. Henry Davis, reappointed Mrs. Charles Le Roux with Mrs. R. B. Wilby as chairman and co-chairman for the rose show to be held in 1940.

A board of directors was elected for supervision of the club's project, the rose garden on Ponce de Leon avenue. They are Mesdames Charles Le Roux, John Harland, Luther Randall, Ralph Black and Thomas Eldridge. They will study garden conditions and advise with the chairman, Mrs. Ralph Black, the advisability of methods of cultivation, fertilization and planting. The first meeting of the board will be held in June.

It was announced that R. B. Wilby had accepted the club's invitation to become an honorary member. Mr. Wilby is an outstanding horticulturist and has often assisted the Druid Hills Garden Club with suggestions for the rose garden and rose show, the two projects of the club.

Mrs. Henry Heinz accepted the club's invitation to become an active member. Luncheon was served and a visit to the beautiful Wilby gardens was enjoyed.

Miss Angelique de Golian, popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. de Golian, will be honored this evening by the T. K. O. fraternity, of which she is sponsor. The fraternity will hold its annual sport dance at the Capital City Country Club, the affair preceded by a dinner at the club and to be followed by a breakfast at Wieuca Inn. Miss de Golian is a member of the Phi Pi sorority and is a junior at North Fulton High school.

Mrs. Lombard Weds F. A. Yarbrough

TAMPA, Fla., May 24.—The interest of a wide circle of friends centers in the announcement made of the recent marriage of Mrs. Lura Vaughan Lombard, formerly executive secretary of Camp Fire Girls' headquarters in Atlanta, to F. A. Yarbrough, of Tampa. The ceremony was performed last Saturday evening at the First Baptist church by the Rev. Adiel J. Moncrief Jr. in the presence of Miss Mildred S. Manson and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Brown, close friends of the bridal couple.

Mrs. Yarbrough has been active in Girl Scout work for many years, and is well known here as the director of the Tampa Scout Council. She is a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. Her maternal grandfather was Colonel Eugene Estill, of Richmond, Ky., and her paternal grandfather was Colonel William Henry Vaughan, of Vaughan Station, Ky.

Mr. Yarbrough is a native of Rome, Ga., and is the son of J. M. Yarbrough, of Rome. He was graduated from the University of Georgia and is a nephew of R. K. Rambo, of Atlanta.

Mr. Yarbrough is manager of the Biscayne hotel in Tampa, where the couple will reside after their return to the city from a brief honeymoon.

Miss Cora Gantt Will Be Honored

Prenuptial parties continue to be planned honoring Miss Cora Gantt and Rosser Neal Little, of Marietta, whose marriage will be an important social event of June 3.

Miss Sarah Jenkins will fete the popular couple Saturday evening at a buffet supper and preview party, and Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Ford will be hosts at a buffet supper at their home on Habersham road for the betrothed couple.

On May 29 the couple will be complimented at the alfresco party at which Ewell Gay, Ben Parham and Cros Smith will entertain at Gaymont Farm.

Mrs. George Gantt will entertain for her daughter at a trousseau tea on May 30.

LOOK DEAR, AT THE TUCK I CAN TAKE IN MY CLOTHES!

Just Look at the Fat I've Lost

You can do this—you can slim down face and figure without over-strict diet and back-breaking exercises. For here's a way that works hand in hand with Nature in getting rid of ugly fat due to thyroid deficiency. Just eat sensibly and take 4 Marmola Tablets a day, according to the directions.

Marmola Tablets have been sold to the public for more than thirty years. More than twenty million boxes have been distributed during that period.

Marmola is not intended as a cure-all for all ailments. This advertisement is intended only for fat persons who are normal and healthy otherwise and whose fatness is caused by a reduction in the secretion from the thyroid gland (hypo-thyroidism) with accompanying subnormal metabolic rates. No other representation is made as to this treatment except under these conditions and according to the dosage as recommended.

We do not make any diagnosis as that is the function of your physician, who must be consulted for that purpose. The formula is included in every package. Get a box of Marmola today from your druggist.

Gern Says He Is Scud Jones, American Aviator Shot Down in the Spanish War

By JOSEPH McCORD.

INSTALLMENT XXXIII.

"Guess so. Anyway, I got pretty well over it by the time the family pulled wires and had me shipped over here. The doctor told me if I'd take it plenty easy, hole up for a time where things were quiet and all that sort of thing, I'd be good as new. I suppose all this ranting is beginning to make sense, now."

"Yes, it is. I fancy that Mr. Lee had the story from your father."

"That's right. The old gentleman was in Dale City on business and he never fails to have a parley with Mr. Lee. Glada's father, more as a joke than anything else, said she was looking for a helper on her chicken farm and that it might be a good spot for me. It seemed to hit the old gentleman all in a heap. He got me on the wire and suggested I run over and talk to Mr. Lee, as he was going on some other place. I did and sort of fell for the idea myself. Seemed to me that it might be just the rest camp I was looking for and I might get a kick out of it. Working for a woman, you know."

"But you decided not to tell her who you were."

"Yes. That was my idea. Thought it would be more fun to try to land the job on my own. It would save a heck of a lot of explaining and dragging in the old-friend-of-the-family stuff. After I saw the place and . . . Glada, I was glad it worked out that way."

"Yes, I can see where it would have its advantages," Stirling admitted slowly.

"I'll say it did. But I had one narrow escape. I thought I was a 'cure' until that day. I was mending a piece of fence when a plane came over, flying pretty low. First thing I knew, I was holding on to a post with both hands and trying not to howl. The second, was finding Glada standing beside me and wanting to know what was the matter. She must have read of shell-shocked guys, because she asked me where I was during the World War. I stalled her off somehow. She wasn't satisfied, but she wouldn't ask any more questions. I was a fool not to have taken that hint and ducked out before something else happened. But you know how some guys are about taking chances. And I liked it here, felt as if it were making a new man out of me."

"And this auto accident was near the airport.'

"You've guessed it. On my honor, Mr. Stirling, I thought I was all right. I'd tested myself in all the ways I could think of. I'd been out to the field on Sunday afternoons and forced myself to stand close to planes when they were warming up, when they took off or landed. I don't know how it happened. Because it was unexpected, I guess, and because I had my mind on something else. But when that plane clattered right over me and I looked up . . ."

"I can imagine what it did to you."

"Yes, sir. It was an open-cockpit job . . . I could see the pilot's face. Seemed to be looking at me, grinning . . ."

"Take it easy, old man."

"Oh, I don't think it could happen again. It was only for a second's a long time when you've dropped a steering wheel. The rest's hazy, until I was looking down into Glada's face and figuring I had killed her. Maybe I'm still cracked, but I haven't felt I could ever look her in the eyes. Even if she wanted to see me."

"Yes, I think I can understand how you might feel."

"That's why I want her to know . . . sometime."

"I will try to carry out your request. But I am certain that you wish to impose some conditions. What are they?"

"Naturally, I don't want people around here to know who I am. I'll ask you to keep that to yourself for the present. I'd rather be forgotten for a time."

"Very well. Let's put it this way. I will make no mention of being aware of your identity, until I hear it from some one else. Will that do?"

"Fair enough. No one here knows but Mr. Lee. I'm satisfied that he hasn't said anything. I'll make sure of it when I see him, which I expect will be tomorrow. He made me promise I'd drop in to see him before I left town."

"Then if . don't see you again. . . ." Stirling rose and held out his hand. "I very much appreciate your confidence . . . Scud Jones. And I hope you find health and happiness wherever you go. Good luck."

"Thanks, Mr. Stirling. Same to you."

Many drivers on the road muttered imprecations at the Stirling car that afternoon, for the manner in which it "dragged" traffic. But Lynn Stirling was too much preoccupied to do more than keep to his own side of the highway. The last hour had presented him with a baffling puzzle.

The story of young Scudder Jones would have been amazing under any circumstances. But its relation to Glada Lee made it of vital interest. The minister believed he appreciated the reason for the confidences that had fairly been thrust upon him. But it all was rather fantastic. He could not escape a growing realization, the more he thought of it, that Jones was very much in love with Glada. He had betrayed himself in words and looks. That was at the bottom of the blame he had heaped upon himself. Self-evident.

Stirling was a keen observer, a close student of human nature. It was equally evident that Jones considered his suit hopeless. Whether or not he had been told so by Glada, was open to conjecture. It seemed scarcely possible that she would take this young man seriously, with his background what she believed it to be. There was an instance where the aviator's little ruse regarding his identity worked against his interests. On the other hand, why hadn't he revealed it, if it bade fair to help his cause?

And, what mattered most of all, could Glada be more interested in the stranger than she would admit? She never had much to say about this Jones. Stirling realized, now, that she had never so much as mentioned his name during these recent hospital visits.

What was he supposed to do about it?

Nothing. The idea was absurd. He had no reason to bring up Jones' name the next time he visited with Gala. Jones was going away, fading out of the picture. And he was going to call on Mr. Lee before he left. Stirling could not have explained why, but his thoughts kept turning more and more toward the little lawyer. When he halted his car in Dale City it was directly in front of the Farmer's Loan and Trust Company. After an undecided moment, he alighted, closed the door with unnecessary emphasis and mounted to the second floor of the building.

Ed Lee was in his office and alone. Even Katie Anderson was missing from her usual place in the front room.

"How are you, Mr. Lee?" Stirling shook the pudgy hand extended to him, drew up a chair without waiting for an invitation and placed it near the end of the desk.

"I'm fine. This is an unexpected pleasure . Seems quite a little while since I've happened to run into you. Things have been rather upset since our child has been in the hospital. By the way, did you chance to call there this afternoon?"

"No, sir. But I was there a few moments this morning. I thought Glada looked very well."

"We may take her home tomorrow."

"Really! So soon?"

"It depends how she seems toward evening." Ed rubbed his chin thoughtfully with the fingers of his left hand, stared speculatively at his caller from under lowered brows. "Glada's getting along perfectly from a physical standpoint, they tell us. But Mr. Stirling, I don't feel exactly easy about her."

"In what way, may I ask?"

"A foolish notion, I suppose. Yet I can't escape a feeling that something is preying on her mind. She tries to throw it off when any of us are around. But it's there. Between ourselves, I found her crying when I dropped in this afternoon. Not violently or nervously. Said she was all right, just tired."

"Perhaps the hospial amosphere is beginning to depress her."

"Well, you know, I had the same idea. I got hold of Nebeker and asked him what he thought. He said that he didn't believe the move would hurt her if she felt up to it and if it were a nice day. He stipuated that she'd have to travel on a stretcher, though. And go to bed when she got home."

"And you told Glada?"

"Sure. At first, she brightened up a lot. Thought it would be fine to be back in her own room away from the 'smells,' as she put it. Then it seemed to wear off, although she still insisted that she wanted to make the trip. Look here, Mr. Stirling!"

"Yes, sir?"

"I know that you have seen Glada almost every day since she has been able to have visitors at all. Had you noticed anything . . . like I've just told you?"

"No, I have not, Mr. Lee. If there is . . . if you are correct, then Glada has concealed it from me very successfully."

"That's good. Guess it's nothing more than the imagination of a doting parent. I really believe she will be a lot better off at home. Bound to take more of an interest in things."

"I sincerely hope so."

A silence fell across the desk. As if feeling that the topic had been fully discussed, Ed busied himself with filling and lighting his pipe. When he peered through the first smoke clouds, it was to see Stirling sitting with downcast eyes, drumming nervously with his fingers on the top of the desk. The lawyer smiled.
serious on your mind."

"Looks like you had something

"I have," was the abrupt answer. Stirling straightened in his chair, squaring his athletic shoulders. "I think I want to ask you a question, Mr. Lee. I believe I should."

Charlie Yates Bows To Miraculous Putting of Chapman, 5-3

All in the GAME
by Jack Troy

The surprise team of the Southern league isn't Chattanooga or Knoxville.

It's Birmingham.

No one thought much of their chances before the season opened. The Barons looked like a cinch for second division all the way.

But under the canny direction of Dutch Zwilling, who piloted Kansas City to a pennant a couple of seasons ago, the Barons are going places.

They logically may be the next team to take over first place in the Scott circuit.

The Barons need only one more pitcher to make them really tough and they are looking for mound help almost any day.

When is the Southern league race going to settle down? Well, right now that prospect seems as remote as the distant horizon.

To date Knoxville, Chattanooga and Atlanta have visited in first place. And before the month of May is ended, Birmingham may spend a few days on top.

Before July 4, half a dozen teams may have known the fleeting glory of a first-place stand.

Just looking at the matter, off hand, it begins to appear that Birmingham really is the team for Atlanta to beat. The Barons seem to have the Crackers' number.

Twice Del Wetherell, former Pelican pitcher, has beaten them. The Barons, as a matter of fact, play their best ball against league leaders.

And it doesn't seem to matter whether they're playing the leaders of the moment at home or on the road. They ruined Knoxville, slowed up Chattanooga and have the speedy Crackers down to a dog trot.

Dutch Zwilling deserves a lot of credit. He is a smart manager, a valuable addition to the league. It would be a great thing for league attendance if he could maneuver the Barons into first place for a spell.

PELS ARE STAGGERING.

Roger Peckinpaugh is a nice fellow personally and seems to have what it takes as a manager, but Peckinpaugh doesn't have a ball club at New Orleans. And as a result attendance there is dropping off alarmingly.

Right now, New Orleans, Nashville and Little Rock definitely need help. One and all expect Larry Gilbert to obtain the assistance needed at Nashville, but there is some question at the other two places.

The Cleveland Indians, as last year, haven't done much for New Orleans, and the Boston Red Sox, as last year, haven't broken any backs rushing to Little Rock's rescue.

Knoxville needs pitching and isn't apt to get it. If the Smokies had had any pitching to speak of to go along with their hitting during the first month of the season, they'd be so far ahead today you'd have to pick them up with a pair of high-powered binoculars. But they didn't have the pitching and, as said, they are not likely to get it. Pitching wins pennants—not slugging.

THERE'S SOMETHING TO THIS.

Zippo Newman, sports editor of the Birmingham News, was talking the other night about the strange case of Johnny Hill.

The Bees sent Hill to Milwaukee in order to keep an ex-Baron, Heinie Majeski, and Johnny immediately took over the American association hitting lead.

"Looks like," Zippo said, "the Bees could have used both youngsters from the Southern league, needing hitting as they do."

Casey Stengel may know what he is doing, but Hill batted .338 to lead Southern league hitting. Majeski's average of .325

EPSOM DERBY WON WITH EASE BY BLUE PETER

Favorite Puts on Smashing Finish Before Nearly 500,000 People.

By DREW MIDDLETON.

EPSOM, Eng., May 24.—(AP)—Lord Rosebery's Blue Peter defied the fates that haunt a favorite today and won England's 155th derby with a smashing drive down the stretch that ran his rivals into the emerald turf of Epsom Downs.

Favored at 7 to 2 as the biggest field since 1922 cantered up to the post, Blue Peter, a chestnut son of Fairway and Fancy Free, ran the tortuous mile and a half course as if he owned it.

He came home striding smoothly and fully four lengths ahead of Edward Esmond's Fox Cub with Lord Derby's Heliopolis, the early leader, another three lengths back.

The two American standard-bearers, William Woodward's Hypnotist and Ralph Beaver Strassburger's Salford II., never seriously figured. Hypnotist, carrying Woodward's hopes of winning the Kentucky and English derbies in the same year, challenged briefly, but finally wound up seventh. Salford II., was 12th.

Blue Peter's time was two minutes, 36 4-5 seconds, well off the stake record of 2:32 3-5 set by S. Joel's Pommern in 1915 when the race was run at Newmarket. The stake record as far at the Epsom Downs course is concerned was set at 2:34 flat by Lord Derby's Hyperion in 1933 and equalled by the Maharajah of Rajpipla's Windsor Lad the following year.

A crowd of close to half a million, including the Dukes of Kent and Gloucester, saw the powerful chestnut come rolling home in front, first favorite to win the derby since 1935.

It was an exceptionally popular victory among the "common people" who had wagered thousands of crinkly pounds on the favorite's sturdy back.

The bookies were a little less enthusiastic. They dropped the equivalent of several million dollars on Blue Peter's victory.

When it was all over, Blue Peter and his jockey, Ephriam Smith, were brought into the winner's circle. The jockey, touching whip to his cap in salute to occupants of the royal box just above him, was the coolest person on the course.

"It was easy all the way and just another job of work for me," said the 24-year-old jockey who had just ridden his first derby winner. "We never were seriously threatened after we reached the stretch and had fought off Fox Cub."

Lord Rosebery came out of the grandstand to lead in his winner. "I'm glad to carry on the tradition of my house," he said.

The last horse to carry the colors of the Rosebery family to triumph in the derby was Cicero in 1905.

The race was worth approximately $50,000 to the winner's owner but several millions in bets and sweepstakes changed hands.

Chambers To Battle Boland in Net Meet

Match To Start at 3:30 O'Clock; Reese, Crawford Gain Biltmore Semi-Finals.

Fifth-seeded Champ Reese and seventh-ranked Hank Crawford became first players to reach the semi-finals in the men's singles of the Biltmore tennis championships yesterday with hard-fought victories.

Crawford played brilliant tennis in eliminating the fourth-seeded Malcolm Manley, 8-6, 6-1, while Reese trounced Cortez Suttles, tournament dark horse, 2-6, 6-1, 6-3. Suttles eliminated eighth-ranked Charlie Rice to gain the quarter-final round and gave Reese quite a battle before succumbing to his opponent's greater experience.

VALLEBUONA WINS.

Gladys Vallebuona, second-seeded in the women's tournament, won two matches yesterday and entered the semi-finals. She whipped Rosaland Lunceford, 6-0, 6-0, and then conquered Mrs. Marion Reese, 6-0, 6-1.

Feature of today's card will be the quarter-final match between Dr. Kels Boland and Preston Chambers, second and third seeded respectively. The battle will start at 3:30 and one of the hardest matches of the tournament is expected.

Dr. Glenn Dudley, unseeded player, who upset sixth-ranked Red Enloe, will face Fred Wilkerson in an effort to gain the quarter-final round against top-seeded David Jones. This match is scheduled at 5:30.

DOUBLES PLAY.

The top-seeded doubles team of J. T. and Preston Chambers won by default yesterday. Other doubles teams get into action in today's round.

Helen Hughes defeated Mrs. Donald Floyd, 6-0, 6-1, in the other match yesterday.

All finals will be played on Sunday. In addition, an exhibition match between Bitsy Grant and Russell Bobbitt has been arranged. Grant, mighty little mite of the courts, will take on the ex-Southeastern conference champ in a two-out-of-three set battle. The match will start immediately after the women's finals, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

3:30—Dr. Kels Boland vs. Preston Chambers.
5:30—Dr. Glenn Dudley vs. Fred Wilkerson; Crawford and partner vs. Dudley and Rice.
6:00—Reese-Wilkerson vs. Kiser-Lee; Dr. Joe Boland-Dr. Billy Armstrong vs. Hill-Suttles.

How Yates Lost

Chapman held a two-hole lead over Yates after nine holes of their third-round match.

Yates, normally one of amateur golf's finest putters, lost his touch on the greens and this proved disastrous in view of Chapman's sound, steady play.

The Georgian won the first hole where Chapman pulled his drive into the rough but Dick squared it at the second where Yates took three from the edge of the green, missing a six-footer.

Chapman went one up at the third where Yates missed a four-foot putt. Again at the fourth, Yates missed a four-footer but he left Chapman a stymie which Dick couldn't negotiate and the hole was halved in fours. A fine chip shot from the face of a bunker saved Yates at the sixth but Chapman saved two up at the short seventh when Yates took three from the edge of the green.

Yates blew a five-footer that would have won the eighth for him and they halved the nine in fours as Chapman hit a fine spoon after a bad drive.

Chapman out	545	444	354—38

(Chapman two up.)

Chapman won the tenth with a great 30-fott putt for a birdie three and though he missed a five-footer at the 11th and lost the hole, he holed a 45-foot curling, downhill putt for a three at the 12th to go three up again.

Yates' putt for a deuce at the short 13th hung on the lip of the cup and the champion was three down with five to play.

Chapman was one under fours for the 15 holes played.

On the homeward nine Chapman started with a birdie, faltered momentarily to lose the 11th, got an eagle three at the 12th and finished with a par at the 13th, a birdie at the 14th and a par at the 15th.

Both were on the 15th green in three but when Chapman holed his long putt, Yates conceded the hole and the match, took off his old tan cap and walked over to shake Chapman's hand.

Yates blamed the loss of the second hole for his poor exhibition.

"I tried to sink that long putt and ran too far past," he said.

"After that I played poorly and deserved to lose. Chapman putted perfectly."

Chapman, who twice went to the quarter-finals, said: "I finally got the touch of these greens. I think I putted even better in the first round than I did today."

After the match there was some controversy about whether the margin was 3 and 3 or 4 and 3. Both were about 20 feet from the 15th green in three and when Chapman sank his putt Yates walked over and shook his hand. Some critics maintained Yates should be conceded his final 20-footer. If he conceded this putt, the margin was 4 and 3, if not 5 and 3 but the fact remains Yates was soundly beaten and nobody was quicker to admit it than the champion.

Chapman was one under fours for the 15 holes played.

The cards of Yates and Chapman:

Yates in	434	355
Chapman in	343	344

Chapman wins 5 and 3.

ATLANTA YOUTH IS BELOW FORM OF '38 CONQUEST

Bill Holt Other American To Advance; Ellsworth Vines Loses.

By SCOTTY RESTON.

HOYLAKE, England, May 24.—(AP)—Dick Chapman, a crooner from Greenwich, Conn., with a rhythmical putter, defeated Defending Champion Charlie Yates, of Atlanta, in the third round of the British amateur golf championship today after one of the truly inspired half-hours in the history of this tournament.

Chapman, who went to the semi-finals of the United States amateur last year, turned back the southerner 5 and 3 and with him into the fourth round went "Trailer" Bill Holt, of Syracuse, with a 3-and-2 decision over D. S. Coates, of England.

Ellsworth Vines, better known for his tennis, also fell by the wayside, losing to John Baillieu, a splendid player from Australia, 2 and 1, after giving a fine exhibition in turning back E. N. Ratcliffe, of England, 4 and 3, earlier in the day in a second-round encounter.

Four putts eliminated Yates and they were all crowded into that one-half hour.

The first came at the tenth, where the Royal Liverpool course runs over to the edge of the Irish sea. Chapman, two up at the turn, had cracked a No. 3 iron pin high to the sloping green. More than a thousand spectators scrambled high on the surrounding sand dunes to watch the New Englander putt. He tapped that 30-foot putt high on the hill and watched it roll until it reached the cup and disappeared.

Momentarily Chapman faltered at the short 11th, where he missed a putt and lost the hole, but he was back again at the 12th with a putt that finally broke the champion's heart. After two great shots, Chapman's ball lay high above the pin on the fringe of the green, 45 feet from the cup. Yates was dead in three and it looked as if Chapman would be lucky to get a half.

But the New Englander bolted the ball down the hill with his ancient aluminum putter and it must have seemed to Yates to roll forever as it jumped across that fringe and rolled and fell and curved against the hill until it finally vanished.

Even then, though he was three up, the crooner wasn't through. At the 14th, again smoking cigarets in chain fashion, Chapman dropped in an 18-footer to go four up. He marched from there to the 15th, hit his third shot 20 feet dead above the hole and with scarcely a glance at the cup rammed the putt down.

Yates took off his old tan cap, ran his hand through his hair as the putt dropped, and then walked over and shook Chapman's hand. "By George, that was miraculous," said the champion. A half-hour later Charlie was singing, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny."

Holt, a big, strong up-state New Yorker and Dixie champion, simply outhit Coates. The Englishman, a superb putter, reduced Holt's lead to one hole at the short 13th, but the American met the challenge like a champion and he may yet prove to be America's best bet.

Chapman meets A. S. G. Thomson tomorrow morning and if successful will play Gordon Peters, Scottish star, in the afternoon. Peters figures to give the New Englander a real test. Holt tackles J. W. Jones, of Birkdale, in the fourth round. If victorious, he probably will face Nugent Head in the afternoon.

Two other champions were eliminated today. Charlie Timmis, local favorite, beat Hector Thomson two up and the British Walker cup player, Alex Kyle, defeated Eric Fiddian, 2 and 1, but the defeat of Vines caused more comment.

For nine holes this morning Ellsworth looked like the finest golfer in the field. He started 344 34 to be four up on Ratcliffe at the turn. This afternoon, however, he started badly by hitting his second shot out of bounds at the first and didn't recover until the eleventh. Then five down to Baillieu, Vines' model swing began to work and he cut the Australian's lead to two holes.

The defeat of Yates, Thomson and Fiddian left only one former champion in the field of 32, Dr. William Tweddell, who won in 1927. Jim Bruen, 19-year-old Irish star, came through as expected with a 3-and-2 decision over E. D. Hamilton, of Scotland. Arnold Bentley, English champion, also was beaten by I. A. Lyle, local player, 2 and 1.

'Terribly Sorry,' Bob Cables Charlie Yates

HOYLAKE, England, May 24. (AP)—Bobby Jones wrote the epitaph today to the battle in which Dick Chapman, of Greenwich, Conn., defeated Defending Champion Charlie Yates, of Atlanta, in the third round of the British amateur golf championship.

Bobby cabled his fellow townsman:

"Terribly sorry."

Warner Wins Title In Bowling League

The Motion Picture Ladies' league drew to a close on the downtown alleys Wednesday evening with the Warner Brothers' team winning three games to win the league title by a substantial margin.

Catherine Tanner, Margaret Magill, Dorothy Magill, Lila Najour and Rosalie Feldman made up the winning combination of the Warner Brothers team as they turned in the same type of high scoring last night that kept them "out in front" for the past several weeks in the race for the championship.

M. Feckoury, of Columbia, had the high single game of 114 and top three-game series of 288, with M. DeGlopper and Catherine Tanner having counts of 287 each.

Tigers Halt Yank Streak at 12 Games; Reds Win 9th in Row

DIZ TROUT HURLS AS DETROIT NIPS NEW YORK BY 6-1

Indians Subdue Boston Red Sox, 6-2; Senators Rout Browns, 16-6.

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers drove the veteran Wes Ferrell from the mound with a four-run rally in the fifth frame today to hand the world champion New York Yankees their first defeat in 13 games, 6 to 1. Paul (Dizzy) Trout, rookie right-hander, spread seven hits in getting his first victory of the season.

TOOK A CLOWN TO STOP YANKS

Some bloke had said there was no use trying to be serious with the powerful Yankees, so the Detroit Tigers sent their clown, Paul (Dizzy) Trout, to the mound yesterday and he halted the McCarthymen's winning streak after it had reached 12 straight. Dizzy, who couldn't get the Atlanta Crackers out in the Dixie Series last year, won his game, 6-1. He is made up here as a cross between a comic strip foreign legionnaire and Joe E. Brown.

'BRAUNS' DEFEAT KENDRICKS, 15-12

Harold Braun's golfers defeated M. E. Kendrick and his mates, 15 to 12, Wednesday afternoon on the Druid Hills course in a regular monthly "losers-pay" dinner tournament.

Dr. Julius Hughes, city and state amateur champion set the individual scoring pace with a 70 and paired with Arthur Mims, won a victory over Kendrick's ace pair of Jimmy Wilson and Slim Bowden.

The dinner was served at the clubhouse soon after the close of the special one-day tournament, with Braun and his mates at the guest tables.

Members of Braun's team were Dr. Julius Hughes, Arthur Mims, Bob Cousins, Dr. J. J. Clark, Wayne Gatlin, Dr. J. R. Childs, Dr. Roy Mitchell, J. Ware, Dr. C. M. Barnwell, J. H. Ewing, F. G. Cobb, Dr. W. A. Selman, Hal Thomas, C. G. Cheney, Jack Deacon, Sonny Cooledge, Jack Morrison, A. McCrary, Hubert Blackwell, Ed Lovett, C. V. Rainwater, R. P. Black and G. McCormick.

Those assisting Kendrick in being the host were Jimmy Wilson, C. M. Bowden, Charley Brumby, A. C. Felton, Joe Fambrough, P. D. MacQuiston, J. O. Knight, Dr. M. D. Huff, Captain R. M. Fawell, E. L. Philpot, F. Beach, Sam Heard, Don Willis, W. A. Holbrook, Hal Carson, Ralph Kerkley, Jim Hicks, Leonard Crawford, Dr. G. W. Fuller, W. F. Methvin, Rosser Little, A. Jackson and G. Manning.

ZULUS TO PLAY SCRIPTO TONIGHT

Impo, ace Zulu pitcher who barely missed a no-hit game his last time out, will try again tonight at 8:30 when the Cannibals play Scripto at the ball park.

Impo will be opposed on the mound by Austell Reid, who fanned 13 of the Zulus last Sunday when Scripto won a 1-to-0 victory, despite the fact they got only one hit, Brown's single in the seventh inning. The Cannibals came back, however, to win the second game of the double-header, 11 to 6.

Reid gave the Cannibals seven hits but was tight in the pinches.

The game will be the rubber game of the series, each team having won one game.

A special section of the grandstand has been reserved for white customers and a large crowd is expected to watch the "colorful" rivals.

Monroe Aggies Beat Bullpup Nine, 7 to 6

WALKER PARK, Ga., May 24. Taking advantage of errors enabled the Monroe Aggies to win over a mixed Georgia Bulldog and Bullpup nine here today, 7-6.

The victory gave the Aggies a two-out-of-three win record with the "freshman" team. Hise dropped Van Davis' long fly after a hard run and it went for two bases. Davis moved up on a fielder's choice and scored the winning run on a passed ball in the eighth inning when Norris and Walter Ruark were deadlocked in a pitching duel.

The Bulldogs and Bullpups were tenacious and scored four in the third when Kelly, varsity second baseman, hit a home run with three on base.

Former Giant Rescues Pass From Pawnshop

NEW YORK, May 24.—(AP)—Larry Doyle, one-time star second baseman for the New York Giants, called at a pawn shop today and redeemed the sterling silver pass presented him by the presidents of the National and American leagues.

The pass, which Doyle said he had either lost or had stolen from him sometime ago, had been pawned for $10. It had been framed and occupied a prominent spot amid a collection of baseball gloves offered for sale by the loan company. Doyle learned of its whereabouts through a newspaper story.

HALL, WERNE GAIN POSITIONS IN IRON DERBY

Two Drivers Swell List of Certain Starters to Eighteen.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 24.—(AP)—Two drivers, including Ira Hall, of Terre Haute, Ind., one of the oldest on the track, qualified today for the 500-mile Memorial Day speedway race, bringing the number of certain starters to 18.

Hall, who admits to being 47, and Frank Wearne, of Pasadena, Cal., were the only qualifiers today. Wearne, driving a car which has the same motor with which Floyd Roberts won the race last year, qualified at 125.074 miles an hour. The car is entered by Roberts and Lou Moore.

Hall, once an unsuccessful Republican candidate for sheriff, drove the same car he piloted last year and qualified at 121.188 miles an hour, a figure which apparently made him a sure starter. It gave him the outside position in the sixth row of the tentative lineup.

Kelly Petillo, the Los Angeles Italian-American, and Al Miller, of Detroit, were the only other two who even indicated they were ready to qualify today.

Petillo, making his second attempt, drove three laps and stopped, after doing no better than 118 miles an hour. The car was throwing smoke like a soft coal burner and a quick examination showed a sticking piston.

Miller was all set to go early in the afternoon, but threw a connecting rod coming down the main stretch and scattered automobile parts and oil all over the track. There was no indication when he would try again.

Qualifying trials will be resumed at 1 p. m. (C. S. T.), tomorrow afternoon. Approximately 18 drivers remain as potential starters.

WIN OVER G. M. A. GIVES SMITHIES HALF-GAME LEAD

Tech High Victorious, 18-5; Moves Ahead of Boys' High in Race.

Tech High moved ahead of Boys' High in the race for city prep baseball honors with a one-sided 18-to-5 victory over G. M. A. Wednesday afternoon at College Park. Tech High won a forfeited game over Marist Tuesday as Marist has disbanded its team.

Boys' High held its own, one-half game behind the Smithies by a 5-to-0 victory over Commercial High.

Boys' High has one postponed game with G. M. A. yet to be played and the outcome of that game will decide whether or not Tech High will be the winner or the two city rivals will have to play off for the championship.

Jack McKinney was the hero in Boys' High victory. He limited Commercial to three hits, all 'ot those coming after the sixth inning.

Humber led the Purples' hitting. G. M. A. hadn't had a single practice in more than a week due to the annual government inspections and the team committed numerous costly errors.

Crackers Win in 10th, Take League Lead as Lookouts Lose

SMOLL ALLOWS 4 BLOWS, FANS 9 IN NINE INNINGS

Harris Hurls Tenth; Mauldin Geth 4 Hits; Crackers Get 3 in 10th

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 24.—The Atlanta Crackers scored three runs in the tenth inning here tonight to defeat the Barons, 5 to 2, and regain the Southern league lead as Chattanooga lost to New Orleans, 14 to 1.

Lefty Clyde Smoll pitched brilliant ball for the champions. He didn't allow a hit for six and two-third innings but weakened slightly in the eighth when the Barons tied the score. He allowed four hits and fanned nine in nine innings.

Smoll was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the tenth and Luman Harris finished up. He was touched for a hit and walk but managed to escape without a run.

THREE UP, THREE DOWN.

Del Savio was the first runner on either team to reach first in three innings. He drew a base on balls. After two were out, Adair forced him at second. Smoll retired the first six Barons to face him in order, striking out Luce and Clancy.

The Crackers got one run out of three hits in the fourth inning after Tubb had retired 10 consecutive batters. The inning opened with Del Savio making a backhand gloved catch of Bolling's liner about a foot off the ground. Rubeling broke up Tubb's pitching spell when he tripled into right center. He scored when Mauldin smashed one by Arkeketa. Mailho dropped a hit into center. Mauldin was thrown out, attempting to steal third. Peters fanned for the second time.

Tubb had work to do to get rid of the Crackers' scoring threat in the fifth. Rucker opened with a single and Oetting struck out. Williams singled into right and took second when Dunlap tried for Rucker going to third. Smoll tried twice to squeeze Rucker in and was finally called out on strikes. The Barons thought it better strategy to walk Mr. Bolling than to pitch to him. Rubeling flied to Luce.

MAULDIN SCORES.

The Crackers got one run and would have gotten two if Del Savio had not made a great play on Oetting's hit, the third one of the inning. Mauldin opened with a single to center and Mailho sent him down on a neat sacrifice. Peters smacked a single into center, scoring Mauldin. Again Richards resorted to a bunt. Rucker dropped the ball down the third-base line and only a rifle throw by Arkeketa got him at first. Del Savio knocked Oetting's hit down back on the grass, preventing Peters from scoring. Arkeketa threw out Williams.

Mauldin saved Smoll a hit in the sixth when he flagged Crouch's grounder and threw him out at first. Tubb hit the first ball out of the infield off of Smoll when he flied to Mailho. Adair became the second Baron to reach first when he worked Smoll for a base on balls. Smoll deflected Ogorek's drive to Peters, who nailed Ogorek at first.

SPOILS NO-HITTER.

The Crackers left three on in the seventh, failing to score on three hits and a base on balls. Smoll led off with a single and Bolling helped the Baronial cause by hitting into a double play. Rubeling singled into center and went to third on Mauldin's third hit of the evening. Mailho walked and Peters popped to Adair.

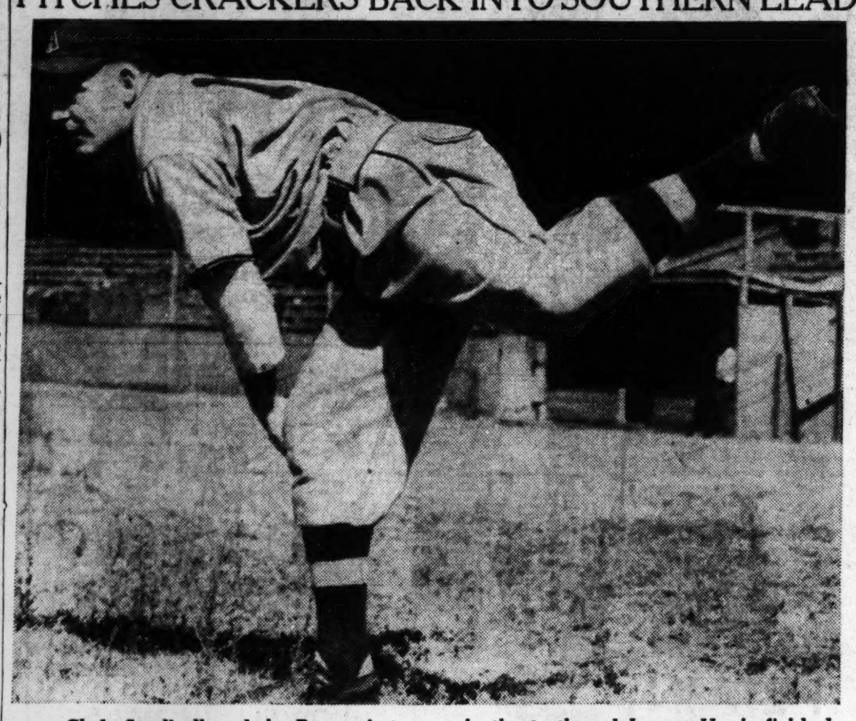

Paul Dunlap broke up Smoll's no-hit game in the seventh after two were out when he smashed a single into left.

The Barons tied the score in the eighth when they bunched three hits. Del Savio led off with a single through the pitcher's box and went to third on Crouch's screaming double to left. Mauldin staved of the Barons tying up the score momentarily when he made a leaping stop of Pinch-Hitter Johnson's high bouncer over third. Jimmy Adair singled into right, scoring Del Savio and Crouch. Smoll recovered his pitching form and fanned both Ogorek and Luce. Luce was Smoll's ninth strikeout victim of the night.

THREE IN TENTH.

The Crackers came up with three runs in the tenth due mostly to wildness on the part of Baronial pitchers. Mauldin beat out a hit to Arkeketa back of third. Mailho sacrificed. George lost his control and walked Peters and Rucker, filling the bases. Carson came in to pitch to Oetting and hit him, forcing in Mauldin. Williams dropped a hit back of Carson's head, scoring Peters. Rucker scored when Del Savio in trying for Williams at first threw wide to Clancy. Richards, batting for Smoll, flied to Luce. Oetting was blocked at the plate by Crouch, who took Luce's throw in and tagged him.

PITCHES CRACKERS BACK INTO SOUTHERN LEAD

Clyde Smoll allowed the Barons just four hits in nine innings last night while the Crackers were winning a ten-inning game to regain first place in the Southern league as Chattanooga lost to New Orleans. Smoll was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the tenth and Luman Harris finished up. Smoll didn't allow a hit for six and two-thirds innings but weakened in the eighth when the Barons scored two runs to knot the count at two-all. He struck out nine men.

BLACK CARDS 29 AT CAPITAL CITY

Charlie Black Jr., former Atlanta amateur champion, tied the back nine Capital City course record Wednesday afternoon with a 29, which added to his 36 on the front nine gave him a 65, five strokes under par.

Black paired with Dr. Cy Strickler Jr. and defeated John Grant Jr. and Bub Bicknell.

On the back nine, Charlie had six birdies and starting with the 13th hole finished with six successive three's.

Mrs. M. F. Bass and Mrs. J. C. Harris entered the finals of the Capital City Ladies' Club handicap tournament with semi-final victories. Mrs. Bass defeated Mrs. Jackson Dick, one up on the 19th green, while Mrs. Harris defeated Mrs. Clark Howell, 3-2.

In the special Wednesday morning ladies play at Capital City, Mrs. Fonville McWhorter won the low net prize, Mrs. L. A. Weaver proved the best putter with only 28 putts for the 18 greens and Mrs. Roy Marsden won the special handicap prize.

HENRY FAVORED.

LONDON, May 24.—(AP)—Henry Armstrong, having sold himself to admiring Britons as a gentleman and scholar, will break out his line of boxing goods tomorrow night and attempt to halt Ernie Roderick's quest for the American negro's world welterweight championship.

RAY STARR SOLD TO FORT WORTH

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 24.—(AP)—President Fay Murray, of the Nashville Vols, announced today that Ray Starr, veteran right-hand pitcher who has been on the club's suspended list for the past 10 days, had been sold to the Fort Worth club of the Texas league, for cash.

Pebs Drop Braxton, Option Signiago.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 24.—(AP)—Al Signiago, young infielder from Memphis who has been with the Little Rock Travelers since the first of the season, was released on option today to Scranton, Pa., of the Eastern league.

Reinstatement of Utility Man Earl Bolyard, release of Garland Braxton, veteran left-hander, and optioning of Signiago reduced the playing roster to 16 men, one under the limit. The club still is looking for another pitcher, infielder or outfielder.

LIGHTHEAVY BILL SLATED TONIGHT

A brand new deal for Atlanta fans in light heavyweight wrestling will be inaugurated tonight at Warren Athletic field, one block from the arena, when three matches featuring outstanding mat stars who never have appeared in this section, will be offered. In event of rain, the show will be staged in the arena. This is the first light heavy outdoor card of the season.

Fans are assured of a first-class card tonight. Joe Gunther, of Nashville, junior heavyweight champion of the south, meets Jack Steele, California, in the 90-minute headliner. Gunther is regarded as a future heavyweight champion of the world.

Art O'Mahony, of Ireland, cousin of the famous Danno, will oppose the masked Red Ace in the semi-final.

Jack Dillin of California, grapples Sid Markus, the Boston Jewish boy, in the first event at 8:30.

Fans have asked for new faces and they are getting them. Regular low summer prices will be in effect.

BROWN KAYOES HOOD IN FOURTH WITH 1-2 PUNCH

Knockout Is First for Billy; Fight Close for Three Rounds.

By THAD HOLT.

Billy Hood will tell you through puffed and cut lips this morning that lightining will strike twice in the same place. Ben Brown, hitting with deadly accuracy and power, knocked Hood out after 1 minute and 15 seconds of the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round fight at the ball park last night.

The smashing finish came suddenly after the crafty and ringwise Floridian had made a fight of it for three rounds. Hood started to throw a right and he is old enough to know better. Brown's one-two punch fell upon him with the power of a falling airplane. Ben's left tore Hood's upper lip wide open. His right smashed with terrific force against Billy's nose. The stricken fighter was down for keeps and his blood covered the floor of the ring.

Billy Hood said he never had been knocked out in more than 150 fights. That one last night was enough to make him hang up his gloves. He almost had his head torn from his body as the Atlanta assassin proved once again that he can outpunch any 160 pounder in the game tdoay.

Brown weighed 159 as against 165 for Hood. The Florida Iarruper was strong and rugged and hard to hit, but in spite of his weaving and bobbing, Brown's rapier-like lefts rarely missed their mark. Ben had a slight edge in each of the first three rounds, but there was no warning of the disaster which lay ahead for the blondish Hood.

The fight brought the handsome Brown one step nearer a return bout with Solly Krieger in Atlanta this summer and indicated that Ben is as fast and as dangerous as he was before he met the world's champion at Miami.

Last night's preliminaries (when the matchmaker finally decided to put the boys in the ring), were lively enough.

Hippo Hipps, former middleweight champion of the United States navy, had too many guns for Joe Apperson, of Cartersville, Ga., and made Joe quit after six bruising rounds, getting credit for a technical kayo.

A wild fight of blood and thunder and one that deserves another booking was staged by Bob Michaels, 183-pound Atlantan, and Billy Leonard, 183 pounds, of Chattanooga. Michaels had a shade the best of it.

Ralph Bollu, of Decatur, outpointed Gene Johnson, Atlanta, in a four-rounder and Tom Campbell outslugged Young Cowley in the curtain-raiser, also a four-rounder.

CONVICTED OFFICER IS FREED ON PAROLE

Former City Policeman Had Not Served Any Part of Sentence.

F. A. Turner, former city policeman who was convicted of accepting a bribe last year, was free on parole yesterday, only two weeks after the court of appeals had upheld his conviction in Fulton criminal court, but before he had served any part of his sentence.

The officer was found guilty and sentenced to 12 months last year for taking money not to arrest unnamed persons in the "bug" racket, but he was found not guilty on two other charges of accepting bribes from two specific persons. His conviction preceded a general investigation by several grand juries which resulted in the indictment of a number of city policemen, former sheriff's deputies, and alleged "big shots" in the "bug racket."

Turner had not served a day of his sentence, it was said. Attaches of the Fulton criminal court were awaiting a remittur from the higher court to send him to a public works camp when notice that he had been paroled by the prison and parole commission was received. He is to report twice monthly to the adult probation office at the courthouse.

86-DEGREE READING PROVES SUMMER HERE

A hot, piercing sun drove the mercury up to 86 degrees yesterday and convinced skeptical Atlantans that summer is here.

The weather forecasters say Old Sol will have a merry little game of hide-and-seek today with the clouds but they predict he'll stay out in the open long enough to register a sizzling 90 degrees on the thermometers.

Yesterday's 86 degrees equalled the high mark for the year. The first 86 was recorded Monday at the downtown weather office.

Though they weigh the same, it's easy to see why it isn't nearly as hard to swing a spade in spring as it is a shovel in winter.

Information

CLOSING HOURS

Want ads are accepted up to 9 p. m. for publication the next day. The closing hour for the Sunday edition is 8:30 p. m., Saturday.

LOCAL CLASSIFIED RATES

Daily and Sunday rates per line for consecutive insertions:

1 time, per line 27 cents
3 times, per line 20 cents
7 times, per line 18 cents
30 times, per line 14 cents
10% Discount for Cash

Minimum: 2 lines (11 words).

In estimating the space to an ad figure 5 average words for first line and 6 average words for each additional line.

Ads ordered for three or seven days and stopped before expiration will only be charged for the number of times the ad appeared and adjustments made at the rate earned.

Errors in advertisements, should be reported immediately. The Constitution will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

All Want Ads are restricted to their proper classification and The Constitution reserves the right to revise or reject any advertisement.

In answering advertisements, never send original letters of recommendations, as they are seldom, if ever, returned. Always send copies.

Ads ordered by telephone are accepted from persons listed in the telephone or city directories on memorandum charge only. In return for this courtesy the advertiser is expected to remit promptly.

P

TARZAN AND THE FIRES OF TOHR No. 76

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The fugitives seemed trapped. Behind them the voices of the yellow men drew nearer. Ahead, the guardian leopard growled. "I believe the beast is chained beside the entrance to a branch passage," said Perry. "Right," answered Tarzan, "and that's where we're going!"

"But—but that terrible brute will kill us. We can't even pass him, much less get into the passage," Janette answered. "All of you stay here," Tarzan directed, "and I'll take care of the leopard. When I call, dash for the tunnel as quickly as you can."

Then Tarzan walked straight toward the beast. His friends watched with bated breath. Not only Tarzan's life, but their own, was at stake. Without him as guide and defender, their doom could not be long delayed. The terrified Janette drew close to Perry O'Rourke.

The great black jungle terror snarled savagely as he sank slowly to the floor, gathering himself for the spring. The cruel yellow eyes blazed evilly. Undaunted, the ape-man advanced. Then suddenly, with a blood-chilling scream of rage, the beast bounded forward!

ITALY CONSTRUCTS ATLANTIC CLIPPER

Plane Is Fascist Bid for Ocean Travel.

ROME, May 24.—(AP)—Aviation sources disclosed today Italy is preparing to bid for transatlantic passenger travel with a four-motored, 40-passenger monoplane which has been completed at Trieste and is awaiting installation of motors.

The new ship, designed to rival America's big Clipper planes, is technically described as a Cant Z512. Reports are it will have a top speed of about 310 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 250 miles an hour. It will carry a load of 30 tons.

It may take the air in December or January with a maiden flight to New York.

Man Has Been Providing a Roof Over the Heads of His Family

The first efforts were very crude, of course, but with the years, more thought was given to dependability and permanance.

Today, every home owner demands a good roof, and White is applying a substantial percentage of them, because—

Ford's Copper Bound Shingles combined with White's CORRECT Service makes the best roofing job obtainable.
